Message from the Commissioner

Dear Volunteer:

It is my pleasure to welcome you as a tax assistance volunteer. I believe you will find your experience truly rewarding, whether you are a first-time or a veteran volunteer. You will be providing a very valuable service assisting individuals who most probably would find paid tax assistance out of reach. These people include those who have a limited income, have disabilities, are non-English speaking, or are elderly. Your assistance will most certainly facilitate the filing of their returns to help them qualify for any tax benefits to which they may be entitled, and meet their tax responsibilities.

Each year, more and more taxpayers across the country benefit from the efforts of volunteers like you. During the 1990 Federal tax season, over two million taxpayers were assisted by Internal Revenue Service volunteers. I am hopeful that this year even more taxpayers will benefit from the services available from IRS volunteers. You can help us reach more people by not only telling your friends and neighbors about the free tax help that you offer, but also about the opportunities that exist for those who would like to volunteer.

Our nation has grown into what it is today through the efforts of people like you. I thank you for continuing the American tradition of neighbors helping neighbors.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

Fred T. Goldberg, Jr.

Introduction

The Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) and Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Programs are designed to provide free tax assistance to persons who may not be able to obtain professional tax help.

The TCE Program provides free tax assistance to elderly persons. Assistance is provided at community locations or at the homes of individuals who cannot travel because of a handicap or other condition.

The VITA Program provides free tax assistance to persons with special needs. Volunteers assist people with basic tax returns. This program is directed particularly to individuals needing assistance, such as non-English speaking, handicapped, and older individuals. Volunteers provide assistance at community locations.

As a volunteer, you will be helping individuals with the preparation of their tax returns. Your role is two-fold: you will teach taxpayers to prepare their own returns, and you will prepare returns for those who are unable to do so themselves. Many taxpayers will be able to prepare their tax returns in the future after acquiring the basic skills at a tax assistance site. Under this self-help assistance, taxpayers prepare their own returns with the help of a volunteer assistor. As an assistor, you will "walk through" the return line-by-line to teach taxpayers how to complete their own returns. Individuals who are unable to participate in self-help may have their returns prepared by direct assistance. In this case the volunteer will complete the return. Instructions for volunteer assistance are provided in this guide.

You should assist only with returns and supporting schedules and forms for which you have been trained. When you go beyond your training you risk making errors and causing difficulties for those you wish to help. Refer taxpayers with difficult returns that are beyond the scope of your training to appropriate IRS publications or to an IRS office, or suggest they seek the assistance of a professional preparer.

This guide is written as a self-instructional tool although it most often will be used in a classroom situation. The lessons on forms preparation generally follow the sequence of completing the return. Each section of the tax return is addressed and line-by-line instructions enable you to "walk through" the return. New tax law information is highlighted. Exercises and answers are provided in each lesson so you can determine if you are learning the material.

Training is presented in four modules: Procedures and Techniques (Module I), Forms 1040A and 1040EZ (Module II), Form 1040 (Module III), and Elderly and Advanced Topics (Module IV). All volunteers must complete Module I. Volunteers should study Modules II, III, or IV depending on the tax needs of the individuals they will be helping. In Module III, you will study only a basic Form 1040 that includes itemized deductions, the earned income credit, and the credit for child and disabled dependent care expenses. Volunteers assisting the elderly will study Module IV. It contains lessons on subjects that are generally of interest to the elderly. You may need to complete or review Modules II and III before beginning Module IV. Volunteers assisting members of the military personnel will study the Military Supplement, Publication 678M. Publication 17, Your Federal Income Tax, will be used by all volunteers as a reference guide, along with the instructions for preparing Forms 1040, 1040A, and 1040EZ.

To ensure a high quality of service for all volunteer assistance, volunteers are asked to take the appropriate tests and achieve a minimum score. Volunteers will take only the section of the test for which they have been trained: Module II, Module III, or Module IV. All volunteers, however, will take the test for Module I. The tests cover the objectives of the course. Volunteers who do not pass a test may take the re-test or elect to participate in some other program activity such as site administration or publicity coordination. Once your training is completed, IRS will continue to provide technical assistance to you. A special toll-free Hotline—1-(800) 829-8482—is available for volunteers to call for technical information while assisting at the sites. So that the IRS may collect statistical data for future program planning, volunteers are asked to identify the federal returns they prepare. Forms 1040EZ, 1040A, and 1040 directly prepared by TCE or VITA volunteers should be identified with "TCE" or "VITA" in the "Paid Preparer's" block. This can be done by using preprinted TCE and VITA forms or by writing "TCE" or "VITA" boldly in the block on the form. Returns prepared during self-help assistance should be identified as "TCE-X" or as "VITA-T." Additional information is contained in the lesson on finishing the return.

Volunteers will provide other types of assistance as well. For example, you may prepare taxpayers' state and local returns, answer their tax-related questions or help with basic Forms W-4. Because a record of all services provided by volunteers helps us determine the scope of assistance you provide, we would appreciate it if you would complete a Volunteer Assistance Worksheet (Form 6522) each day you work at a site. Your coordinator will send the worksheets to the Taxpayer Education Coordinator each day. Information on how to complete Form 6522 can be found in the lesson on administrative procedures.

During this training and while working as a volunteer, do not hesitate to contact the IRS for assistance. Our objective is to provide a quality service. By working together, we can really help those who need assistance.

In addition to this coursebook, Publication 17, Your Federal Income Tax, and the instructions to Forms 1040, 1040A, and 1040EZ, the following publications may be useful.

Publication 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information

Rounding off. A good way to limit math or transcribing errors is to round off all money items on returns to whole dollars. If you decide to round off, you must do so with all entries on the return and schedules you prepare. This means that you drop amounts less than 50 cents, and increase amounts from 50 to 99 cents to the next dollar. If taxpayers come to you with questions, but plan on preparing their own returns, please explain to them how they can make their task a bit easier by rounding off to whole dollars.

New items are identified by a star (★) in the left margin.

Special Note

Some of the forms that are exhibited in this publication may be proof copies which are current as of the date this publication was sent to print. If we were to wait until all the forms were in final format, we would not be able to train volunteers on time. Be sure to compare the final forms with those in this publication before you help taxpayers with their returns.

How to Use the Coursebook

Introduction

The TCE and VITA Programs will enable you to help taxpayers with the accurate preparation of Forms 1040A, 1040EZ, and 1040. The Volunteer Assistor's Guide is your guide to passing the test (or retest) and becoming a volunteer. The coursebook is divided into four sections, or modules:

Module I—Procedures and Techniques

Module II—Forms 1040A and 1040EZ

Module III—Form 1040

Module IV—Elderly and Advanced Topics

There are two ways to complete the training program and become a volunteer:

1. By attending a class (usually a minimum of 4 or 5 days) and passing the test or retest; or
2. By completing the Volunteer Assistor's Guide on your own (self-instruction) and passing the test or retest.

The sequence of lessons in the Table of Contents generally follows the same order you will use to complete a return once you reach the volunteer site. In a few instances this does not exactly parallel the order of the tax form itself. For example, while the entity section (taxpayer's name, address, and social security number) appears first on the form, it is in the lesson on Finishing the Return, since it is one of the last things to do in completing the return. (For example, did you ever try to pull off one of the stick-on labels after you had found an error on the return?)

Note: The coursebook contains a large number of exhibits of the various tax forms and schedules. These exhibits are numbered starting at the beginning of each lesson. Many of the exercises contain exhibits of blank forms that you must complete. The Answers to the Exercises section at the end of each lesson contains the filled-in form with an exhibit number that corresponds to the number of the blank form that you completed for that exercise. For example, if the blank form for an exercise is labeled as Exhibit 3, the answer to that exercise will be labeled Exhibit 3, filled-in.

Classroom

If you participate in a class, it is important to try to attend all training sessions. This will make mastering the material easier for you. Your instructor may ask you to read parts of the guide in class, and may decide to summarize other parts for you and have you do the reading on your own. The night before class is a good time to read over the lessons you know you'll be covering. This will familiarize you with the material and will make the instructor's explanation and the classroom session more meaningful.

You're always free to read lessons before they are covered in class, to read them again after the lesson has been taught, and to re-work any exercise.

Exercises—It is important that you take the time to do the exercises in order to achieve the objectives in each lesson. Studies have shown that long-term retention of information increases dramatically if you put pencil to paper in responding to questions and problems. The Volunteer Assistor's Guide is your learning tool and you may mark it up in any way you wish.

Exercises are marked in the left column to call your attention to them and remind you that here's a good time to check your learning. Write out your answer and then check it immediately against the one at the end of the lesson. If you have something different, check your answer again and reread any parts of the text that apply if you don't understand.

The exercises are to give you practice, to emphasize what we think is important, and to help you complete your training successfully.

Self-Instruction

When doing self-instruction, it is important to work steadily. The speed at which people work varies widely. We estimate that people new to taxes require anywhere from 20–40 hours to complete Module II. Whether you use more or less time is not critical, since your goal is to achieve the course objectives and pass the test. We also estimate that it may take 30–45 hours to complete Module III, and 20–40 hours for Module IV. Module I should take 1–2 hours to complete.

It is even more important to work the exercises if you are completing the course on your own. Remember to check your answer immediately. If you have something different from ours, check your answer again and reread any parts of the text that apply.

The Test

All volunteers take the applicable tests to show they can complete returns accurately. You may use the Guide and all reference materials to complete the tests. Volunteers who do not pass a test may take the appropriate retest.

Five tests are included in the test booklet. Everyone should take the test for Module I. Then you should take each test that applies to you.

Part I—Module I and General Tax Questions

Part II—Form 1040A and Form 1040EZ

Part III—Form 1040

Part IV—Elderly and Advanced Topics

Part V—Test for Quality Reviewers

Passing Part II of the test or retest certifies you to help prepare Form 1040A and Form 1040EZ. You do not need to take any more tests if your instruction is limited to Form 1040A and Form 1040EZ.

Passing Part III certifies you for Form 1040 preparation.

Passing Part IV certifies you for preparation of the forms and schedules covered in Elderly and Advanced Topics. You need to take Parts II and III of the test even if you take Part IV.

Instructions on the taking and grading of the test are in the test booklets. There is a separate answer booklet that you should return to be corrected.

Free Assistance

You as a volunteer cannot and do not charge for your services. This includes tax advice and return preparation. You may at times need to remind taxpayers that the assistance is free.

Taxpayers' Rights

Assisting taxpayers includes helping make sure that they are aware of their rights. IRS distributes Publication 1, "Your Rights as a Taxpayer," free of charge. The publication clarifies taxpayers' rights at each step in the tax process. If the individuals you assist have any questions about their rights, please make sure they obtain a copy at your VITA or TCE site, or be sure to let them know that a copy of Publication 1 is theirs for the asking by calling IRS toll-free at 1-800-829 (TAX)-3676 (FORM). Taxpayers can help ensure they receive fair treatment in tax matters when they know what their rights are.

Introduction

You will soon learn how to help taxpayers complete their Form 1040EZ, Form 1040A, and a basic Form 1040. However, several administrative procedures concerning reporting and quality review also require your attention. They are important enough to be taught first.

Confidentiality and Integrity

As a volunteer tax assistor you have a special public trust to maintain the integrity of anyone privy to confidential information. Those taxpayers who seek your assistance place a high degree of confidence in you. Please remember that volunteers are prohibited from accepting compensation from the taxpayer for preparing a federal tax return and otherwise assisting the taxpayer with his or her tax situation. VITA and TCE assistance is free tax assistance. Because of this trust and confidence, you cannot disclose any tax return information you learn as a result of the assistance provided.

Identifying Returns

For training and statistical purposes, IRS asks that federal returns prepared in the TCE and VITA Programs be identified. Forms will be available for use by volunteers and will have "TCE" or "VITA" preprinted in the paid preparer's block. You are asked to print "TCE" or "VITA," as appropriate, boldly in the Paid Preparer's block (under the signature line on Form 1040EZ) or to use the preprinted forms that are available from the Taxpayer Education Coordinator.

If the return is prepared during a self-help session, write an "-X" after TCE or a "-T" after "VITA." If the preprinted forms are not available at your site, you should write "TCE" or "VITA" if you give direct help, or "TCE-X" or "VITA-T." Write the designation through both lines in the preparer's block on Forms 1040A and 1040, and under the signature line on Form 1040EZ. You may also enter your site number on the designated line directly under, and to the right of, "VITA" or "TCE."

Form 1040EZ is currently designed for optical scanning. As previously mentioned, Forms 1040EZ, 1040A, and 1040 will be overprinted with the VITA/TCE acronyms. If you do not have an overprinted 1040EZ, it will be necessary to write "VITA," "VITA-T," "TCE," or "TCE-X" on the form and enter a number in the "For IRS Use Only" box at the bottom of the form. The optical scanner reads numbers only. The numbers to be entered in the "For IRS Use Only" box at the bottom of the form are:

VITA	TCE
VITA-T—5	TCE-X—7

The VITA or TCE designation identifies the return as one of thousands prepared in the volunteer programs. Internal Revenue Service Centers count the number of returns prepared by volunteers nationwide, as well as the number of mathematical and procedural errors. No individual records are kept of volunteers' errors. The information is used to plan the program and revise training materials to keep up VITA/TCE's high quality. Returns you identify as VITA or TCE should be substantially (over 50%) prepared by you. You should be reasonably sure that taxpayers will file the return as you prepare it. If you answer questions to help a taxpayer prepare his or her own return, do not mark the return VITA/TCE. Schedules and attachments need not be identified.

VITA or TCE identification does not alter your role as a volunteer assistor. Preparers are usually paid tax professionals and are subject to various IRS regulations. Paid preparers must sign their names and identification numbers on returns. Volunteers receive no pay or compensation for their services and are not legally liable for the return. If the taxpayer asks about the designation, you should explain that it is a way to count the return as one of many prepared through the volunteer program. Identifying volunteer returns does not affect the likelihood of an IRS examination (audit) of the taxpayer's return. You may at this time also need to remind the taxpayer that the volunteer assistance is free.

Returns marked with the VITA or TCE designation are counted to see how many returns are prepared. As a volunteer, you will also give other types of assistance. You may prepare state and local tax returns, help with basic Forms W-4, or answer tax-related questions. Therefore, you are asked to complete Volunteer Assistance Worksheets each day you work at a site. Complete a line for each taxpayer you help.

You can record assistance for 20 taxpayers on one worksheet. Be sure to check the box indicating "TCE," "VITA," or "LIBRARY" assistance. Complete instructions are on the back of the worksheet.

- Please fill in one line for each assistance effort. If someone asks you for assistance for several people, you will complete a separate line for each one.
- Slash the number in the "Taxpayers" column.
- If you provide assistance on a "Married filing joint return," place a check in the "Married Filing Joint Returns" column.
- If you complete "Individual federal tax returns," place a check in the "Individual Federal Returns" column.
- If you prepare one or more state and/or local returns, enter the number of returns prepared in the "State and Local Returns column.
- If someone only asks a question or asks you to review a return, place a check in the "Other Assistance" column.
- At the bottom of each column on the "Totals" line, add the numbers, checks, or slashes for each column.

BPOL Program

- Please slash a number in the "Taxpayers" column for each assistance effort.
- If you provide assistance with forms and/or publications, place a check in the "Other Assistance" column.

The example shows that a volunteer provided the following assistance. Taxpayer #1 was assisted with an Individual Federal and with a State and Local Return; #2 with Other Assistance (e.g., review of a Federal and state return already prepared or answering a question; and #3 with a "Married Filing Joint Return," Other Assistance and a State and Local Return.

Please return the completed form to the IRS District Office, using a Quality Review envelope, and checking the "REPORTS" box in the lower left corner.

Department of the Treasury
Internal Revenue Service
Form 6522 (Rev. 9-90)

Volunteers return the worksheets to the IRS district office as directed, or the site coordinator may collect and mail them. Volunteer Assistance Worksheets should be mailed in a preaddressed quality review envelope (explained below), with the "REPORTS" box checked in the lower left corner. It is important that you complete these worksheets accurately and return them promptly so we can keep a complete record of all TCE and VITA assistance.

Quality Service

Quality service to taxpayers is the goal of TCE and VITA. It is important to check your work for accuracy. Use a calculator to verify mathematical computations. The Earned Income Credit Job Aid and Table will help you figure this credit. If you are uncertain of any tax subject, refer to this coursebook and Publication 17, consult the technical backup at the site, or call the Volunteer Hotline (described later).

Onsite Quality Review

The site coordinator should establish an onsite quality review program to review returns before they are returned to the taxpayer. Reviewing completed returns could prevent the taxpayer from receiving an error notice from IRS. One volunteer should be designated as a quality reviewer or, at smaller sites, you may review each other's work.

District Office Quality Review Program

Under the IRS Quality Review Program, district offices will make a random review of TCE and VITA returns for taxpayers who send in their returns for this purpose and are not making a payment. Preaddressed envelopes with the district office address will be available at the sites. You should offer an envelope to all taxpayers, except when a payment is required, for use in mailing their completed returns.

The Taxpayer Education Coordinator will receive the results of the quality review. The coordinator will provide feedback to all volunteers to alert them to the kinds of errors that are being made. This is not designed to evaluate individual volunteers. No individual records are kept. The purpose is to identify error trends early in the filing season so they can be corrected. This will help to maintain the high quality of volunteer service.

Using the district office quality review envelope could delay processing of the return for a few days. If a taxpayer decides to mail the return directly to the service center, provide the address if he or she does not have the tax package envelope. Offer the district office envelope to the taxpayer first. If the taxpayer asks, explain that using the district office envelope will not make an examination more likely or otherwise affect the return, and that after the return is reviewed at the district office, it is sent to the service center.

Volunteer Hotline

A special toll-free hotline is available for volunteers to call for technical help. Identify yourself as a TCE or VITA volunteer when you call. This number is for technical information only. Send any order for forms or schedules through the IRS Taxpayer Education Coordinator or usual channels. The special Hotline phone number for the coming tax filing season is 1-(800) 829-8482 (829-VITA) except in Alaska and Hawaii. Do not give the number to taxpayers. The dates of operation and schedule of hours will be announced by your instructor in training class or by the Taxpayer Education Coordinator.

Volunteer Assistance Techniques

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Interview people so that their Forms 1040EZ, 1040A, or 1040 can be completed accurately.
2. Guide taxpayers line-by-line through the tax return to help them prepare their own Forms 1040EZ, 1040A, or 1040.

Self-Help Assistance Techniques

Introduction

As a volunteer in the Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) Program and the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Program, you will be providing a vital service in helping people prepare their tax returns. Volunteer assistance includes teaching people to prepare their own Forms 1040EZ, 1040A, or 1040. Many taxpayers will be able to prepare their tax returns in the future after acquiring basic skills from you at a volunteer site. This is why you may be offering self-help assistance, which invites taxpayers to prepare their own returns under your direction. Persons who cannot take part in self-help assistance will receive direct assistance. In this case, you will complete the return.

You should be familiar with certain interviewing techniques to help taxpayers. If you direct self-help assistance, you will also need to learn specialized techniques for this purpose. Interviewing techniques and self-help techniques are discussed in this lesson. Please read all the appropriate sections before you begin to assist taxpayers.

Interviewing Techniques

Your success as a volunteer will depend on your ability to establish rapport and interview taxpayers effectively. First, it is important to put taxpayers at ease. You will go on to ask questions to determine all the benefits and credits they may take. For example, many taxpayers are not aware of the earned income credit or child care credit. When the return is completed, you may need to tell taxpayers to sign and date the return and mail it to the Internal Revenue Service. Interviewing techniques are summarized here in three stages: introductory, questioning, and summary.

Introductory Stage

At this stage, it is important to establish good taxpayer relations. Greet each person you will be helping in a friendly way and introduce yourself. Smile and make eye contact. Wear your volunteer badge. It will let the taxpayer know who you are and that you are a volunteer. If anyone has waited for a long time, apologize for the delay. Many people are nervous when it is time to prepare their income tax returns, so take a few minutes to chat informally if necessary. Always practice the essence of courtesy—a good humor and a readiness to help. If a taxpayer starts complaining, don't take it personally. Listen to the entire complaint. Don't interrupt—that will only make the taxpayer more upset.

Questioning Stage

As an interviewer, you should control the conversation and keep the taxpayer from asking endless unrelated tax questions. It will be helpful to follow these guidelines:

— Phrase questions very clearly and avoid asking multiple questions.
— Listen carefully to the person's response and be patient.
— Repeat questions if necessary. Keep in mind that not everyone understands technical tax terms.
— To the extent possible, explain the return as it is completed so as to teach taxpayers how to prepare their own returns.
— Encourage people to ask questions, if they do not understand.
— If you cannot answer a question, say, "I don't know, but I'll try to find out."
— Research difficult questions in available publications, consult the technical backup at the site, or call the Volunteer Hotline.

It is important to use probing techniques to obtain the tax information that will enable people to claim all the benefits they may take. Following are examples of probing questions you should ask to show taxpayers which return to file and which credits to take.

— Do you pay a babysitter so both you and your spouse may work? If so, you may be eligible for the child care credit.
— Since you are itemizing, did you include transportation expenses in figuring your total medical expenses and charitable contributions on Schedule A? Do you pay for a safety deposit box to store income-producing items such as stocks and bonds? Did you pay someone to prepare your tax return last year? Did you pay union dues, uniform expenses, or have a casualty or theft loss?
— Did you withdraw money from a time savings certificate or certificate of deposit before it matured?
— Did you put any money into an individual retirement arrangement (IRA)? You have until April 15, 1991, to make a contribution to an IRA and claim an adjustment to income for 1990.
— Since you file as single and claim a dependent child, you may be eligible to file as head of household.
— Did your child live with you for more than half the year?
— Since your adjusted gross income is less than $20,264, you may be eligible for the earned income credit. Please answer the questions from the earned income credit worksheet.

Summary Stage

When the return is complete, you will need to give the taxpayers some additional information. If they have overpaid, explain that a refund will generally be mailed within 10 weeks after the return is filed. If taxpayers plan to move, alert them to notify their old post office and the Internal Revenue Service Center so that a refund can be sent as quickly as possible. Advise them to include their social security number in any correspondence with the Internal Revenue Service.

If a balance is due, advise taxpayers to send the check or money order, payable to the Internal Revenue Service, with the return. Instruct taxpayers to include their social security number, daytime telephone number, form number, and tax year on the front of the check or money order. For example, write "1990 Form 1040." Caution taxpayers not to mail cash with their returns.

Have the individuals sign and date their returns. If the return is to be filed jointly and the spouse is not present, remind the person to have his or her spouse sign the return also.

Explain the purpose of the TCE or VITA designation on the return. Tell taxpayers that it is used to identify the return as one of thousands prepared by volunteers like you. Internal Revenue Service Centers count these returns to let the volunteer programs know the total number of TCE and VITA returns prepared nationwide and the quality of these returns. This information is used to plan the program and revise training materials to keep up the high quality of volunteer-prepared returns. If anyone asks, assure him or her that the TCE/ VITA designation does not affect the likelihood of an IRS examination (audit) of the return.

Offer the taxpayer a postage-paid quality review envelope to mail the return, except when a payment is required. If an individual decides to mail the return directly to the Service Center, you should give him or her the address, if the tax package envelope is not available. If a payment is required, the return should be mailed directly to the Service Center for processing.

Instruct taxpayers to mail the return by April 15. Do not accept the responsibility of mailing a taxpayer's return.

If you cannot complete the return, refer the individual to an IRS publication, office, or suggest seeking a professional preparer's assistance.

Ask taxpayers if they have any last questions. Return all tax materials and give them a copy of the return for their records. Do not keep a copy.

If a taxpayer needs a copy of a prior year return, it may be obtained from the Internal Revenue Service Center where the return was filed by completing Form 4506, Request for Copy of Tax Form.

Thank taxpayers for visiting the site.

Remember to respect the taxpayer's privacy and keep the information you have learned confidential.

Self-Help Assistance Techniques

The self-help concept of returns preparation invites taxpayers to prepare their own returns under the direction of a volunteer assistor. The assistor "walks through" the return line-by-line with taxpayers. The taxpayer, rather than the volunteer, actually prepares the return. Self-help assistance will generally be used for Forms 1040EZ and 1040A; however, it may be appropriate at times for Form 1040 as well.

Your Role in Self-Help

Your role in self-help is that of instructor rather than preparer. As an instructor, you must be able to control the direction of the instruction and the time allotted for the taxpayer to complete his or her own return completely, accurately, and efficiently. It is important for you to be organized to avoid confusing the taxpayer. Answer each taxpayer question clearly and concisely. However, take care to avoid long, time-consuming discussions on individual situations, because they may slow the progress of other taxpayers.

Your positive attitude as an instructor is essential to the success of the self-help technique. You must believe in self-help for it to work effectively. You should be able, through your own commitment, to promote the taxpayer's cooperation in the program. Your enthusiasm will motivate taxpayers. Convey your confidence that they are able to prepare their own returns.

Preparing for Self-Help Assistance

Publicity

With the help of the IRS Public Affairs Office, publicize the availability of self-help assistance so that taxpayers will not be taken by surprise. It is easier to work with a receptive taxpayer who expects to participate actively in preparing the return. Posters may be displayed telling taxpayers about self-help assistance. Direct assistance should be available for those who cannot take part in self-help assistance.

Facilities

Be familiar with the area where self-help assistance will be offered. Is there enough space and equipment to assemble a group preparing returns and to give taxpayers privacy? Is there a waiting area, if necessary?

Materials Needed

Use the checklist below to be sure that all supplies, equipment, and training aids are available.

Self-Help Assistance Checklist

Supplies and equipment:

1. Pens and pencils
2. Scratch paper
3. TCE or VITA overprinted returns and carbon paper
4. Tables or desks
5. Wastebaskets
6. Staplers
7. Volunteer Assistance Worksheets
8. Quality Review Envelopes
9. Earned Income Credit Job Aid
10. List of assistance sites: direct and self-help

Instructor aids:

1. Tax form blowups
2. Chalkboard and chalk
3. Easel
4. Pointer or ruler
5. Publication 17 and appropriate reference materials
6. Instructions for Forms 1040, 1040A, and 1040EZ
7. Volunteer Assistor's Guide
8. Calculator

Self-Help Methods

Basically, there are two methods of self-help:

1. Group-paced method
   —Classroom
   —Small group
2. Individually paced method

The main difference is that under the group method each taxpayer works at the same pace, while under the individual method each taxpayer works at his or her own pace. The group-paced method has two variations, including the classroom approach and the small group approach. The individually paced method is best accomplished in a small group. The method used will largely depend on the type of returns being prepared.

Group-Paced Method

Classroom. Taxpayers prepare their returns in groups of up to 20 persons in a somewhat formal classroom situation. This method is particularly suitable for preparing Form 1040EZ and Form 1040A. Two volunteers can participate in this method, one as instructor and one as the roving assistant. As instructor, you will explain the return while the roving assistant is available to answer individual questions. Remember, keep things simple and avoid written instructions whenever possible. Check occasionally to see that everyone is proceeding at the same pace. Allow time for a taxpayer to catch up if necessary.

Use the blowup of Form 1040EZ or 1040A to go through the form line-by-line and explain each entry. Leave the name and address lines until last in case an error is made on the return. When you work with Form 1040A, you may find it helpful to explain the exemptions section before filing status because of the relation of these two topics. Complete your instructions through line 28c, earned income credit. Remember, the credit for child and dependent care expenses, credit for the elderly or the disabled, and estimated tax payments are available on Form 1040A. At this point, explain the requirements for the earned income credit using the worksheet in the instructions for Form 1040A and credit for the elderly or the disabled on Schedule 3. If taxpayers in the group can take the credits, allow time to guide them line-by-line through the worksheet and schedules. When you assist with Form 1040EZ, specify what lines are for entering wages, and interest income. For either Form 1040EZ or Form 1040A, go through the tax computation and advise taxpayers to check the tables twice. At this time taxpayers may attach the preaddressed mailing label, if available, or complete the taxpayer identification section. Taxpayers should then sign and date the return.

Small group. The procedure for this method should be basically the same as for the classroom method, except that you will deal with a smaller group and will probably not be helped by a roving assistant. About three to five taxpayers can be helped this way. Here it is essential to keep your explanations simple and answer taxpayers' questions concisely to avoid delaying the progress of the group.

Individually Paced Method

The individually paced method is best accomplished with individuals or in a small group, preferably three to five taxpayers. This method is appropriate for Form 1040 preparation. As instructor, you may wish to cover certain common topics (such as filing status, exemptions, and Form W-2) as a group. Taxpayers would then complete the return at their own pace and you would help each one individually. Another alternative is to allow taxpayers to begin their returns as soon as they arrive at the site and complete the entire return themselves. In this situation, filers could be assisted simultaneously.

This method is especially useful when a low volume of taxpayers does not warrant holding sessions separately. Whatever method you offer, you may adapt it slightly to meet the needs of your specific group.

Quality Review of Self-Help Assistance

All returns prepared by taxpayers should be reviewed for math accuracy and completeness before they leave the site. If a roving assistant is available, he or she might perform the quality review. When reviewing the forms, refer to the Quality Review Checklists in the Finishing the Return lessons of Modules II or III. If you have any questions on conducting self-help assistance, contact your Taxpayer Education Coordinator.

Which form should I use?

There are three tax returns for individuals: Form 1040EZ, Form 1040A, an[illegible]orm 1040. You may use Form 1040 if you want to, but you will probably save time if you are able to

	Filing status	Number of exemptions	Taxable income	Only income from
Form 1040EZ	Single (under 65 and not blind)	No more than one personal exemption for yourself	Only taxable income (line 5) of less than $50,000	• Wages, salaries, tips • Taxable scholarships and fellowships • Interest of $400 or less
Form 1040A	• Single • Married filing joint • Married filing separate • Head of household • Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child	All exemptions that you are entitled to claim	Only taxable income (line 22) of less than $50,000	• Wages, salaries, tips • Taxable scholarships and fellowships • Interest • Dividends • Pensions, annuities, and IRAs • Unemployment compensation • Taxable social security and railroad retirement benefits
Form 1040	• Single • Married filing joint • Married filing separate • Head of household • Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child	All exemptions that you are entitled to claim	Any amount of taxable income (line 37)	• Wages, salaries, tips • Taxable scholarships and fellowships • Interest • Dividends • Taxable social security and railroad retirement benefits • Unemployment compensation • Self-employment • Rents and royalties • Pensions, annuities, and IRAs • Taxable state and local income tax refunds • Capital gains • Gain from the sale of your home • Alimony received • All other sources

When must I use Form 1040?

You must use Form 1040 if:

1. You received any of the following types of income:
    - Self-employment income.
    - Certain tips you did not report to your employer.
    - Capital gain distributions or nontaxable distributions.
    - Alaska Permanent Fund dividends.
    - Income received as a partner in a partnership, shareholder in an S corporation, or a beneficiary of an estate or trust.
2. You received or paid interest on securities transferred between interest payment dates.
3. You were a nonresident alien at any time in 1990 and do not file a joint return.

use Form 1040EZ or Form 1040A instead. However, some people must use Form 1040, as explained below. The chart on these pages will help you decide which form to use.

Adjustments to income	Itemized deductions	Other taxes	Tax credits
No adjustments to income	No itemized deductions	No other taxes	No tax credits
Only the deduction for certain contributions to an IRA (including nondeductible contributions to an IRA)	No itemized deductions	Only advance earned income credit (AEIC) payments	Only: • Earned income credit • Credit for child and dependent care expenses (Schedule 2) • Credit for the elderly or the disabled (Schedule 3)
All adjustments to income: • Alimony paid • Penalty for early withdrawal of savings • Deduction for certain contributions to an IRA or Keogh plan (including nondeductible contributions to an IRA) • Deduction for self-employed health insurance • Deduction for self-employment tax • All other adjustments	All itemized deductions (Use Schedule A): • State and local income taxes • Real estate taxes • Interest paid • Gifts to charity • Medical and dental expenses • Casualty and theft losses • Moving expenses • Miscellaneous deductions	All other taxes: • Advance earned income credit (AEIC) payments • Self-employment tax • Tax on qualified retirement plans (including IRAs) • Alternative minimum tax • Social security tax on tips not reported to your employer • Uncollected social security tax on tips shown on your Form W-2 • All other income taxes	All tax credits: • Earned income credit • Credit for child and dependent care expenses • Credit for the elderly or the disabled • General business credit • Foreign tax credit • Credit for prior year minimum tax • Credit for Federal tax on fuels • Mortgage interest credit • All other credits

4. You can exclude either of the following types of income:
   - Foreign earned income you received as a U.S. citizen or resident alien.
   - Certain income received from sources in a U.S. possession if you were a bona fide resident of American Samoa for all of 1990.
5. You are a Federal, state, or local government employee or a railroad employee representative and you can take a credit for excess Medicare (hospital insurance benefits) tax you paid in 1990.
6. You were a grantor of, or transferor to, a foreign trust, OR you had a financial account in a foreign country (such as a bank account or securities account).
7. You were an employee of a church or a church-controlled organization that is exempt from employer social security taxes and you received wages of $100 or more.
8. You are reporting original issue discount (OID) in an amount more or less than the amount shown on Form 1099-OID.

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

Form 1040EZ is the simplest form that can be filed. Taxpayers should use it if they can. Much of what you will learn later in Module II in areas such as the Presidential Election Campaign Fund, the Tax Table, and the address label, also applies to Form 1040EZ. Be sure to read instructions for the form on how to fill in amounts.

Report on line 1 the total wages, salaries, and tips that the taxpayer received whether or not the taxpayer has a Form W-2 for the amount.

If the taxpayer received tax-exempt interest, be sure to report it on Form 1040EZ. In the space to the left of line 2, write "TEI" and show the amount of the taxpayer's tax-exempt interest. However, do not add this interest to the total on line 2.

Most taxpayers will check the "No" box after the question in line 4. For these taxpayers, you will enter $5,300 on line 4. This amount is the taxpayer's combined standard deduction of $3,250 and personal exemption of $2,050. However, if the taxpayer checks the "Yes" box after the question in line 4, you must fill out the worksheet under the Report your income section of the separate Instructions for Form 1040EZ. Line E of the worksheet will tell you what amount to enter on line 4.

Who Can Use Form 1040EZ

A taxpayer can use Form 1040EZ only if all the following apply:

1. The filing status is single.
2. The taxpayer is not age 65 or over or blind.
3. The taxpayer claims no exemptions for dependents.
4. Taxable income is less than $50,000.
5. All income is wages, salaries, tips, taxable scholarships, and interest.
6. Interest income is $400 or less.
7. The taxpayer does not make any adjustments to income, does not itemize deductions, and claims a credit only for withheld income tax.

Example

Paul G. Waite gives you the following information about himself.

Social security number—647-00-4379
Address—123 Second St., Beau View, Iowa 63497
Age—27
Single
He cannot be claimed as a dependent on another person's return
Not blind
No dependents
Presidential Election Campaign Fund—No
Wages—$12,765
Only other income—$175 interest from savings account
Federal income tax withheld—$1,356

Who Cannot Use Form 1040EZ

A taxpayer cannot use Form 1040EZ if any of the following applies:

1. The filing status is other than single. The statuses for which taxpayers cannot use Form 1040EZ are: married filing a joint return, married filing a separate return, head of household, or widow(er) with dependent child.
2. The taxpayer is age 65 or over or blind.
3. The taxpayer claims an exemption for a dependent.
4. Taxable income is $50,000 or more.
5. There is income other than wages, salaries, tips, taxable scholarships, and interest.
6. Interest income is over $400.
7. The taxpayer can take any adjustments to income, itemize deductions, or claim any tax credits other than withheld income tax.

Example

Hilda Hanson gives you the following information about herself.

Age 22
Single Blind
No dependents
Income shown on Form W-2, $13,000
No other income

Because Hilda is blind, she cannot use Form 1040EZ.

Exercise 1

If the following taxpayers cannot file Form 1040EZ, explain why.

a. Paula Kings gives you the following information:
Age 54
Single
No dependents
Income shown on Form W-2, $20,000
Interest, $325 from savings account
Can she file Form 1040EZ?

Answer

b. George Squire gives you the following information:

No dependents
Income from taxable pension, $12,000
Interest, $425 from savings account
Can he file Form 1040EZ?

Answer

c. Mary Byrd gives you the following information:
Age 32
Divorced
Mary provides over half the support for her daughter, age 12, who lived with her all year
Income shown on Form W-2, $31,000
Interest, $385

Should she file Form 1040EZ?

Answer

Exercise 2

Holly Mills is a high school student. She worked as a clerk in a clothing store during the summer vacation. She could not claim an exemption from withholding, because she had paid tax in 1989. Shortly after Holly left her job and returned to school, she received a Form W-2 (see Exhibit 2) from her employer. Holly had $40 in interest credited to her savings account in 1990. Her filing status is single. Her parents claim her as a dependent on their income tax return. Fill out a Form 1040EZ (see Exhibits 3 and 4) for Holly.

1990 Instructions for Form 1040EZ

Use this form if

- Your filing status is single.
- You do not claim any dependents.
- You were under 65 and not blind at the end of 1990.
- Your taxable income (line 5) is less than $50,000.
- You had only wages, salaries, tips, and taxable scholarships or fellowships, and your taxable interest income was $400 or less. Caution: If you earned tips (including allocated tips) that are not included in Box 13 of your W-2, you may not be able to use Form 1040EZ. See page 10 in the booklet.

If you are not sure about your filing status or dependents, see page 4 in the booklet.

If you can't use this form, see Tele-Tax (topic no. 152) on page 23 in the booklet.

Completing your return

Please print your numbers inside the boxes. Do not type your numbers. Do not use dollar signs.

Most people can fill out the form simply by following the instructions on the front. But you will have to use the booklet if you received a scholarship or fellowship or tax-exempt interest (such as on municipal bonds). Also use the booklet if you received a 1099-INT showing income tax withheld (backup withholding) or if you had two or more employers and your total wages were more than $51,300.

Remember, you must report your wages, salaries, and tips even if you don't get a W-2 form from your employer. You must also report all your taxable interest income from savings accounts at banks, savings and loans, credit unions, etc., even if you don't get a Form 1099-INT.

Standard deduction worksheet for dependents who checked "Yes" on line 4.

If you checked "Yes" because someone can claim you as a dependent, fill in this worksheet to figure the amount to enter on line 4.

A. Enter the amount from line 1 on front. A. ________

B. Minimum amount. B. 500.00

C. Compare the amounts on lines A and B above. Enter the LARGER of the two amounts here. C. ________

D. Maximum amount. D. 3,250.00

E. Compare the amounts on lines C and D above. Enter the SMALLER of the two amounts here and on line 4 on front. E. ________

If you checked "No" because no one can claim you as a dependent, enter 5,300.00 on line 4. This is the total of your standard deduction (3,250.00) and personal exemption (2,050.00).

Avoid common mistakes

This checklist is to help you make sure that your form is filled out correctly.

1. Are your name and address correct on the label? If not, did you correct the label?
2. Is your social security number correct?
3. Did you attach your W-2 form(s) to the left margin of your return?
4. Did you add and subtract correctly?
5. If someone (such as your parent) can claim you as a dependent on his or her tax return, did you check the "Yes" box on line 4 and fill out the worksheet above?
6. Did you enter an amount on line 4?
7. Did you use the amount from line 5 to find your tax in the tax table?
8. Did you sign and date your return? If you paid someone to prepare your return, did that person sign it and show other information? See page 13 in the booklet.

Mailing your return

Mail your return by April 15, 1991. Use the envelope that came with your booklet. If you don't have that envelope, see page 17 in the booklet for the address to use.

Summary

In this lesson you learned who can use Form 1040EZ. In the rest of this module, you will learn who can file Form 1040A, which is used by taxpayers who have items of income, subtractions from income, and credits that cannot be entered on Form 1040EZ.

Answers to Exercises

1. a. Yes, Paula can file Form 1040EZ.
   b. No, George received a taxable pension of $12,000. A taxpayer cannot file Form 1040EZ if he or she has taxable income from a source or sources other than wages and interest. George also had over $400 of interest income.
   c. No, Mary's filing status is head of household and she can claim one dependency exemption for her daughter. A taxpayer cannot file Form 1040EZ if his or her filing status is other than single or if he or she claims an exemption for a dependent.

Module II

Lesson 2

Taxable and Nontaxable Income

Objective

At the end of this lesson you will be able to identify taxable and nontaxable income.

Contents

Introduction

Taxable Income

Nontaxable Income

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

The lessons in this module will show you how to help taxpayers prepare Form 1040A. The sequence of lessons reflects the general order in which you, the volunteer, will gather information from the taxpayer you are helping.

In this lesson you will learn to distinguish between taxable and nontaxable income. Only taxable income is used in determining whether an individual must file a return. A person whose income is all nontaxable does not need to file and will not have any income tax liability. The first question you will need to ask is, "What type of income did you receive?"

Taxable Income

Taxable income (also called gross income) is any income that is subject to tax and must be reported on the return (if a return must be filed). The following kinds of income are taxable:

- Wages, salaries, bonuses, and commissions
- Certain fringe benefits
- Tips and other compensation for personal services
- Interest (except on certain state or local bonds, or on certain Series EE savings bonds if taxpayer used them to pay higher educational expenses in 1990) *
- Dividends
- Refunds of state and local taxes (if a deduction in an earlier year lowered the individual's tax liability in that year)
- Alimony or separate maintenance payments received
- Business income
- Hobby income
- Capital gains
- Gain from the sale of property
- Pensions and annuities
- IRA distributions
- Rents
- Estate or trust income
- Unemployment compensation
- Railroad retirement benefits (part may be taxable)
- Social security benefits (part may be taxable)
- Jury duty fees
- Executors' fees
- Lottery winnings

- Gambling winnings
- Nonqualifying scholarships and fellowships

Nontaxable Income

Nontaxable income is income that is exempt from tax. If a return must be filed, some nontaxable income must be shown on the return, but is not added into income subject to tax. The following kinds of income are nontaxable:

- Child support
- Federal income tax refunds
- Dividends on veterans' life insurance
- Gifts, inheritances, and bequests
- Insurance and other payments for personal injury and, generally, medical expenses
- * Interest on certain Series EE savings bonds redeemed to pay for tuition and required fees at a college, university, or vocational school in 1990 for a taxpayer, spouse, or dependent
- Interest on certain state and local obligations
- Most life insurance proceeds paid upon death
- Public assistance payments (welfare)
- Certain railroad retirement benefits (part or all may be exempt from tax)
- Social security benefits (part or all may be exempt from tax)
- Veterans' disability benefits
- Workers' compensation
- Qualified scholarships and fellowships
- Certain dependent care services provided by employer (earned income up to $5,000)

A more complete listing of kinds of income that must be (or need not be) shown on a return can be found under Income in the instructions for Form 1040.

Example

Mary Willow received the following kinds of income in 1990: wages, interest, child support, alimony, inheritance, workers' compensation, and lottery winnings. Mary must include the wages, interest, alimony, and lottery winnings on her 1990 tax return. She does not have to show the child support, inheritance, or workers' compensation on her tax return.

Complete the following exercises and check your answers with those at the end of this lesson.

Exercise 1

Indicate whether the income listed is taxable.

	Yes	No
a. Wages, salaries	______	______
b. Dividends from stock	______	______
c. Veterans' disability benefits	______	______
d. Interest from savings accounts	______	______
e. Dividends from credit unions	______	______
f. Cash bonuses	______	______
g. Inheritances	______	______
h. Tips	______	______
i. Workers' compensation	______	______
j. Dividends on veterans' life insurance	______	______

Exercise 2

a. Mr. Turner, who is single, tells you he had the following income in 1990:
Fully taxable pension—$400
Interest—$65
Wages—$960
Nontaxable social security benefits—$1,200
What is his total taxable income for 1990?

Answer

b. Ms. Dale states she received the following income for 1990:
Gifts from her parents—$2,000
Child support—$4,000
Alimony—$2,000
Trust income—$6,000
Interest from a savings account—$500
What amount does she have to include in her income?

Answer

c. Martha Smith, who is single, asks you to prepare her 1990 return. She had the following income:
Nontaxable social security benefits—$3,600
Fully taxable pension—$12,000
Interest—$1,000
What amount does she have to include as income?

Answer

d. Mr. Young says that he inherited some property with a value of $50,000. Does he include this as income?

Answer

Summary

In this lesson you have learned to identify taxable and nontaxable income. Taxable (gross) income is used in determining whether an individual must file a return. A person who has only nontaxable income is not required to file a return. In the following lessons you will study other factors that will help you determine who must file a tax return.

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

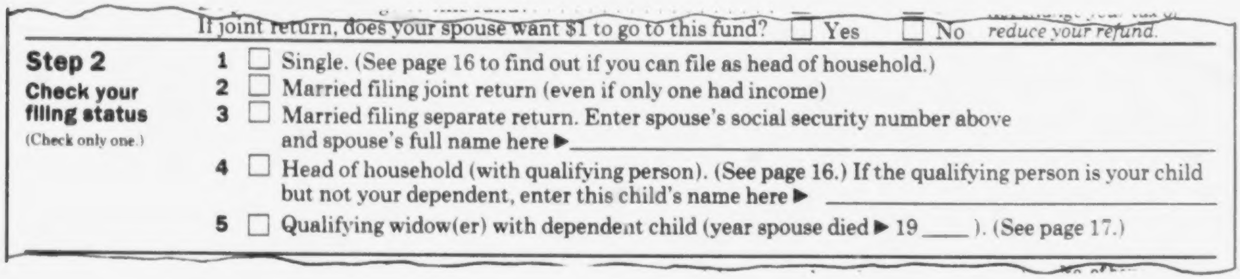
The filing status a taxpayer may use depends on the taxpayer's marital status and other factors. Filing status determines the rate at which income is taxed. The lowest rate is married filing joint return (this rate is also used by certain qualifying widow(er)s with dependent child, discussed later) followed by head of household. The next higher rate is single. The highest rate is married filing separate return. If more than one filing status applies to a taxpayer, choose the one filing status that will give the lowest rate.

Filing Status Section

Form 1040A lists five filing statuses, as shown in Exhibit 1.

Exhibit 1



If joint return, does your spouse want $1 to go to this fund? ☐ Yes ☐ No reduce your refund.

Step 2
Check your filing status
(Check only one.)

1 ☐ Single. (See page 16 to find out if you can file as head of household.)
2 ☐ Married filing joint return (even if only one had income)
3 ☐ Married filing separate return. Enter spouse's social security number above and spouse's full name here ▶ ____________
4 ☐ Head of household (with qualifying person). (See page 16.) If the qualifying person is your child but not your dependent, enter this child's name here ▶ ____________
5 ☐ Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child (year spouse died ▶ 19____). (See page 17.)

Single

A taxpayer may use the single filing status if on the last day of the year he or she had never married, was divorced, or was widowed. However, some taxpayers who may use the single filing status may also qualify for the head of household filing status or the qualifying widow(er) filing status.

Some states have "separate maintenance decrees" that allow taxpayers to be considered single. These taxpayers will usually be able to tell you if they qualify.

Example

Richard and Joan Teller were divorced December 31, 1990. They each file as single on their 1990 returns. They cannot file a joint return.

Married Filing Joint Return

Taxpayers may check this status if they are married, even if only one spouse had income. They are considered married all year if on the last day of the tax year one of the following applies:

1. They are married and live together as husband and wife.
2. They live together in a common law marriage recognized in the state where the taxpayer now lives or in the state where the common law marriage began.
3. They are married and live apart, but are not legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance.
4. They are separated under an interlocutory (not final) divorce decree.
5. The taxpayer's spouse died during the year and the taxpayer has not remarried.

A married taxpayer who has a dependent child and lived apart from his or her spouse during the last 6 months of the year may qualify to file as head of household. See Married Persons Living Apart with Dependent Children, later in this lesson.

If a taxpayer files a joint return, you must combine the husband's and wife's income on the same return. Both husband and wife must sign the return and both are responsible for any tax due on that return. The joint tax rates are the lowest tax rates and usually result in the lowest total tax.

Exercise 1

a. Can a taxpayer qualify for more than one filing status?

Answer ________________

b. How many filing status boxes can be checked on any one return?

Answer ________________

c. Can married taxpayers file a joint return even if only one has income?

Answer ________________

Exercise 2

a. Susan and Sam Calhoun visit your site. They tell you they got married on December 31, 1990. May they file a joint return for 1990?

Answer ________________

b. Susan had earnings of $6,000 in 1990. Her husband, Sam, had earnings of $7,500. How much income should they report on their joint return?

Answer ________________

c. Tom Tucker asks you for help in deciding which filing status to use. You ask him if he is married and he tells you that he was divorced in November but supported his wife all year. He has not remarried. Can Tom file a joint return?

Answer ________________

Married Filing Separate Return

A taxpayer who is married may choose to file separately. The taxpayer reports only his or her own income and deductions. A taxpayer may choose this status whether or not his or her spouse had income. Generally, when married taxpayers file separately, each of them may claim only his or her own personal exemption, but in certain cases described in lesson 4, a taxpayer filing separately may claim his or her spouse's personal exemption.

The tax rates are highest for the "married filing separate return" status and usually result in a higher total tax. Occasionally separate returns can result in a lower total tax. If taxpayers have any question about whether filing separately rather than jointly would result in a lower total tax, they should figure their tax both ways.

Taxpayers may prefer to file "married filing separate return" when they don't want to be responsible for their spouse's tax. If a husband and wife file separately, and one spouse itemizes deductions for medical expenses, interest expenses, and so forth, the other spouse should also itemize because he or she cannot take the standard deduction. Itemized deductions are discussed in Module III.

When a married taxpayer files separately, he or she must show the spouse's name and social security number on the return.

Example

Peter T. and Ann S. Steele are married and want to file separate returns. Peter had wages of $6,500 and Ann had wages of $12,000. They have no dependents. Steps 1 and 2 of Peter's return are shown in Exhibit 2.

Do you want $1 to go to this fund? ☐ Yes ☒ No

If joint return, does your spouse want $1 to go to this fund? ☐ Yes ☐ No

Note: Checking "Yes" will not change your tax or reduce your refund.

Step 2
Check your filing status
(Check only one.)

1 ☐ Single. (See page 16 to find out if you can file as head of household.)
2 ☐ Married filing joint return (even if only one had income)
3 ☒ Married filing separate return. Enter spouse's social security number above and spouse's full name here ▶ ANN S. STEELE

5 ☐ Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child (year spouse died ▶ 19____). (See page 17.)

If your taxpayers live in a community property state (Arizona, California, Idaho, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas, Washington, or Wisconsin), they must follow state law to determine their separate income. For details, refer taxpayers to Publication 555, Federal Tax Information on Community Property.

Head of Household

The "head of household" filing status causes more confusion among taxpayers than any other status because the qualifications are complex. In general, a taxpayer is a "head of household" when he or she is single and pays more than half the cost of keeping up a home during the year for a relative. The relative must live in the same home as the taxpayer for more than half of the year, unless the relative is the taxpayer's parent. The cost of keeping up a home includes rent, mortgage interest, taxes, insurance on the home, repairs, utilities, domestic help, and food eaten in the home.

The head of household tax rates are lower than the single tax rates. A taxpayer who can file as head of household should do so.

Dependency Tests

To understand the head of household qualification rules, you need to be familiar with the word "dependent." As you will learn in a later lesson, to claim a dependent for tax purposes, all the following tests must be met:

1. Support test.
   The taxpayer must provide over half of the dependent's support during the year. Support includes items such as food, a place to live, clothes, medical care, and education.
2. Gross income test.
   The dependent must have less than $2,050 of gross income. This test does not apply if the dependent is the taxpayer's child who is under age 19, or who is a full-time student under age 24 for some part of at least 5 calendar months during the year, and all the other tests are met.
3. Member of household or relationship test.
   The dependent must be related to the taxpayer (a cousin is not considered a relative for tax purposes), or live in the taxpayer's home for the whole year except for temporary absences.
4. Citizenship test.
   The dependent must be a U.S. citizen or resident, or a resident of Canada or Mexico.
5. Joint return test.
   The dependent, in general, cannot be a person who files a joint return.

Rules for Filing as Head of Household

The taxpayer must be single on the last day of the year or meet the tests described later under Married Persons Living Apart with Dependent Children. The taxpayer must pay more than half the cost of keeping up a home during the year that is the principal home for more than half the year (except for temporary absences such as those for school, vacation, and medical care) for any of the following:

1. The taxpayer's unmarried child who must live with the taxpayer and who does not have to be the taxpayer's dependent.
2. The taxpayer's foster child who must live with the taxpayer and who must be the taxpayer's dependent.
3. Any of certain relatives (a cousin is not considered a relative) who must live with the taxpayer and who must be the taxpayer's dependent.
4. The taxpayer's married child who must live with the taxpayer and who must be the taxpayer's dependent unless the child is not a dependent because:
   a. The taxpayer signed a written declaration that allows the noncustodial parent to claim the dependent, or
   b. The noncustodial parent provides at least $600 for the support of the dependent and claims the dependent under a pre-1985 agreement.
5. The taxpayer's parent who does not have to live with the taxpayer but who must be the taxpayer's dependent. If the parent does not live with the taxpayer, the taxpayer must pay more than half the cost of maintaining the parent's home for the entire year.

Important: "Child" includes grandchild, stepchild, and adopted child. Lesson 4 (Module II) and the instructions for Form 1040A contain a list of "relatives" for tax purposes.

Examples of taxpayers who qualify as head of household follow:

1. Mary is divorced and has custody of her 4-year-old dependent twins. She paid over half the cost of keeping up a home for the twins who lived with her all year.
2. Jane A. Wood is divorced and provided over half the cost of keeping up a home. Her 5-year-old daughter, Pam A. Wood, lived with her for seven months last year. Jane does not claim her daughter as her dependent; her ex-husband does. Jane should enter her daughter's name on the line at the end of box 4 (see Exhibit 3).

Step 2
Check your filing status
(Check only one.)

No. of boxes

3. Martha is single and paid more than half the cost of keeping up her home. Her grandmother lives with her and she claims her grandmother as a dependent. (If Martha could not claim her grandmother as her dependent, she could not file as head of household; only a child can qualify a taxpayer as head of household without being a dependent.)
4. Benjamin is single and paid over half the cost of keeping his father in a nursing home. Benjamin's father is his dependent. (Only the taxpayer's parent does not have to live in the same home as the taxpayer.)

Examples of taxpayers who do not qualify as head of household follow:

1. Mike is divorced and his son lived with him only during the summer.
2. Louise was separated from her husband in September and provided a home and support for her child after the separation. Louise is still married on December 31, 1990.
3. Tom, who lives alone, paid all the expenses of keeping up a home for himself.

To file as head of household, a single, divorced, or legally separated taxpayer must provide over half the cost of keeping up a home during the year for a qualifying relative who lives there for more than half the year. Referring to the following chart may help you with taxpayers at your site.

Relationship to Taxpayer	Must Live with Taxpayer?	Must Be Taxpayer's Dependent?
Unmarried child, grandchild, stepchild	Yes	No
Mother, father	No	Yes
Other relatives, except cousins	Yes	Yes
Cousins	Do not qualify

Exercise 3

a. Mrs. Zapata tells you that she is divorced and that her 21-year-old unmarried son lived with her all year. She paid for their rent and food and provided over half of her son's total support. Her son, whom she cannot claim as a dependent because he earned at least $2,050 and is not a student, used his earnings to pay for his car, clothing, and entertainment. Can Mrs. Zapata file as head of household?

Answer ________________

b. Miss York lived with her roommate who was unemployed all year. Miss York had to pay more than half of the cost of keeping up their apartment. Can Miss York file as head of household?

Answer ________________

c. Mr. Calhoun is single. His mother lived alone in an apartment. Mr. Calhoun paid for the upkeep of his mother's apartment, although he cannot claim her as his dependent. What is Mr. Calhoun's filing status?

Answer ________________

Married Persons Living Apart with Dependent Children

A married taxpayer who lives apart from his or her spouse, and meets certain tests, may be considered unmarried and file as head of household. This provision is particularly advantageous to taxpayers who otherwise would have to use the married filing separately status. You may be able to help a number of taxpayers who qualify for this provision but do not know of it.

A married taxpayer can file as head of household if:

1. The taxpayer does not file with the spouse,
2. The taxpayer paid more than half of the cost of keeping up his or her home for the year,
3. The taxpayer lived apart from his or her spouse during the last 6 months of the year, and
4. The taxpayer's home was the principal home of the taxpayer's child or stepchild, whom the taxpayer can claim as a dependent, for over 6 months of the year.

Exception: The taxpayer does not have to claim the child as a dependent if he or she signed a statement allowing the noncustodial parent to claim the dependent, or the noncustodial parent provided at least $600 for the child's support and can claim the dependent under a pre-1985 agreement.

Exercise 4

a. Thomas Dawes has not lived with his wife for several years. His wife has custody of their children, although Thomas sends money for their support. What is Thomas' filing status?

Answer ________________

b. Jack Banks has not lived with his wife for 2 years. He hasn't gotten a divorce. Their children, whom Jack can claim as dependents, live with him. He does not want to file with his wife. Which filing status would you suggest Jack use? Which filing status should his wife use?

Answer ______________

c. Martha Graves left her husband in August 1990 and took their children with her. She supported the children during 1990 and will claim them as dependents. Assuming that she will not file with her husband, which filing status should Martha use in 1990?

Answer ______________

Qualifying Widow(er) with Dependent Child

If the taxpayer's spouse died during 1988 or 1989, and the taxpayer did not remarry before the end of 1990, he or she may be able to file as a qualifying widow(er) with dependent child. A taxpayer with this filing status figures tax using the lowest tax rate (for married filing jointly).

To qualify, the taxpayer must meet all of the following tests:

1. Have been entitled to file a joint return for the year the spouse died (it does not matter whether a joint return was actually filed);
2. Have a child, foster child, adopted child (including a child placed with the taxpayer by an authorized placement agency for legal adoption), or stepchild who qualifies as the taxpayer's dependent for the year; and
3. Have furnished over half the cost of keeping up a home which was the principal home of the child for the entire year.

A taxpayer who files as a qualifying widow(er) may not claim an exemption for the deceased spouse. That exemption may be claimed only for the year of death on a joint or separate return. Qualifying widow(er) status applies for the following 2 years, which means that if the spouse died before 1988, the taxpayer cannot file as a qualifying widow(er) for 1990. The correct filing status would be single unless the taxpayer qualifies as head of household. A taxpayer who files as a qualifying widow(er) must list the year of death of the spouse on line 5 of Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

Example

Paula Scott's husband died in 1988. Paula has not remarried. She has maintained a home for herself and her dependent son, Joshua, during 1989 and 1990. Paula could have filed a joint return with her late husband in 1988. For 1989 and 1990, she may use the joint rates because she is a widow with a dependent child. During your interview with Paula, you determine that she does not have enough deductions to itemize, she owes no additional taxes, and she cannot claim any credits other than her withheld tax. She, therefore, can file a Form 1040A for 1990. If she qualifies, Paula may file as head of household for 1991 and later years.

Additional Points

1. Common errors made in the filing status section—Many taxpayers do not enter the name of the person who qualifies them as head of household. The Internal Revenue Service Centers cannot process a "head of household" return unless a name is listed beside the head of household box or on the line for dependents. If the taxpayer files as a head of household because he or she maintains a home for a child who is not a dependent, be certain the child's name is listed at the end of box 4. If the taxpayer qualifies because of a dependent, be certain the dependent's name is listed on the line for dependents.

2. Decedents—If a taxpayer's spouse died during the year and the taxpayer has not remarried, the taxpayer can file a joint return with the deceased spouse. The instructions for Form 1040A contain more information on this situation in the section entitled What if a taxpayer dies?.

3. Nonresident aliens—A taxpayer who is a U.S. resident or citizen may file a joint return with a nonresident alien spouse if both agree to be taxed on their worldwide income. Refer these taxpayers to Publication 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens, and suggest that they seek the assistance of a professional preparer.

4. Public assistance programs—In this lesson you have studied the importance of "paying over half the cost of keeping up a home" in deciding filing status. Public assistance payments like Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC) are not considered amounts the taxpayer furnishes to keep up a home.

Exercise 5

Assume you are the volunteer in these conversations and determine the taxpayer's filing status.

a. Taxpayer—"Can you help me with my return? I'm filing the 1040A."
Volunteer—"OK, let's complete the filing status section. Are you married or single?"
Taxpayer—"I'm divorced."
Volunteer—"Do you have any children?"
Taxpayer—"Yes, I have a boy and a girl."
Volunteer—"Did the children live with you for more than half the year and did you pay over half the cost of keeping up the home you live in?"
Taxpayer—"Yes, I paid for everything."
Volunteer—"From what you have told me your filing status is ________."

b. Taxpayer—"Can I file as single?"
Volunteer—"Were you married or single on December 31st?"
Taxpayer—"Still married, but we had separated."
Volunteer—"When did you separate last year?"
Taxpayer—"Around October."
Volunteer—"From what you've said you have to file as ________."

Summary

Taxpayers can claim any of five filing statuses on Form 1040A: single, married filing a joint return, married filing a separate return, head of household, or qualifying widow(er) with dependent child. A special provision allows some married taxpayers to file as head of household. Determining the correct filing status is one of the most important aspects of completing the return.

Answers to Exercises

1. a. Yes But the taxpayer should use the one that results in the lowest tax.
   b. One.
   c. Yes.
2. a. Yes. They cannot use the single filing status because they were married on the last day of the year.
   b. $13,500.
   c. No, because he was single on Dec. 31.
3. a. Yes.
   b. No, because she did not provide a home for a qualifying relative.
   c. Single. For Mr. Calhoun to file as head of household, his mother would have to be his dependent.
4. a. Married filing separately, unless he and his wife agree to file jointly.
   b. Head of household; married filing separately.
   c. Married filing separately, because she lived with her husband during part of the last six months of 1990.
5. a. Head of household.
   b. Married filing separately, or joint return.

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Define "personal exemption."
2. Define "dependent."
3. Identify the tests for determining a qualifying dependent.
4. Use the tests to determine whether an individual qualifies as a dependent.

Introduction

* Step 3 of Form 1040A covers exemptions. In 1990, each exemption reduces the amount of income subject to tax by $2,050. There are two kinds of exemptions: personal exemptions, which are claimed on lines 6a and 6b, and dependency exemptions, which are claimed on line 6c.

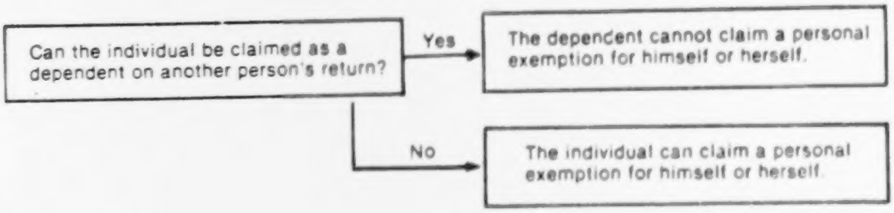
Personal Exemption

Each taxpayer may claim a personal exemption unless he or she can be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's return.

Dependent's personal exemption



Can the individual be claimed as a dependent on another person's return?
Yes
The dependent cannot claim a personal exemption for himself or herself.
No
The individual can claim a personal exemption for himself or herself.

Example

Toni Wiley, age 16, and a full-time student, earned $2,600 during the summer. She can be claimed as a dependent on her parents' return. She will not be able to claim a personal exemption on her own return, whether her parents claim her as a dependent or not.

On a joint return, the taxpayer may claim a personal exemption for his or her spouse. A married taxpayer who files a separate return may claim the exemption for the spouse only if the spouse has NO INCOME, is not the dependent of another taxpayer, and is not filing a return. If a taxpayer's spouse died during the year, and the taxpayer did not remarry by the end of the year, the taxpayer can claim the personal exemption of the deceased spouse if the exemption could have been claimed on the date of death.

Spouse who remarries during the year. If a taxpayer dies during the tax year and the taxpayer's spouse later remarries during the same year, the spouse may be claimed as an exemption on both the final separate return of the deceased taxpayer and the separate return of the surviving spouse's new spouse. This will apply only when the surviving spouse has no gross income, is not the dependent of another taxpayer, and is not filing a tax return. However, if the surviving spouse files a joint return with his or her new spouse, the exemption can be claimed only on that return.

Exercise 1

How many personal exemptions can the taxpayer(s) claim?

a. Mr. and Mrs. York filed a joint return in 1989. Mrs. York died in March 1990. Mr. York has not remarried and will file a joint return.

Answer ________________

b. Kathy Hamilton, age 17 and a full-time student, can be claimed as a dependent on her parents' return. She files Form 1040A.

Answer ________________

c. Mr. and Mrs. Lee file a joint return.

Answer ________________

d. Mr. Lee files married filing separately (wife filed separately).

Answer ________________

Dependency Exemption

If a taxpayer claims a dependent who is at least 2 years old by December 31, 1990, the dependent's social security number (SSN) must be listed on the return. If the SSN is not listed or is incorrect, the taxpayer may be subject to a penalty.

Dependency Tests

Each taxpayer may claim a dependency exemption for other people only if five tests are met. These are:

1. Support test
2. Income (gross income) test
3. Relationship test
4. Citizen or resident test
5. Married person (joint return) test

Included in the discussion under the Support Test are the related topics, Multiple Support and Children of Divorced or Separated Parents.

In 1990, a taxpayer can claim a dependency exemption of $2,050 for each dependent who lives with the taxpayer and for certain related dependents, whether or not they live with the taxpayer. A dependent is a person, other than the taxpayer or spouse, who entitles the taxpayer to claim the dependency exemption. All five dependency tests must be met. If any one test is not met, the taxpayer cannot claim the person as a dependent. (Exception: The taxpayer's child who is under age 19 or a full-time student under age 24 does not have to meet the Income Test, which is explained later in this lesson.)

Support Test

The support test requires that the taxpayer provide more than half of the dependent's total support for the entire year (however, see Multiple Support, and Children of Divorced or Separated Parents, later).

In figuring the total support, the taxpayer must include tax-exempt income, savings, and borrowed amounts used for support. Tax-exempt income includes certain social security benefits, welfare benefits, life insurance proceeds, armed forces family allotments, nontaxable pensions, and tax-exempt interest.

State benefit payments (welfare, food stamps, housing, etc.) based on need are considered support provided by the state. For example, Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) is support provided by the state, not the parent.

Total support includes food, clothing, shelter (at fair rental value), education, medical and dental care, recreation, and transportation. Capital items, such as furniture, appliances, or autos, should be included in support if the items are solely for the dependent's own use or benefit. Expenses that are not directly related to any one member of a household, such as food, must be divided among members of the household. Examples of items excluded from support are life insurance premiums, some scholarships, and taxes paid from the dependent's own income.

Example

Bill Stone and his wife, Linda, must determine how many exemptions they can claim before they prepare their return. They help support Linda's mother, Alice McDonnell. Mrs. McDonnell, age 72, lives in an apartment. She received $3,000 in social security benefits and $400 in interest. The entire social security benefits and interest are considered in determining support. The Stones provided $4,800 toward Mrs. McDonnell's support, which includes a $400 color TV set they bought for her personal use. The support test is met because the Stones contributed over half of her support.

Exercise 2

Determine if the support test is met in the following situations:

a. Raymond's mother received $2,600 in social security payments and $900 in interest. Raymond paid $2,100 for her food and $800 for her medical bills. His mother paid $2,350 for lodging, $400 for recreation, $250 for clothes, $100 for transportation, $300 for life insurance, and $100 for a TV set.

Amount Raymond contributed toward support ____________

Amount his mother contributed toward support ____________

Who provided more than 50% of support? ____________

Was the support test met? ____________

b. Veronica's son, using his own money, bought a used car for $4,800. He also received a scholarship for one semester's tuition ($1,100). He is a full-time student. Veronica provided the following for him:

Lodging (fair rental value)	$2,800
Education	1,600
Medical care	200
Recreation	250
Life insurance policy	150
Medical insurance	100
Clothing	250

Amount Veronica contributed toward support ____________
Amount her son contributed ____________
Who provided more than 50% of support? ____________
Was the support test met? ____________

Multiple Support

Sometimes no one person provides more than half an individual's support, but two or more persons together may do so. When this happens, anyone who separately provides over 10% of the dependent's total support and meets the other tests may be able to claim the exemption for the dependent. Only one person may do this. Each of the others must sign a written statement agreeing not to claim the exemption for that year. Form 2120, Multiple Support Declaration, is used for that purpose. The person who claims the exemption attaches the Forms 2120 to the current year's tax return. The taxpayers decide among themselves which one takes the exemption for the year. As a volunteer, you do not decide.

Example

Henry and David Harper each provide more than 10% of the total support of their mother, Martha Porter Harper (SSN 345-00-1234), but neither provides more than 50%. Together, they do provide more than 50%. Henry and David have decided that David will claim the exemption this year. Exhibit 2 is the completed Form 2120 that David Harper would attach to his return.

Children of Divorced or Separated Parents

The parent who has custody of the child for most of the year (custodial parent) will generally be treated as having provided over half of the child's support if all of the following conditions are met:

1. The child received over half of his or her total support from one or both parents.
2. The parents must be divorced, legally separated, separated under a written separation agreement, or have lived apart at all times during the last six months of the year.
3. The child was in the custody of one or both parents for more than half of the year.

Exceptions. The above provision does not apply in any case where:

a. Over half of the support of the child is treated as having been received from a parent under a multiple support agreement.

b. The custodial parent signed Form 8332, Release of Claim to Exemption for Child of Divorced or Separated Parents, or a similar statement, that allows the noncustodial parent to claim the exemption. This declaration must be attached to the return of the noncustodial parent. See Exhibit 4.

c. A qualified pre-1985 agreement provides that the noncustodial parent shall be entitled to the exemption for the child and the noncustodial parent gave at least $600 toward the child's support during the tax year.

Example Under the terms of Ellen's 1984 divorce, Ellen's former husband has custody of their two children. The divorce decree specifies that Ellen may claim the dependency exemptions. Ellen provided $1,500 for each child. She may claim both children as dependents (assuming all other tests are met).

Example Assume that in the preceding example Ellen provided only $500 for the support of each child. She cannot claim the exemptions because she provided less than $600 for each child's support.

Example

Under the terms of Stephen's pre-1985 divorce decree, his former wife has custody of their child. The decree states that Stephen may claim the exemption. He provided $700 towards the child's support. He may claim the exemption.

Exercise 3

Christopher is the son of Sam and June Oliver, who are divorced. Christopher lives with his mother. His father sends $1,600 a year towards his support. The divorce decree does not state who may claim Christopher as a dependent. If all other tests are met, who can claim him?

a. Sam Oliver
b. June Oliver
c. Follow rules for multiple support

Answer ______________

Income (Gross Income) Test

Under this test, a taxpayer cannot claim a dependency exemption for a person whose gross income is the amount of the exemption or more. The exemption amount in 1990 is $2,050. Gross (taxable) income is explained in Lesson 2 (Module II). The income test does not apply to the taxpayer's child who is under 19 or who is a full-time student under age 24 for some part of each of 5 calendar months of the year. This generally does not include night schools, on-the-job training courses, or correspondence schools. The 5 months need not be consecutive in order to qualify.

Note: For purposes of this test, gross income does not include the income received by a permanently and totally disabled person at a sheltered workshop. The person must be at the workshop because there is medical care available. For more information, see Publication 17.

Example

Mike Warren is 21 years old and attends college full time. During the summer he earned $2,500, which he used for his tuition. If his parents provided more than $2,500 for his support, they could claim him as a dependent on their return, assuming all other tests were met. Because he is a full-time student and is under 24 years old, the income test does not apply.

Example

Wilma Garfield is 63 years old. She lives with her son, John, and his wife. Mrs. Garfield is retired and receives a pension of $5,400. Even if her son and his wife provide more than that amount toward her support, they cannot claim her as a dependent because her gross income is at least $2,050.

Exercise 4

Is the income test met in the following situations?

a. Mark's son, Tom, earned $3,200 last year. Tom then became a full-time student in September. He is 20 years old.

Yes ________ No ________ Does not apply ________

b. Betty Cloud is 73 years old. She received the following income:

Insurance payment for personal injury	$5,750
Interest income (bank accounts)	625
Interest on state revenue bonds	490
Veterans' benefits (on deceased husband's behalf)	610
State lottery winnings	330

Yes __________ No __________ Does not apply__________

How much was Betty's total gross income? $__________

Relationship Test

Taxpayers may claim exemptions for persons who lived with them all year as members of the household, except for temporary absences. These persons do not have to be related. Attending school is considered a temporary absence; so are vacations and hospital stays because of illness.

A taxpayer may not claim an exemption for a household member if the relationship between them violates local law.

A dependent related to the taxpayer in one of the following ways also satisfies this test and does not have to live with the taxpayer (or be a member of his or her household):

Child
Stepchild
Mother
Father
Grandparent
Brother
Sister
Grandchild Stepbrother
Stepsister
Stepparent
Mother-in-law
Father-in-law
Brother-in-law
Sister-in-law
Daughter-in-law Son-in-law

or if related by blood:
Uncle
Aunt Niece
Nephew

A legally adopted child is considered the taxpayer's child. The child need live with the taxpayer only since the adoption was final, not all year, to meet this test. If a foster child has lived with the taxpayer all year (except for temporary absences), he or she is treated as the taxpayer's own child if the taxpayer did not receive any payments to care for the foster child.

A taxpayer may take an exemption for his or her child. If a child was born alive during the year and meets the dependency tests, a taxpayer may take the exemption. This is true even if the child lived only for a moment. A stillborn child cannot be claimed as an exemption. Whether a child was born alive depends on state or local law.

A relationship established by marriage (such as mother-in-law) does not end with divorce or the death of one of the spouses. A cousin must live with the taxpayer all year (except for temporary absences) to meet the relationship test.

Exercise 5

Is the relationship test met in the following situations?

a. Matthew's cousin lived with him all year.

Yes __________ No __________

b. Esther's neighbor's child lived with her all year.

Yes __________ No __________

c. James Leon supports his wife's Uncle Charlie, who lives in another city. The Leons are filing a joint return.

Yes __________ No __________

d. Stan's adopted child lived with him for 9 months. He was awarded legal custody in April.

Yes __________ No __________

e. Stella's sister's child lived in her home for 8 months.

Yes __________ No __________

Exercise 6

If all other tests are met, which of the following may be claimed as dependents?

a. Martin's cousin lived with him for 6 months, and then moved to Chicago.

Yes ________ No ________

b. James Leon supports his wife's Uncle Charlie, who lives in another city. James and his wife file separate returns.

Yes ________ No ________

Citizen or Resident Test

To meet this test, a person must be a U.S. citizen, resident, or national, or a resident of Canada or Mexico, for some part of the calendar year. Children usually are citizens or residents of the country of their parents. Foreign exchange students generally cannot be claimed as dependents. For more information, see Publication 17.

A child born in a foreign country is recognized as a U.S. citizen for tax purposes if either parent is a U.S. citizen.

Example

Bill Perry lives in Germany and was married in 1989. In 1990 the Perrys' son, Ron, was born. Bill's wife is a German citizen. If all other tests are met, Bill can claim his child as a dependent on his return.

Question: What happens when a taxpayer legally adopts a child who is a citizen of another country?

Answer: If the taxpayer lives in the United States, this test is met even if the child does not live with the taxpayer (see list of relatives, earlier). If the taxpayer lived abroad and adopted a child during that time, the child must live with the taxpayer all year (except for temporary absences) for the citizen or resident test to be met.

Example

Richard Fremont was stationed in Japan with the U.S. Armed Forces. During that time, he and his wife adopted a Japanese girl. She must be a member of their household and live with them all year (except for temporary absences) to meet the citizen or resident test.

Exercise 7

Is the citizen or resident test met in these situations?

a. Steven Pine's son, a U.S. citizen, studies abroad all year.

Yes ________ No ________

b. Ann Yates is a Canadian resident.

Yes ________ No ________

c. Pedro Rodriguez is a Mexican resident.

Yes ________ No ________

d. Joe Overton's mother-in-law is a citizen and resident of Luxembourg.

Yes ________ No ________

e. Louise Hemlock's son, an adopted child, was born in England and lived with her all year.

Yes ________ No ________

Married Person (Joint Return) Test

The dependent meets this test if he or she does not file a joint return. There is an exception to this test. The taxpayer may claim an exemption for a married dependent if neither the dependent nor the dependent's spouse is required to file a return but they file jointly only to claim a refund of withheld tax. The dependent cannot claim his or her exemption on the joint return.

Exercise 8

From the facts given, determine if the following individuals may be claimed as dependents. If not, indicate each test that is not met.

a. Bernice Wilson is Bart's mother-in-law and a Canadian citizen. Bart provided 70% of her total support. She has $625 gross income and is a widow. She lives in Toronto. Bart and his wife file jointly. Is Mrs. Wilson their dependent?
Yes ________ No ________
If No, list each test that is not met.

b. Andrew and Regina Elm had Regina's nephew living with them all year, and they provided 60% of his support. The Elms file a joint return. The nephew is single, 22 years old, and a U.S. citizen. He earned $3,200 last year and was a full-time student. Is he the Elms' dependent?
Yes ________ No ________
If No, list each test that is not met.

c. Donald Kapse, a U.S. citizen, provided the total support of his parents who are citizens and residents of India. Can Donald claim dependency exemptions for his parents?
Yes ________ No ________
If No, list each test that is not met.

d. Mitsu Akido (SSN: 678–00–6789), a Japanese citizen, lived with Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins in the United States all of 1990. Mitsu qualifies as a U.S. resident. Mitsu is single and had gross income of $950 last year. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins provided over half of Mitsu's support. May the Jenkins claim a dependency exemption for Mitsu?
Yes ________ No ________
If No, list each test that is not met.

If Yes, complete the appropriate section of Form 1040A (Exhibit 5).

Summary

In this lesson you learned about personal and dependency exemptions. To claim a dependent at least 2 years of age, the taxpayer must include the dependent's social security number (SSN) on line 6c or be liable for a penalty. To determine who qualifies as a dependent, the following tests must be met:

1. Support test.
2. Income (gross income) test.
3. Relationship test.
4. Citizen or resident test.
5. Married person (joint return) test.

Lesson 5

Who Must File—Who Should File

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Determine who must file a tax return.
2. Determine who should file a tax return.

Contents

Introduction

Who Must File

Who Should File

Summary

Answers to Exercise

Introduction

Many people are required to file a return. Other people are not required to file a return but should file one because they will get a refund. Every year many people file needlessly. If the person you are helping does not need to file and will not get a refund by filing, tell that person that no return is needed for 1990.

Who Must File

To find out if the person you are helping must file a return, you need to know the individual's filing status, age, and amount of gross income. You may also need to know:

1. What kind of income the individual had,
2. Whether or not he or she can be claimed as a dependent by another taxpayer (such as a parent), and, if so, whether or not he or she is blind,
3. Whether he or she owes tax on certain items,
4. Whether he or she received advance payment of the earned income credit, and
5. Whether he or she could exclude certain income.

General Rules

You can use the "Who Must File" chart to find out if a person must file a return because of filing status, age, or amount of gross income. The filing requirements for a person who can be claimed as a dependent on another person's return follow the chart. Use the Other Rules discussion to find out if the person you are helping must file a return even though gross income is less than the minimum amount shown on the chart for his or her situation.

Using the Who Must File Chart

The left side of the Who Must File chart groups people by filing status. Each filing status is broken down according to age. The right side shows the minimum amount of gross income an individual in each group must have in order to be required to file. If you have questions about filing status or gross income, refer to lessons 2 and 3 (Module II).

Example

Tom and Judy Williams come to your site. Tom is 68 and Judy is 66. They want to file a joint return. Tom had a taxable pension of $10,500 and Judy received $4,200 in social security benefits. Are they required to file a return?

Tom and Judy's gross income is $10,500. Judy's benefits are nontaxable. The chart shows that the filing requirement for a married couple filing a joint return with both individuals 65 or over is $10,850. Therefore, the Williamses do not have to file a return.

Example

Frank Fayette is single and looking for full-time employment. He worked as a stock boy for a grocery store during the summer and earned $4,975. His employer withheld $364 in federal income tax. Is Frank required to file a return?

The chart shows that for a single person under 65 the filing requirement is $5,300. Since Frank's gross income is only $4,975, he is not required to file. However, Frank should file a return to receive a refund of the $364 his employer withheld from his wages.

Who Must File

An individual must file if he or she is:	And has gross income of at least:
Single
Under 65	$ 5,300
65 or older	6,100
Married Filing a Joint Return
Both spouses under 65	$ 9,550
One spouse 65 or older	10,200
Both spouses 65 or older	10,850
Not living with spouse at end of year or on date spouse died (any age)	2,050
Married Filing a Separate Return
Any age	$ 2,050
Head of Household
Under 65	$ 6,800
65 or older	7,600
Qualifying Widow(er) with dependent child
Under 65	$ 7,500
65 or older	8,150

See Filing Requirements for Dependents, for the special rules that apply to dependents. Also, see Other Rules, later, for situations when a person must file even though gross income is less than the amount shown on this chart.

Filing Requirements for Dependents

Special filing requirements apply to an individual who can be claimed as a dependent on another person's income tax return.

Children and other dependents. If the taxpayer you are helping is single, under 65, and not blind, use the following chart to determine whether the taxpayer must file a tax return.

Taxpayer's taxable interest or dividend income or other unearned income was:	And total of that income plus wages, salaries, and tips was:	Must taxpayer file a return?
* $1 or more	$500 or less	NO
$1 or more	more than $500	YES
$ -0-	$3,250 or less	NO
$ -0-	more than $3,250	YES

Example

Linda Bell is 15 and her parents are entitled to claim her as a dependent on their 1990 return. She earned wages of $600 working part time in a grocery store and $50 interest income on her savings account. Linda must file a return for 1990 because she had at least $1 of unearned income and her total income ($650) was more than $500.

Single dependent 65 or older or blind. An individual who is single and 65 or older or blind must file a tax return for 1990 if he or she can be claimed as a dependent on another person's return and he or she had any of the following:

1. Only earned income such as wages, salaries, and tips of more than $4,050; or *
2. Only unearned income such as taxable interest and dividends of more than $1,300 ($2,100 if 65 or older and blind); or
3. Gross income that was more than the total of:
    a. His or her earned income (up to $3,250) or $500, whichever is larger, plus
    b. $800 ($1,600 if 65 or older and blind).

Married dependent under 65 and not blind. An individual who is married and under 65 and not blind must file a tax return if he or she can be claimed on another person's return and he or she had any of the following:

1. Only earned income such as wages, salaries, and tips of more than $2,725; or
2. Any unearned income such as taxable interest and dividends and gross income of more than $500; or
3. At least $5 of gross income, and his or her spouse files a separate return and itemizes deductions.

Married dependent 65 or older or blind. An individual who is married and 65 or older or blind must file a tax return if he or she can be claimed as a dependent on another person's return and he or she had any of the following:

1. Only earned income such as wages, salaries, and tips of more than $3,375; or *
2. Only unearned income such as taxable interest and dividends of more than $1,150 ($1,800 if 65 or older and blind); or
3. Gross income that was more than the total of:
    a. His or her earned income such as wages, salaries, and tips (up to $2,725) or $500, whichever is larger, plus
    b. $650 ($1,300 if 65 or older and blind); or
4. At least $5 of gross income and his or her spouse files a separate return and itemizes deductions.

Filing Requirements Charts for Dependents

The three charts that follow can be used to determine whether a dependent needs to file a return. Use them when completing the exercise at the end of this lesson.

Chart 1 is for all dependents who are under 65 and not blind.
Chart 2 is for unmarried dependents who are 65 or over or blind.
Chart 3 is for married dependents who are 65 or over or blind.

Use only the chart that fits the dependent's circumstances.

Do not use a chart for the following dependents:

- A married dependent with at least $5 of income whose spouse itemizes deductions on a separate return,
- A dependent with at least $400 of net self-employment income,

- A dependent who owes certain other taxes, or
- A dependent who had income tax withheld.

These dependents either must file, or should file, to receive a refund.

How to use the charts. Answer the question in the block labeled "Start Here." Follow either the line marked "Yes" or the line marked "No" (depending on your answer to the question in the block). Continue answering questions and following lines until you reach a block that does not have a question in it. That block will tell you whether or not the dependent needs to file a return.

Other Rules

Even when the gross income of the person you help is less than the minimum amount shown on the Who Must File chart, that person must file a return if he or she received advance payment of the earned income credit from his or her employer. The earned income credit is discussed later in this module.

A taxpayer must file a return using Form 1040 if any one of the following applies:

1. Owes uncollected social security tax on tips.
2. Had net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more.
3. Owes tax on an Individual Retirement Arrangement.
4. Owes alternative minimum tax.
5. Owes tax from refiguring an investment credit claimed in an earlier year.
6. Had gross income of at least $2,050 and can exclude income from sources within American Samoa.
7. Earned wages of $100 or more from a qualified church or church-controlled organization that is exempt from employer social security taxes.
8. Has a child under age 14 on January 1, 1991, who only had interest and dividend income of less than $500, and chooses to report income on his or her return.

If box 18 of Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, shows uncollected social security tax on tips, the person you help must add the unpaid employee tax to his or her income tax liability. An individual who received $20 or more in tips in any one month and did not report them to his or her employer must file a Form 1040, attach a Form 4137, Computation of Social Security Tax on Unreported Tip Income, and include the tips in income. For an explanation of these terms, see the discussion of tip income in Publication 17.

Income from a trade, business, farming, or profession in which the individual is not an employee is self-employment income.

The tax situations in numbers 2 through 7 in the preceding list are beyond the scope of VITA assistance. If you meet taxpayers in these situations, refer them to specific IRS publications or to professional tax preparers.

Note: If a person's tax situation is described either in the Who Must File chart or under the Other Rules, that person must file a return even if no tax is owed. If a minor child must file a return, but cannot do so, the child's parent or guardian must complete and sign a return for the child.

Who Should File

Some people are not required to file a return, but should file one because they will get a refund. If a person who is not required to file a return had federal income tax withheld from his or her income, the only way that person can get a refund of the tax withheld is to file a return.

The only way a person who is not required to file a return can receive the earned income credit is to file a return. The earned income credit is a refundable credit. This means that a person who is eligible for the credit can get a refund even if he or she had no tax withheld. A return must be filed to claim the earned income credit. The earned income credit is discussed later in this module.

Exercise

Using the appropriate chart and the other rules, show which of the following applies in each situation.

(1) The taxpayer must file a return.
(2) The taxpayer does not have to file a return, but should file to receive a refund.
(3) The taxpayer does not need to file a return.

a. TAXPAYER:
I'm 57, married, and retired. I received social security and I also did odd jobs. I had about $600 in self-employment income.
(1) (2) (3)

b. TAXPAYER:
In 1990 I left school and worked for part of the year. I am single. My salary was $4,925. My employer withheld income tax from my wages. My parents cannot claim me as a dependent.
(1) (2) (3)

c. TAXPAYER:
I'm 66, single, and retired. I received $1,800 in social security benefit checks and $4,800 from a fully taxable pension. Income tax was withheld from my pension.
(1) (2) (3)

d. TAXPAYER:
I am 18 years old and single. Last year my total wages were over $5,325—$5,325.10, to be exact.
(1) (2) (3)

e. TAXPAYER:
I just started working again. Last year my husband and I earned about $9,900. We are both under 65 and eligible to file a joint return.
(1) (2) (3)

f. TAXPAYER:
I just got married last year and my wife did not work. I had wages of $9,000 and had tax withheld. My parents gave us a gift of $3,000.
(1) (2) (3)

g. TAXPAYER:
I'm 68, single, blind, and retired. I received a fully taxable pension of $7,000. I did not receive any other income.
(1) (2) (3)

h. TAXPAYER:
I'm 16 years old. Last year I earned $1,327 from babysitting as an employee (no withholding) and $200 from mowing the grass for our next-door neighbors. I also had $36 in interest from my savings account. My parents can claim me as a dependent.
(1) (2) (3)

i. TAXPAYER:
I'm single and 33 years old. My wages for 1990 were $5,000. There was no income tax withheld. I received $3,000 unemployment compensation.
(1) (2) (3)

j. TAXPAYER:
I have a fully taxable annuity of $1,500 from my deceased mother's employer. I qualify to be claimed as a dependent on my sister's tax return.
(1) (2) (3)

Summary

You used the chart and other rules to help you complete the exercises. You now know who must file and who should file a tax return. It is necessary to remember that some taxpayers may need to file a return to get a refund of taxes withheld or a refund of the earned income credit, even though they are not required to file a tax return. For more information on the earned income credit, see lesson 11 in this module or Module III, lesson 9.

Answers to Exercise

a. (1) Must file. (Self-employment income of $400 or more.)
b. (2) Should file. (Refund of withheld taxes.)
c. (2) Should file. (Refund of withheld taxes.)
d. (1) Must file.
e. (1) Must file.
f. (2) Should file. (Refund of withheld taxes. Gift is not included in gross income.)
g. (1) Must file.
h. (1) Must file. (Parents can claim as a dependent, had unearned income, and gross income is more than $500.)
i. (1) Must file. The taxpayer's gross income is at least $5,300.
j. (1) Must file. The taxpayer has unearned income of $500 or more and can be claimed as a dependent on another person's tax return.

Income Reported on Form 1040A

A taxpayer can report the following types of income in Step 4 of Form 1040A:

Wages, Salaries, and Tips

Wages and salaries are compensation received by employees for services performed. They should be shown in box 10 of Form W-2 and are reported on Form 1040A, line 7.

Tips are money and goods received as a gratuity by maids, waiters, porters, etc., for services performed. Tips are reported on Form 1040A, line 7.

If a taxpayer received a scholarship or fellowship, part of it may be taxable even if the taxpayer did not receive a Form W-2 for the amount. Add the taxable part to any other amounts on line 7, and write "SCH" and the amount not reported on Form W-2 in the space to the left of line 7.

Interest

Interest is money earned from savings and checking accounts and savings bonds, etc. It is reported on Form 1040A, line 8a. Tax-exempt interest must also be shown on line 8b, but is not included with taxable interest in the totals column (line 8a).

Dividends

Ordinary dividends are payments that a corporation makes to shareholders from its earnings and profits. Ordinary dividends are reported on Form 1040A, line 9.

Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs)

Generally, distributions from an individual retirement arrangement (IRA) are fully taxable and, up to this year, were reported only on Form 1040. A taxpayer who receives IRA distributions can now report the total on line 10a of Form 1040A and * the taxable part on line 10b of Form 1040A. If the IRA distribution is fully taxable, leave line 10a blank and report the full amount on line 10b. For more information on individual retirement arrangements, see Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

Pensions and Annuities

If a taxpayer receives a pension or annuity, he or she will generally have a taxable part and a nontaxable part. Before 1990, this income was reported only on Form 1040. Now a taxpayer can choose to report the total pension or annuity on line 11a of Form 1040A and the taxable part on line 11b. If a taxpayer did not * contribute to the cost of the pension plan or receives a military pension based on age or length of service, the income he or she receives is fully taxable and the whole amount is reported on line 11b of Form 1040A. Leave line 11a blank. See Module IV, Lesson 3, Pensions, for a full discussion on how to figure the taxable part of pension or annuity income for most taxpayers.

Unemployment Compensation

Unemployment compensation includes benefits to unemployed individuals that a state paid from the Federal Unemployment Trust Fund. Unemployment compensation is reported on Form 1040A, line 12.

Social Security Benefits

Some taxpayers may have to include part of their social security benefits in taxable income. Social security benefits also include equivalent benefits that the Railroad Retirement Board pays to many of its retirees. A taxpayer receiving any of these benefits should have received a Form SSA-1099 for social security benefits or a Form RRB-1099 for equivalent railroad retirement benefits.

In earlier years, these benefits were reported only on Form 1040. Now, a taxpayer can choose to report social security benefits on Form 1040A for 1990. The total * benefits are shown on line 13a of Form 1040A and the taxable amount is shown on line 13b of Form 1040A.

To figure the taxable part of social security benefits, see Module IV, Lesson 4, Taxable Social Security Benefits, or Publication 915, Social Security Benefits and Equivalent Railroad Retirement Benefits.

Example

Laura and John are married and file jointly. Their combined wages are $16,700. They received $382 in interest and $174 in ordinary dividends. Laura received $300 in tips and $1,463 in unemployment compensation. In 1990, John became eligible to begin receiving distributions from his IRA. They may file a Form 1040A.

These types of income and how they are reported are more fully explained later in this module and in Module III. If the taxpayer you are helping has other types of income, such as partnership income, alimony, or capital gain distributions, he or she must file Form 1040.

Complete the following exercise to become familiar with the types of income reported on Form 1040A.

Exercise

a. Mr. Summers reports a pension of $4,000 ($3,000 taxable), capital gain distribution of $500, interest of $500, and dividends of $400. Can he file a Form 1040A?
Yes _________ No _________

b. Indicate in the space provided whether the income listed below is reported on Form 1040A.

c. Miss Tate reports that her only income was $900 interest from savings, social security of $1,500, pension of $2,000, and $5,000 in wages. Can she use Form 1040A?
Yes _________ No _________

d. John Bates had wages of $21,500 and dividend income of $500. Can he file Form 1040A?
Yes _________ No _________

e. Miss Evelyn Walker, age 67, had a salary of $25,000, and received $200 interest from a savings account. Can she file Form 1040A?
Yes _________ No _________

f. Kathy Kemper is divorced. She had wages of $15,000 and received $1,000 alimony and $2,000 child support payments. Can she file Form 1040A?
Yes _________ No _________

Summary

The only types of income that can be reported on Form 1040A are wages, salaries, tips, interest, ordinary dividends, IRA distributions, pension and annuity income, unemployment compensation, and social security benefits. Taxpayers who have other types of income must file Form 1040.

In later lessons you will cover the items subtracted from income on Form 1040A.

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

In the previous lesson, you learned what types of income may be reported on Form 1040A. Now you will learn whether an individual may file Form 1040A or must file Form 1040. This determination is based on many factors, including the amount of taxable income, types of income, adjustments to income, deductions, other taxes, and credits.

All items on Form 1040A can be reported on Form 1040. However, many items on Form 1040 cannot be reported on Form 1040A.

If the person you are helping reports only items that are listed on Form 1040A, he or she should file Form 1040A. A taxpayer who received income not listed on Form 1040A must file Form 1040. If the taxpayer can claim credits or deductions that are listed only on Form 1040, he or she should file Form 1040 because claiming these items may result in a lower tax.

Look at the following exhibits. Note that many items listed on Form 1040 are not on Form 1040A. These illustrations show items from Form 1040A first, and then the corresponding part of Form 1040.

Who May File Form 1040A

Generally, Form 1040A may be filed by an individual who:

1. Has less than $50,000 of taxable income,
2. Has only the following types of income: wages, salaries, tips, taxable scholarships or fellowships, interest, ordinary dividends, IRA distributions, pension and annuity income, unemployment compensation, and social security benefits,
3. Has no adjustments to income other than the deduction for certain contributions to an IRA,
4. Does not itemize deductions,
5. Owes no taxes other than the regular income tax or advance earned income credit payment, and
6. Claims no credits other than the credit for estimated tax payments, the credit for child and dependent care expenses, the credit for the elderly or the disabled, or the earned income credit.

Other considerations also limit who may file Form 1040A. For information about who must file Form 1040, look ahead to Module III, Lesson 1, or see Publication 17.

Example

Larry Adams' income was wages of $16,350, interest of $440, and dividends of $690. He does not itemize deductions or claim any credits or adjustments. He may file Form 1040A. If he files Form 1040A, he must report his interest and dividend income on Schedule 1.

Probing

As a volunteer you will have to ask questions like the following ones to determine each individual's tax situation. The answers you get will help you determine whether the taxpayer can file Form 1040A.

1. What income did you receive? Find out the exact amounts and types of income such as: $14,000 wages; $60 interest; $2,350 unemployment compensation; $1,800 social security; and $75 lottery winnings.
2. Did you pay alimony to a former spouse? Did you receive alimony from a former spouse?
3. Did you have an interest penalty for early withdrawal from a savings certificate?
4. Are you itemizing deductions? It may be to the taxpayer's advantage to itemize if total deductions exceed the taxpayer's standard deduction. Generally, this is $5,450 on a joint return or on the return of a qualifying widow(er); $4,750 when the filing status is head of household; $3,250 when the filing status is single; or $2,725 when a married taxpayer files a separate return. Different standard deduction amounts apply to persons who can be claimed on another's return and to taxpayers who are age 65 or over or blind. See Lesson 9 in this module.
5. Can you claim the credit for the elderly? How about any other credits, such as the foreign tax credit?
6. Did you owe other tax, such as self-employment tax or the tax on tips?
7. Did you make estimated tax payments?

The answers to these questions will help you determine which form the individual should file.

Exercise 1

Carl George is single and earned $5,600 in wages. Carl received a taxable scholarship of $3,200. He also received $35 in interest, $50 in dividends, and $1,600 in unemployment compensation. He does not itemize deductions, nor does he claim any adjustments to income or any credits. Which form should Carl file?

Answer

Exercise 2

Carol Williams is a head of household, and she earned wages of $16,350. She had interest income of $75. She also contributed $650 to an IRA and wants to itemize deductions. Which form should Carol file?

Answer

Exercise 3

Wilma Daniels has income from lottery winnings, interest, and dividends and wants to itemize the following deductions: medical expenses, taxes, and interest. Which form should Wilma file?

Answer

Exercise 4

Vicki Carlson is a qualifying widow with dependent child. She had wages of $14,850, interest of $15, and unemployment compensation of $625. She has an 8-year-old dependent son for whom she pays babysitting fees of $760 while she works. She does not itemize deductions. Which form should Vicki file?

Answer

Exercise 5

George and Joanne have income from the following sources. They file jointly.

George's salary	$18,250
Joanne's salary	16,755
Interest income (joint accounts)	884

They have no other expenses, deductions, credits, or adjustments to income. Which form should they file?

Answer

Summary

You have now completed an overview of Form 1040A, which is simpler than Form 1040. In Module III, you will study the situations in which Form 1040 must be used.

Answers to Exercises

1. Carl should file Form 1040A.
2. Carol should file Form 1040 to itemize.
3. Wilma should file Form 1040 to report the lottery winnings and to itemize.
4. Vicki should file Form 1040A.
5. George and Joanne should file Form 1040A.

Wages, Salaries, Tips

Wages and other compensation (including some scholarships and fellowships) are shown on Form W-2. Tips that are reported to employers are included with wages on Form W-2.

On line 7, Form 1040A, enter the amount from box 10, Form W-2. If the taxpayer has more than one Form W-2, add the amounts on all Forms W-2 and enter the total on line 7, Form 1040A.

If the taxpayer received less than $20 in tips during a month while working for one employer, the taxpayer was not required to report any tips that month to the employer. However, these unreported tips must be included in income. Add the unreported tips to the amount from box 10 of all Forms W-2 and enter the total on line 7, Form 1040A.

Note: If the taxpayer received tips of $20 or more in any month and did not report all tips to his or her employer, the taxpayer must file Form 1040 because these tips are subject to social security tax.

Exercise 1

Alicia Lee, who is single, shows you her Forms W-2 (Exhibits 2 and 3). Use them to complete lines 7 through 14 of her Form 1040A (Exhibit 4). This was her only income.

15a Your IRA deduction from applicable worksheet. 15a

IRA deduction from applicable worksheet.

Interest

Interest income is usually shown on a statement from the payer. If the taxpayer received $10 or more from a payer (other than an individual), that payer should have sent the taxpayer a Form 1099-INT.

Note: The taxpayer must file Form 1040 if he or she received interest as a nominee for someone else, reports OID (original issue discount) interest in an amount that is less than what is shown on Form 1099-OID, or received or paid accrued interest on securities transferred between payment dates.

If the taxpayer has more than one Form 1099-INT, add the amounts on all Forms 1099-INT and enter the total on line 8a, Form 1040A.

If the total interest on line 8a is more than $400, use Part I, Schedule 1, Form 1040A, to list each payer's name and the amount from each Form 1099-INT.

Exclusion of Interest on Certain Savings Bonds

* Beginning in 1990, a taxpayer can exclude from income all or part of the interest from certain U.S. savings bonds if the proceeds are used to pay for qualified higher education expenses during the year the taxpayer redeems the bonds. To qualify, the bonds must be Series EE bonds and they must be issued after 1989 to an individual who is 24 or older.

Qualified higher education expenses. These are expenses for tuition and fees at a college, university, or vocational school for the owner of the bonds or the owner's spouse or dependent.

Because 1990 is the first year that taxpayers can take the exclusion, you will probably not help anyone who qualifies for it in 1990. This exclusion will become more common in later years when taxpayers cash in their Series EE bonds for qualified higher education expenses. If you do help a taxpayer who would like to take the exclusion, you will need to fill out Form 8815, Exclusion of Interest from Series EE U.S. Savings Bonds Issued After 1989. For more information on this exclusion, see Publication 550, Investment Income and Expenses.

Tax-exempt interest. If the taxpayer received any tax-exempt interest, the total of all tax-exempt interest must be shown on line 8b. Do not add tax-exempt interest with taxable interest on line 8a.

Example

Burt and Elena Page are married and file a joint return. They had the following interest income.

City Bank—$334
First American Bank—$178
Mutual Savings and Loan—$93

Part I

Interest Income

(See pages 23 and 45.)

Complete this part and attach Schedule 1 to Form 1040A if you received over $400 in taxable interest or are claiming the exclusion of interest from Series EE U.S. savings bonds issued after 1989.

If you are claiming the exclusion or you received, as a nominee, interest that actually belongs to another person, see page 45.

Note: If you received a Form 1099-INT, Form 1099-OID, or substitute statement from a brokerage firm, enter the firm's name and the total interest shown on that form.

2 Add the amounts on line 1.	2
3 Enter the excludable savings bond interest, if any, from Form 8815, line 14. Attach Form 8815 to Form 1040A.	3
4 Subtract line 3 from line 2. Enter the result here and on Form 1040A, line 8a.	4 plete this part and attach Schedule 1 to Form 1040A if you received over $400 in dividends.

Dividends

Dividend income is usually shown on a statement from the payer. If the taxpayer received $10 or more of dividend income from a payer, that payer should have sent the taxpayer a Form 1099-DIV.

Box 1a of Form 1099-DIV shows the total (gross) dividends received during the year. This total is the sum of the amounts shown in boxes 1b, 1c, 1d, and 1e. Box 1b shows the total ordinary dividends that the taxpayer received during the year. If the taxpayer's Form 1099-DIV shows equal amounts in boxes 1a and 1b and no other amounts in boxes 1c, 1d, and 1e, then he or she can file Form 1040A. If an amount appears in either box 1c, 1d, or 1e, the taxpayer must file Form 1040. These boxes are discussed in Lesson 3 of Module III.

Also, if the taxpayer received dividends as a nominee for someone else, he or she must file Form 1040. If the taxpayer's dividend income is complicated or confusing, you should refer the taxpayer to Publication 550, Investment Income and Expenses, or to a professional preparer.

If the taxpayer received only ordinary dividends in box 1b, enter on line 9, Form 1040A, the total dividends from box 1a of all Forms 1099-DIV the taxpayer shows you.

Generally, if the person you are helping is married filing a separate return, and if there is dividend income from investments the taxpayer and his or her spouse own together, enter on line 9 only half the amount you would enter if the taxpayer were filing a joint return.

If the total dividends on line 9 are more than $400, use Part II, Schedule 1, Form 1040A, to list each payer's name and the amounts received from each payer.

Exercise 3

Jill F. Chambers shows you the following Form 1099-DIV (Exhibit 9). Use it to complete line 9 of her Form 1040A (Exhibit 10).

IRA Distributions

An IRA (individual retirement arrangement) distribution may be fully taxable or it may be taxable in part. It can be in the form of a regular distribution, an early distribution, a rollover, or any other money or property that a taxpayer received from an IRA account or annuity. If a taxpayer received this kind of distribution, the "SEP/IRA" checkbox will be marked in box 7 of Form 1099-R.

* Before 1990, a taxpayer had to file Form 1040 to report any IRA distributions received. However, beginning with the 1990 return, a taxpayer can report IRA distributions on Form 1040A.

The total IRA distribution received is shown in box 1 of Form 1099-R. Enter this amount on line 10a of Form 1040A. The taxable part is shown in box 2 of Form 1099-R. Make sure that this is the amount you enter on line 10b of Form 1040A, "Taxable amount." If the IRA distribution is fully taxable, leave line 10a blank.

Example

Wilma Mason received $16,000 in wages, $365 in dividends, and a Form 1099-R (Exhibit 11) showing a taxable IRA distribution of $4,000 in box 2. Step 4 of Wilma's Form 1040A is filled in as shown in Exhibit 12.

For more information on IRA distributions, see Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

Pensions and Annuities

* Beginning in 1990, taxpayers can also report pension and annuity income on Form 1040A, lines 11a and 11b. They should have received a Form W-2P or Form 1099-R showing the amount of their pension or annuity. Figuring the taxable part of a pension or annuity involves a fairly complex computation. This topic is covered fully in Module IV, Lesson 3, Pensions.

Unemployment Compensation

All unemployment compensation is taxable. Unemployment compensation is shown on Form 1099-G. The total amount received is shown in box 1. Enter this amount on line 12, Form 1040A.

Note: Form 1099-G may also show an amount in box 2 for state and local income tax refunds. Box 3 shows the tax year of the refund. If the taxpayer did not itemize deductions for the tax year of the refund, this refund is not taxable income. If the taxpayer did itemize deductions for that year, Form 1040 must be filed.

Exercise 4

Larry G. Bond's wages were $18,000, his interest was $17, and his dividends were $33. Use the information from his Form 1099-G (Exhibit 13) to complete lines 7 through 13b of Step 4 (Exhibit 14).

Social Security Benefits

Some taxpayers you help may have to include part of their social security benefits (including equivalent railroad retirement benefits) in taxable income. Generally, if a taxpayer's adjusted gross income (with some modifications) is over a certain base amount, part of the social security benefit is taxable.

* Until 1990, taxpayers who received social security benefits could report them only on Form 1040. Beginning with the 1990 tax year, taxpayers can now report their social security benefits on Form 1040A. A special worksheet is needed to figure the taxable part. See Module IV, Lesson 4, Taxable Social Security Benefits, or the instructions for Form 1040A for more information on how to figure the taxable part of social security benefits.

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

Three subtractions from income are allowed on Form 1040A in Steps 5 and 6: the deduction for contributions to an IRA, the standard deduction, and the exemptions deduction. Notice the order on Form 1040A (Exhibits 1 and 2). Income is totaled on line 14; the three subtractions from income are taken on lines 15c, 19, and 21, to arrive at taxable income on line 22. The tax is figured on the taxable income.

Contributions to an IRA

Any taxpayer who earned compensation is eligible to make contributions to an individual retirement arrangement (IRA). A taxpayer can generally deduct the smaller of: (1) wages, salaries, and tips, or (2) contributions to IRAs, up to $2,000, as long as the taxpayer is not covered by a retirement plan at work. In this case, the taxpayer may have to reduce his or her IRA deduction based on certain dollar limits, discussed later.

Taxpayers may not use Form 1040A to deduct simplified employee pension (SEP) payments. These payments can be deducted only on Form 1040.

Married Taxpayers

If both spouses work and have IRAs, each spouse must figure the deduction separately. The total deduction on a joint return can be as much as $4,000. On a joint return, taxpayers can deduct contributions made to an IRA for an unemployed spouse or for a spouse with very little earned income who chooses to be treated as having no earned income for the year, for IRA purposes. If contributions were made to an unemployed spouse's IRA, the taxpayers can deduct the smaller of: (1) the working spouse's wages, salaries, and tips, or (2) contributions to IRAs (including contributions to the working spouse's IRA), up to $2,250. However, no more than $2,000 can be deducted as a contribution to either spouse's IRA.

Married filing separately. If a taxpayer's filing status is married filing a separate return and the taxpayer is not covered by a retirement plan at work, the taxpayer may not be able to take a full deduction for his or her IRA contribution. The taxpayer can take a full deduction only if the taxpayer did not live with his or her spouse at any time during the year. If he or she did live with the spouse during the year, the taxpayer's IRA deduction is limited to the amount shown in the "Married filing separately" column of the chart, below, under Limits on Deduction.

Limits on Deduction

If the taxpayer is covered by a retirement plan at work, his or her allowable IRA deduction may be reduced or eliminated as follows:

	The allowable IRA deduction—
If the filing status is:	phases out when AGI exceeds:	will be zero when AGI is:
Single, or unmarried head of household	$25,000	$35,000
Married filing jointly, or qualifying widow(er)	$40,000	$50,000
Married filing separately	-0-	$10,000

The formula for figuring the various phaseout levels is discussed more fully in Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs). Because the average taxpayer that you help should not have an AGI greater than the levels shown in the table above, you will not be expected to know the phaseout formula. If you do help a taxpayer with an AGI in excess of the levels, refer the taxpayer to Publication 590 or to a professional preparer.

A taxpayer may not take a deduction for any payment made to an IRA during or after the tax year in which the taxpayer reaches the age of 70½. However, a taxpayer may continue to deduct payments to a spouse's IRA until the year in which the spouse reaches the age of 70½.

Anyone who contributes more than allowed, takes distributions before age 59½ (unless disabled), or receives smaller distributions than required after reaching age 70½, is subject to additional tax. If you meet taxpayers with these or any other IRA complexities, refer them to a professional tax preparer or to Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

Nondeductible Contributions

Although deductible IRA contributions may be limited or eliminated because of the phaseout rules, a taxpayer will be able to make nondeductible contributions to new or existing IRAs. Earnings on these contributions are not taxed until they are distributed to the taxpayer.

Limit. A taxpayer can make nondeductible contributions up to $2,000 or 100% of total compensation received, whichever is less, minus the amount of allowable IRA deduction.

If a taxpayer chooses not to deduct the allowable amount of his or her contributions for the tax year, the taxpayer may increase his or her nondeductible contributions limit by that amount.

For more information on nondeductible contributions and the records the taxpayer must keep, consult or refer the taxpayer to Publication 590.

When to Deduct IRA Contributions

Individuals may deduct IRA contributions for 1990 that are made by April 15, 1991. Individuals may not deduct contributions they made in 1990 and deducted on their 1989 tax return. The contribution does not have to be made before the return is filed. However, if the contribution is not made by April 15, and the taxpayer deducted an IRA contribution on his or her return, or claimed a deduction amount different from the contribution actually made, the taxpayer must then file an amended return.

Worksheet

The worksheet (Exhibit 3), which is also in the instructions for Form 1040A, will help you figure taxpayers' deductions for contributions to an IRA. Where necessary, the Examples explain that the taxpayer was not covered by a retirement plan at work.

Example

Richard and Lynn Barnett are filing a joint return. Richard earned $17,000 and contributed $1,400 to an IRA. Lynn, who worked part-time, earned $4,500 and contributed $1,000 to an IRA. Their deduction for contributions to an IRA is $2,400. If they filed separate returns and lived together during the year, Richard could not deduct any of his IRA contribution and Lynn could deduct $1,000 because her adjusted gross income is less than $10,000.

Example

David and Ruth Webster are filing a joint return. David earned $19,000. Ruth was unemployed. David contributed $1,800 into his IRA and $400 into an IRA for Ruth. Their deduction for contributions to an IRA is $2,200. If David filed a separate return and lived with Ruth during the tax year, he would have no deduction for his IRA contribution because his AGI is over $10,000. If David did not live with Ruth at all during the year, he could deduct only $1,800 (the contributions to his own IRA) as long as he was not covered by a retirement plan at work. Ruth could not deduct any contributions on a separate return because she received no wages, salaries, or tips.

Exercise 1

Gary and Sharon Johnson both have IRAs. Gary earned $11,900 and contributed $1,100 to his IRA. Sharon earned $15,600 and contributed $1,500 to her IRA. How much is their deduction on a joint return?

	(a) Your IRA	(b) Your working spouse's IRA
1. Enter IRA contributions you made for 1990, but do not enter more than $2,000 in either column.
2. Enter wages, salaries, and tips for each person, from Form 1040A, line 7.
3. Compare the amounts on lines 1 and 2. Enter the smaller of the two amounts on line 3. Enter on Form 1040A, line 15a, the amount from line 3, column (a). Enter on Form 1040A, line 15b, the amount, if any, from line 3, column (b). If married filing a joint return and contributions were made to your nonworking spouse's IRA, go to line 4.

	Nonworking spouse's IRA
4. Compare the amount on line 2, column (a), to $2,250 and enter the smaller amount.
5. Enter the amount from line 3, column (a).
6. Subtract line 5 from line 4. Enter the result.
7. Enter IRA contributions made for 1990 for your nonworking spouse, but not more than $2,000.
8. Compare the amounts on lines 6 and 7. Enter the smaller of the two amounts on line 8. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 15b.

Standard Deduction

If a taxpayer does not itemize deductions, he or she can claim the standard deduction. The amount of the standard deduction depends on the taxpayer's filing status and whether the taxpayer (or the taxpayer's spouse if a joint return is filed) is 65 or over or blind. A taxpayer who is blind or at least 65 years old is entitled to use a higher standard deduction, as discussed later in this lesson.

The amount of the 1990 standard deduction for each filing status is as follows:

Filing Status	Standard Deduction Under 65 and not Blind
Single	$3,250
Married filing jointly	5,450
Married filing separately	2,725
Head of household	4,750
Qualifying widow(er)	5,450

If the taxpayer is under 65 and not blind, enter the appropriate amount from the column above on line 19 of Form 1040A. Then subtract line 19 from the amount on line 17, adjusted gross income, and enter the result on line 20 (Exhibit 4).

Example

Nate Alexander is 33 years old and is not blind. His wife died in 1987, leaving him with their dependent daughter, Marie. Nate has not remarried. He paid for the full cost of keeping up a home both for him and Marie. Nate can file as head of household in 1990. He enters $4,750 on line 19 of his Form 1040A and subtracts this amount from his adjusted gross income, $22,590, on line 17, entering the result, $17,840, on line 20 (Exhibit 4).

22 Subtract line 21 from line 20. (If line 21 is more than line 20, enter -0-.) This is your taxable income

Standard deduction for persons 65 or over or blind. Some taxpayers may be entitled to a higher standard deduction if they were age 65 or over or blind by the last day of the tax year. On a single return, taxpayers can claim up to two additional amounts for a higher standard deduction, and on a joint return they can claim up to a total of four (see the Standard Deduction Table, later).

On a separate return, a taxpayer can claim the higher standard deduction because his or her spouse is 65 or over or blind, only if the spouse had no gross income and was not the dependent of another taxpayer.

If a taxpayer (or spouse, if applicable as explained above) was 65 or over, or was blind, or both, in 1990, you should check the appropriate box or boxes on line 18a, Form 1040A. Next you total the number of boxes checked and turn to the Standard Deduction Table, later. This chart will tell you which amount to enter on line 19. You then subtract line 19 from the amount on line 17 and enter the result on line 20.

Standard Deduction Table

Caution. This table does not apply to taxpayers who can be claimed as dependents. See the table and worksheets for dependents, later.

STEP 1. Check the correct boxes below for a taxpayer.

☐ 65 or older ☐ Blind

Check the correct boxes below that apply to the taxpayer's spouse if claiming spouse's exemption.

☐ 65 or older ☐ Blind

* If spouse itemizes deductions on a separate return, the taxpayer's standard deduction is zero.

Example

Larry and Donna Dorsey are filing a joint return for 1990. Both are under 65 and neither is blind. Their standard deduction for 1990 is $5,450. You would enter this amount on line 19 of their Form 1040A. Since neither qualifies, Larry and Donna may not claim the higher standard deduction for persons who are 65 or over or blind (Exhibit 5).

Exercise 2

For each of the taxpayers described below, figure the standard deduction you would enter on line 19, Form 1040A.

a. Rosa Rhodes is blind, 45 years old and is married filing a separate return.

b. Calvin and Cleola Barclay are filing a joint return. Calvin is 64 and blind, and Cleola is 66 and has no visual problems.

c. Gary Winchester got a final divorce from his wife earlier in 1990. He is blind and has no dependent children.

Standard deduction for dependents. The standard deduction for an individual who can be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's (such as a parent) return generally is the greater of (a) $500, or (b) the individual's earned income, generally not more than $3,250.

However, the standard deduction for a dependent who is 65 or older or blind may be higher.

The table below can be used to determine the standard deduction for a dependent who has earned income of $500 or less for the year.

Standard Deduction Table
For dependents
Who have earned income of $500 or less

Filing Status	Standard Deduction
Single
Under 65 or not blind	$ 500
* 65 or older or blind	$1,300
65 or older and blind	$2,100
Married Filing Separately*
Under 65 and not blind	$ 500
65 or older or blind	$1,150
65 or older and blind	$1,800

* If spouse itemizes deductions on a separate return, standard deduction is zero.

The worksheet below can be used to determine the standard deduction for a dependent who has earned income of more than $500 for the year.

Exhibit 8

Standard Deduction Worksheet for Dependents (keep for your records)
Use this worksheet ONLY if someone can claim you as a dependent.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 7. If none, enter -0-.
2. Minimum amount.	500.00
3. Compare the amounts on lines 1 and 2. Enter the larger of the two amounts here.
4. Enter on line 4 the amount shown below for your filing status. • Single, enter $3,250 • Married filing a separate return, enter $2,725 • Married filing a joint return, or qualifying widow(er) with dependent child, enter $5,450 • Head of household, enter $4,750
5. Standard deduction a. Compare the amounts on lines 3 and 4. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. If under 65 and not blind, stop here and enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 19. Otherwise, go to line 5b.
b. If 65 or older or blind, multiply $800 ($650 if married filing a joint or separate return, or qualifying widow(er) with dependent child) by the number on Form 1040A, line 18a. Enter the result.
c. Add lines 5a and 5b. Enter the total here and on Form 1040A, line 19.

If the taxpayer you are helping is claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's return, check the appropriate box on line 18b and enter the appropriate standard deduction amount ($500 or up to one of the amounts listed in the chart or figured using the worksheet above) on line 19 of the taxpayer's Form 1040A. Subtract this amount from the amount on line 17, adjusted gross income, and enter the result on line 20.

You may want to use the worksheet for a person who can be claimed as a dependent in the Form 1040A Instructions in order to work through the following examples on your own. As you work through the examples using the worksheet, you should arrive at the same result as the answer given near the end of each example.

Example

Michael James is single, 19 years old, and is claimed as a dependent on his parents' 1990 tax return. He has interest income of $600 and wages of $150. Mike's standard deduction is $500 because the greater of $500 or his earned income, $150, is $500. This amount is entered on line 19 of Mike's Form 1040A (Exhibit 9).

Example

Amy DeLong, who is single, is claimed as a dependent on her parents' 1990 tax return. She is 18 years old and blind. She has interest income of $900 and wages of $2,000. Her standard deduction is $2,800, which is her earned income of $2,000 plus $800 (see worksheet above). Amy's standard deduction is limited to her earned income (up to $3,250) plus $800, because she is a single person who is under 65 and blind. (See Exhibit 10.)

Example

Joe Johnston, a 22-year-old full-time college student, is claimed as a dependent on his parents' 1990 tax return. Joe is married and files a separate return. His wife does not itemize deductions on her separate return.

Joe had $1,200 in interest income and wages of $2,900. His standard deduction to be entered on line 19, Form 1040A, is $2,725 (Exhibit 11), because the greater of $500 or his earned income is $2,900, but his standard deduction to be entered on line 19 cannot be more than $2,725 (the maximum allowable standard deduction for a dependent under 65 and not blind who files a separate return).

Spouse who itemizes deductions. If the taxpayer you are helping is married and filing a separate return on Form 1040A, and the taxpayer's spouse is filing a Form 1040 with itemized deductions, you should check the box on line 18c of Form 1040A. Then read the Form 1040A instructions where it explains that, if the taxpayer's spouse itemizes deductions, the taxpayer cannot claim the standard deduction. If the taxpayer has no itemized deductions and does not otherwise have to file Form 1040, enter zero (0) on line 19 of Form 1040A.

Exemptions Deduction

For each exemption claimed, $2,050 is subtracted from income. Line 21 of Form 1040A instructs you to multiply $2,050 by the number of exemptions claimed on line 6e. This seems easy, but many people make mistakes on this line. Be sure you multiply by the right amount when you figure the exemptions deduction.

Exercise 3

a. Complete Steps 4 through 6 of Form 1040A (Exhibits 12 and 13) for Lewis and Esther Pitkin. They file jointly and have a dependent daughter, Karen, who is 3 years old. Lewis earned $24,900. Esther was unemployed. They made no IRA contributions.

Lesson 10

Computation of Tax

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to determine:

1. The correct tax liability on Form 1040A, using the Tax Table.
2. The effect of receiving advance earned income credit payments on tax liability.
3. If a taxpayer is due a refund or owes more tax.

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

This lesson explains the rest of the line entries on Form 1040A. You will learn how to figure the total tax and determine whether the taxpayer will receive a refund or owe tax. The total tax depends on the entries you already made for filing status, exemptions, income, credits, and payments.

Using the Tax Table

The Tax Table is in the Instructions for Form 1040A. Generally, all taxpayers who file Form 1040A will use the Tax Table to find their tax. The tax is based on filing status and on taxable income (line 22 of Form 1040A).

On the Tax Table (Exhibit 1), find the income bracket in which the taxable income on line 22 falls. Go across that line until you reach the column for the appropriate filing status. The figure there is the tax you enter on line 23. If the taxpayer's income is the same as the ending amount in a tax bracket, go to the next tax bracket to find the tax.

Be careful to use the correct amount from the Tax Table. Misreading the Tax Table causes a number of mistakes on returns. Entering the wrong tax will delay processing the return.

Example

Roger Lyon is single and his taxable income is $8,150. His tax liability is $1,226, not $1,219 (see Exhibit 1), because $8,150 is more than the lower tax bracket. The highest income that the lower bracket would cover is $8,149.99.

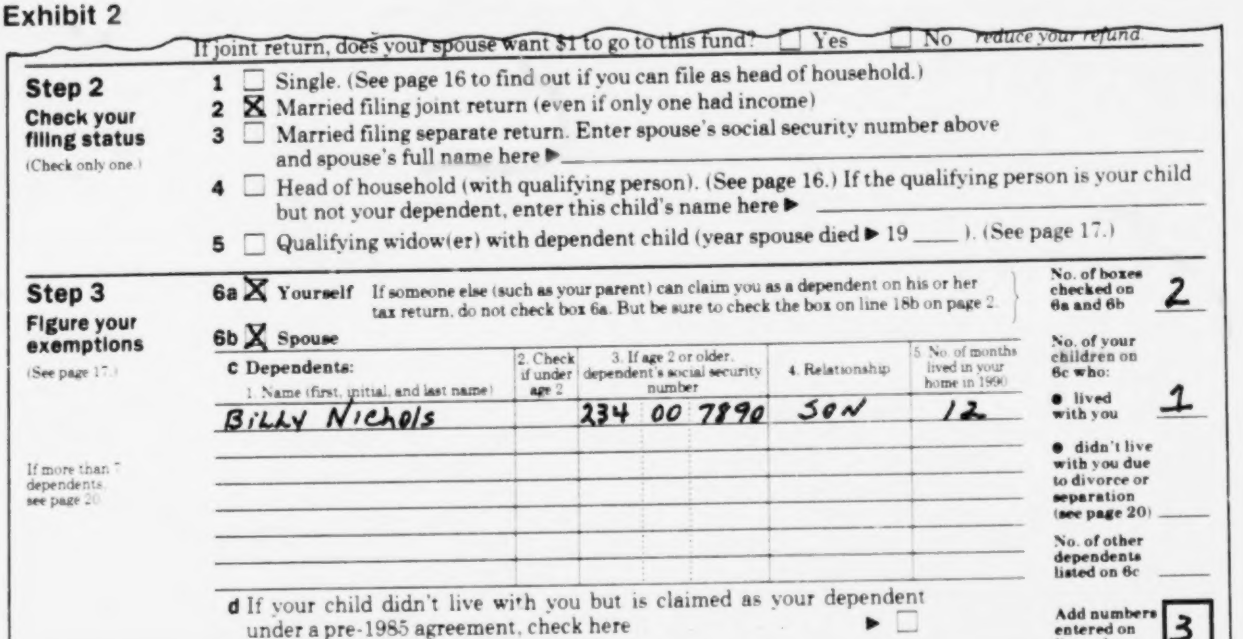
Example

Sam and Mary Nichols file Form 1040A jointly. They claim their son, Billy, age 2 (SSN 234-00-7890), on their return. Sam, the only wage earner, earned $21,840 and had $1,650 withheld for tax. The Tax Table shows that their tax should be $1,534. They do not qualify for the earned income credit because Sam's wages are over $20,264. Notice how the Nicholses report this information on lines 1 through 28d of their return (Exhibits 2 and 3).

Exhibit 2



If joint return, does your spouse want $1 to go to this fund? ☐ Yes ☐ No reduce your refund.

Step 2
Check your filing status
(Check only one.)

1 ☐ Single. (See page 16 to find out if you can file as head of household.)
2 ☒ Married filing joint return (even if only one had income)
3 ☐ Married filing separate return. Enter spouse's social security number above and spouse's full name here ▶ ____
4 ☐ Head of household (with qualifying person). (See page 16.) If the qualifying person is your child but not your dependent, enter this child's name here ▶ ____
5 ☐ Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child (year spouse died ▶ 19____). (See page 17.)

(See page 17.)

6a ☒ Yourself If someone else (such as your parent) can claim you as a dependent on his or her tax return, do not check box 6a. But be sure to check the box on line 18b on page 2.
6b ☒ Spouse

No. of boxes checked on 6a and 6b: 2

c Dependents:

1. Name (first, initial, and last name)	2. Check if under age 2	3. If age 2 or older, dependent's social security number	4. Relationship	5. No. of months lived in your home in 1990

Example

Linda Tripp files as head of household and claims her daughter Susan as a dependent. She had $620 in tax withheld, and her earned income credit worksheet shows a credit of $590. Susan's social security number is 101-00-3581. In the Tax Table column for head of household, she sees that the tax on her taxable income of $5,510 is $829. Linda's Form 1040A, through Step 7, is shown in Exhibits 4 and 5.

Example

Larry and Donna Dorsey are filing a joint return for 1990. Both are under age 65 and they have no dependents. Larry, who has been blind since birth, earned $10,865 and had $768 federal income tax withheld. Donna earned $10,138 and had $962 withheld. The Tax Table shows their tax should be $1,624. The Dorsey's Form 1040A, through Step 7, is shown in Exhibits 6 and 7.

Exercise 1

Use the Tax Table to find the correct tax in the following situations.

a. Single taxpayer, taxable income of $18,654. __________
b. Head of household, taxable income of $16,950. __________
c. Married filing separately, taxable income of $16,923. __________
d. Married filing jointly, taxable income of $15,273. __________

Child's income taxable at parents' rates. If a child is under 14 at the end of the year and has more than $1,000 of investment income for the year, his or her investment income (interest, dividends, etc.) may be taxed at the parents' highest tax rate. This is covered in Module IV, Lesson 6.

Advance Earned Income Credit

An employee who expects to qualify for the earned income credit (EIC) for 1991 can choose to get the credit in advance. To do this, the employee completes Form W-5, Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate, and gives it to his or her employer. If the employee is eligible, the employer must then include the advance EIC in the employee's regular paychecks during the year. At the end of the year, the employer reports the advance credit in box 8 of the employee's Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement.

An employee who receives advance EIC must file a tax return for that year.

To qualify for the advance EIC, the employee must answer "Yes" to all questions on the earned income credit checklist, which is provided with Form W-5. Once the employee gives Form W-5 to the employer, it stays in effect through December 31 of that year. The employee must file a new Form W-5 each year to get the advance EIC. If changed circumstances make the employee ineligible for the EIC, or if the employee's spouse also files Form W-5 with an employer, the employee has until 10 days after the change to revoke the previous Form W-5 or to file a new one showing that the spouse also filed a Form W-5.

The employee can choose not to file Form W-5 and not to get the EIC in advance. He or she can still receive the EIC when the return is filed.

If the taxpayer received advance EIC for 1990 (as shown in box 8, Form W-2), enter the amount on line 26 of Form 1040A. Then add this amount to the tax on line 25. Enter the result on line 27; this is the taxpayer's total tax for 1990.

Example

Sally Long received the Form W-2 reprinted here (see Exhibit 10). Sally's son is her dependent, so she files as head of household and claims two exemptions on her Form 1040A. The exemptions lower her taxable income by $4,100 (line 22). On line 26 she enters the advance EIC she received (as reported on her Form W-2) and adds it to the tax on line 25. Sally then shows the total of lines 25 and 26 on line 27. She uses the EIC worksheet in the Form 1040A Instructions to see how much EIC she was entitled to receive, and she enters the result on line 28c.

Sally's Form 1040A is shown as Exhibits 11 and 12. Notice that on Sally's Form 1040A she must enter the advance EIC on line 26 and then add it to the tax she reports on line 25.

	29	If line 28d is more than line 27, subtract line 27 from line 28d.

Refund or Balance Due

At this point you are ready to see whether the taxpayer will get a refund or owe more tax. In the example of Sally Long, line 28d is more than line 27, so a refund is due. If the reverse were true, she would owe more tax. Remind the taxpayers to file and pay on time, so interest and penalties will not be charged for filing or paying late. Taxpayers can avoid penalties for late filing by sending in their returns on time, even if they cannot send in their full tax payment. If the amount due is $500 or more, the taxpayer may be subject to a penalty.

* Estimated tax. If a taxpayer has an overpayment on line 29 of Form 1040A, the amount overpaid may be refunded in full, or the taxpayer can choose to have all or part of it applied to next year's tax. If the taxpayer wants a full refund, enter the amount from line 29 on line 30 and leave line 31 blank. However, if a taxpayer wants to apply the full refund to estimated tax for 1991, enter the amount from line 29 on line 31 and leave line 30 blank. In many cases, a taxpayer may want to receive a partial refund and apply the rest of the overpayment to estimated tax for 1991. For these taxpayers, enter the appropriate amounts on both lines 30 and 31.

Example

Harold and Hannah Green have an overpayment of $500 on line 29 of their Form 1040A. They would like to receive a refund of $200 and apply the balance to their 1991 estimated tax. Lines 29 through 31 of the Greens' Form 1040A are completed as shown in Exhibit 13.

	33	Estimated tax penalty. (see page 43). 33

Underpayment of estimated tax. If a taxpayer owes at least $500 in tax on line 32 of Form 1040A, he or she may have to pay a penalty for underpayment of estimated tax. Enter this penalty on line 33 of Form 1040A. It is important to be aware of the penalty, because 1990 is the first year that Form 1040A filers may be liable for it. In earlier years, anyone with an estimated tax penalty had to file Form 1040. There are also several exceptions to the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax; these are discussed more fully in Module IV, Lesson 7. *

You may receive inquiries about how people can make voluntary contributions to reduce the public debt. If a taxpayer wants to contribute, he or she should make the contribution payable to "Bureau of the Public Debt," and may enclose it in the tax return envelope. Subject to the limits on charitable contributions, the taxpayer can deduct this contribution on the 1991 tax return if he or she files Form 1040 and itemizes deductions. Remind the taxpayer not to combine the contribution with any payment of tax due, which should be made payable to "Internal Revenue Service."

Complete Form 1040A (including the refund or balance due lines) for the following taxpayers.

a. Ron Wilson, social security number 365-00-0011, is married to Sue Wilson, social security number 111-00-0111, files separately, and claims his dependent son, Ron, Jr., age 10, social security number 122-00-2222, who lived with him all year. Sue Wilson moved out of their home on September 1. Ron's wages were $18,834, and he had interest income of $175. Federal tax withholding was $1,980 (see Exhibits 14 and 15). If he has an overpayment, Ron would like to receive a full refund of the amount.

Credit for Child and Dependent Care Expenses

Certain taxpayers may take a credit for amounts paid for the care of children, a disabled spouse, or other disabled dependent. The expenses must have been paid in order for the taxpayer to work or look for work. The credit is figured on Schedule 2 of Form 1040A. See Exhibit 2.

Who May Claim the Credit

To qualify for the credit, a taxpayer must:

1. Have incurred the expenses in order to work or look for work,
2. Have earned income for work performed during the year,
3. Have maintained a home that is also the home of a qualifying person (see following),
4. File a joint return, if married, unless the taxpayer kept up a home in which a qualifying person lived for more than half the year and in which the taxpayer's spouse did not live for at least the last 6 months of the year, and
5. Have paid the expenses to someone who is not his or her child under age 19 nor a person who may be claimed as a dependent on the taxpayer's return.

Qualifying Persons

A qualifying person is one of the following:

1. A dependent under age 13 for whom a personal exemption is claimed. (Note: There is an exception for divorced or separated parents. The parent who has custody of the child a longer time during the year than the other parent may be able to take the credit without claiming the child as a dependent. Publication 17 gives more information.)
2. A dependent, or a person who could have been claimed as a dependent if his or her gross income had been less than $2,050, who is physically or mentally incapable of self-care.
3. A spouse who is physically or mentally incapable of self-care.

Name(s) shown on Form 1040A

Your social security number

- If you are claiming the child and dependent care credit, complete Parts I and II below. But if you received employer-provided dependent care benefits, first complete Part III on the back.
- If you are not claiming the credit but you received employer-provided dependent care benefits, only complete Part I, below, and Part III on the back.

Part I

Persons or organizations who provided the care

You MUST complete this part. (See page 46.)

1

a. Name	b. Address (number, street, city, state, and ZIP code)	c. Identification number (SSN or EIN)	d. Amount paid (see instructions)

(If you need more space, attach schedule.)

2 Add the amounts in column d of line 1 and enter the total. 2

Note: If you paid cash wages of $50 or more in a calendar quarter to an individual for services performed in your home, you must file an employment tax return. Get Form 942 for details.

Part II

Credit for child and dependent care expenses

3 Enter the number of qualifying persons who were cared for in 1990. You must have shared the same home with the qualifying person(s). (See page 46 for the definition of a qualifying person.) 3

4 Enter the amount of qualified expenses you incurred and actually paid in 1990. See page 47 to find out which expenses qualify. Caution: If you completed Part III, DO NOT include on this line any excluded benefits shown on line 23. 4

5 Enter $2,400 ($4,800 if you paid for the care of two or more qualifying persons). 5

6 If you completed Part III, enter the excluded benefits, if any, from line 23. 6

7 Subtract line 6 from line 5. If line 6 is equal to or more than line 5, STOP HERE; you cannot claim the credit. 7

8 Compare the amounts on lines 4 and 7. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. 8

9 You must enter your earned income. (See page 47 for the definition) of earned income. 9

10 If you are married filing a joint return, you must enter your spouse's earned income. (If spouse was a full-time student or disabled, see the instructions for the amount to enter.) 10

11 If you are married filing a joint return, compare the amounts on lines 9 and 10. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. 11

Schedule 2 (Form 1040A) 1990

PROOF COPY

Exercise 1

Mr. Burns has come to you for help. During 1990, he had qualifying expenses for the care of his wife, who is physically unable to care for herself. He also paid to have someone prepare meals for his 13-year-old daughter, so that she could devote her time to school work. How many qualifying persons will you show on line 3, Schedule 2? See Exhibit 2.

Answer

Where Care Can Be Provided

Disabled dependent and disabled spouse care expenses are allowed for services performed in the taxpayer's home or in dependent care centers, as long as the qualifying dependent or spouse regularly spends at least 8 hours a day in the taxpayer's home.

Note: Any taxpayer claiming the child and dependent care credit must report the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of, as well as the amount paid to, each individual or organization providing the dependent care assistance. For 1040A filers, this information must be given in Schedule 2 (see Exhibit 2). Most taxpayers who claim the credit will have the necessary information on Form W–10, Dependent Care Provider's Identification and Certification. Use this form to help you complete Schedule 2.

Child care expenses also are not confined to the home. For example, expenses for nursery school or day care centers may qualify. Expenses for a child to attend the first grade or higher do not qualify, but care before and after school is a qualifying expense.

Overnight camp expenses. Do not count any expense for an overnight camp when figuring a taxpayer's child and dependent care credit or exclusion for dependent care assistance. That expense is no longer considered necessary to allow the taxpayer to work.

Expense Limit

The amount of expenses eligible for the credit is limited to the lowest of:

1. The lower-paid spouse's earnings. (If single, the taxpayer's earnings)
2. The actual expenses paid.
3. The overall limit of $2,400 a year for one qualifying person and $4,800 a year for two or more qualifying persons.

Example

Mark earned $14,000 and Evelyn earned $5,600 in 1990. Day care expenses for their 3-year-old daughter were $2,200. The maximum amount of child care expenses they can use is $2,200.

This is the lowest of:

1. Lower-paid spouse's income—$5,600.
2. The amount actually paid—$2,200.
3. Limit for one qualifying person—$2,400.

Dependent care assistance. If a taxpayer receives reimbursement under his or her employer's dependent care assistance program, the dollar limit ($2,400 or $4,800) on expenses eligible for the credit must be reduced. The dollar limit is reduced dollar for dollar by any reimbursement excluded from the taxpayer's income.

Example

Geraldine Moore has one dependent child—her son, Jerry—who qualifies her to receive the child and dependent care credit. Her limit for one qualifying individual is $2,400. Geraldine received $1,400 in 1990 under her employer's dependent care assistance program. Her credit can be based on a maximum dollar limit of only $1,000 ($2,400–$1,400).

Nonworking Spouse

A spouse who did not work during the year might still be treated as having worked if he or she was either a full-time student or was incapable of self-care. For purposes of figuring the lower-paid spouse's income limit, the nonworking spouse is considered to have earned $200 a month if there is one qualifying person in the home ($400 if there are two or more) for each month the student or disability criteria are met. An individual must meet certain requirements to qualify as a full-time student. Some of these requirements are explained in Lesson 4 under Income Test. For a more detailed discussion, see Publication 17.

Example

Janice worked full time and Bob was a full-time student from the beginning of January through the end of May. They placed their son in a day care center while Bob attended school. Bob qualified as a full-time student because he attended school for some part of each of 5 calendar months of the year. Bob's earned income for the period he attended school is $1,000 ($200 × 5 months).

Figuring the Credit

The credit is a percentage of eligible expenses (qualifying expenses up to the expense limit). For taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes (line 16, Form 1040A) of $10,000 or less, the credit is 30% of eligible expenses. As adjusted gross income (AGI) increases, the percentage decreases. The table in Schedule 2 of Form 1040A shows the percentage for each AGI bracket (see Exhibit 2). Notice that the percentage is never lower than 20%.

Exercise 2

Mr. and Mrs. Worth paid $2,800 to Karen's Kiddie Kare, 456 Charles Avenue, Berlin, MD 25789 (EIN 10–6789101), last year for the care of their son while they both worked. Mrs. Worth's earned income was $18,500. Mr. Worth's earned income was $20,200. Neither had a dependent care assistance program at work. Their adjusted gross income from line 16, Form 1040A, is $34,700. Their tax, before credits, is $3,491. Prepare Schedule 2, Form 1040A, for the Worths (see Exhibit 3).

Exercise 3

The Craigs need help with their child care credit. Their adjusted gross income for 1990 is $18,123. Mr. Craig's earned income is $10,225 and Mrs. Craig's earned income is $8,775. The Craigs paid $3,600 during 1990 to Dot's Day Care Center, 555 Lincoln Court, Grant, IL 66677 (EIN 10-1861234), for their two preschool-age children who lived with them all year. Neither Mr. Craig nor Mrs. Craig received any dependent care assistance from their employers. Prepare Schedule 2, Form 1040A, for the Craigs (see Exhibit 4).

Name(s) shown on Form 1040A | Your social security number

- If you are claiming the child and dependent care credit, complete Parts I and II below. But if you received employer-provided dependent care benefits, first complete Part III on the back.
- If you are not claiming the credit but you received employer-provided dependent care benefits, only complete Part I, below, and Part III on the back.

Part I

Persons or organizations who provided the care

You MUST complete this part. (See page 46.)

1	a. Name	b. Address (number, street, city, state, and ZIP code)	c. Identification number (SSN or EIN)	d. Amount paid (see instructions)

(If you need more space, attach schedule.)

2 Add the amounts in column d of line 1 and enter the total. 2

Note: If you paid cash wages of $50 or more in a calendar quarter to an individual for services performed in your home, you must file an employment tax return. Get Form 942 for details.

Part II

Credit for child and dependent care expenses

3 Enter the number of qualifying persons who were cared for in 1990. You must have shared the same home with the qualifying person(s). (See page 46 for the definition of a qualifying person.) 3

4 Enter the amount of qualified expenses you incurred and actually paid in 1990. See page 47 to find out which expenses qualify. Caution: If you completed Part III, DO NOT include on this line any excluded benefits shown on line 23. 4

5 Enter $2,400 ($4,800 if you paid for the care of two or more qualifying persons). 5

6 If you completed Part III, enter the excluded benefits, if any, from line 23. 6

7 Subtract line 6 from line 5. If line 6 is equal to or more than line 5, STOP HERE; you cannot claim the credit. 7

8 Compare the amounts on lines 4 and 7. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. 8

9 You must enter your earned income.(See page 47 for the definition) of earned income. 9

10 If you are married filing a joint return, you must enter your spouse's earned income. (If spouse was a full-time student or disabled, see the instructions for the amount to enter.) 10

Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled

Both elderly persons and persons who are permanently and totally disabled can claim a special credit on their tax returns. To be eligible for the credit, taxpayers must be at least 65 years old by the end of the tax year or be retired on permanent and total disability by the end of the year.

Before 1990, an eligible person had to file Form 1040 to claim the credit. * Beginning with the 1990 tax return, a taxpayer can now claim the credit on Form 1040A as well. Form 1040A filers must first figure the credit on Schedule 3 and then enter the allowable amount on line 24b of their Form 1040A. This credit is covered in detail in Module IV, Lesson 5.

Credit Limitation

The credit for child and dependent care expenses and the credit for the elderly or the disabled together cannot exceed the tax liability shown on line 23, Form 1040A. If the credits exceed the tax liability, the excess can never be used and the tax liability is zero.

Federal Income Tax Withheld

Employees have federal income tax withheld from their wages. On the Form W-2 that the employer gives the employee every year, federal income tax withheld is shown in box 9. Social security tax withheld is in box 11. Be careful to use the box 9 amount only. Do not treat the box 11 amount as withheld income tax.

On Form 1040A, use line 28a to report the total federal income tax withheld, as shown on all Forms W-2. For joint returns add the withholding from both spouses' Forms W-2 and enter the total.

Example

Susan Black gives you her Form W-2 (Exhibit 5). She had $988 withheld from her wages for federal income tax. You should enter $988 on line 28a of Form 1040A. If Susan had more than one Form W-2, you would add the federal withholding from all of her Forms W-2 and enter the total on line 28a.

Estimated Tax Payments

Estimated income tax is tax that is paid on income not subject to withholding, or on income from which not enough tax is withheld. Estimated tax is the total expected tax for the year minus expected withholding and credits.

Taxpayers did not have to pay estimated tax for 1990 if:

1) Their net liability was less than $500, or

2) Their total payments and credits were at least 90% of the current year's tax liability or 100% of the prior year's tax, whichever is less.

They also did not have to pay estimated tax in 1990 if they were not U.S. citizens or residents and they owed no tax at all in 1989. See Module IV, Lesson 7, for estimated tax filing requirements.

If a taxpayer made estimated tax payments during 1990, he or she will generally have a checkbook register or cancelled checks to show the amount paid. Estimated tax may be paid all at once or it may be paid in up to four (usually equal) installments. Form 1040–ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals, is used for paying estimated tax.

Although the last estimated tax payment for 1990 may have been made in 1991, make sure that you include it with all other estimated tax payments on the taxpayer's 1990 return. This situation confuses many taxpayers. The last payment for 1990 estimated tax could be mistaken for a 1991 estimated tax payment when the taxpayer receives the cancelled check at a later date. Also, if a taxpayer paid the first installment of 1990 estimated tax on or about April 15, 1990, and filed a 1989 tax return with a balance due at the same time, the taxpayer may erroneously credit the 1989 balance due payment as a 1990 estimated tax payment. For this reason, be sure to check the taxpayer's return for last year so that this error is not made.

Before 1990, a taxpayer who made estimated tax payments during the year had to file Form 1040 to enter the total estimated tax paid. Beginning with the 1990 return, a taxpayer can choose to enter estimated tax payments on Form 1040A, line 28b, instead. You should check to see if the taxpayer had an overpayment of tax from last year's Form 1040 that was applied to their 1990 estimated tax (if the taxpayer filed a Form 1040 in 1989). If so, you should add this amount to any estimated tax payments that the taxpayer may have made during the year on Form 1040-ES and enter the total on line 28b.

Example

Donna Duval is single and 36 years old. She would like to file Form 1040A for her 1990 tax return. Her only income was from wages and interest. Ms. Duval cannot itemize deductions and she does not owe any additional taxes nor claim any credits, except for withheld income tax and estimated tax payments for 1990 taxes. She shows you cancelled checks for estimated tax that amount to $500. Enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28b, as shown in Exhibit 8.

Earned Income Credit

The earned income credit is a refundable credit. That is, it is treated like a tax payment such as withheld income tax. If individuals qualify, they may receive a refund even if they never paid any tax or had any tax withheld. The earned income credit can be as much as $953.

To qualify, the taxpayer must:

1. Have earned income and adjusted gross income each less than $20,264,
2. Have some earned income (wages, salaries, tips, etc.),
3. File as head of household, married filing jointly, or qualifying widow(er), and
4. Have a child living with him or her over half the year in the United States (all year for a qualifying widow(er)).

In addition, special rules apply to each filing status.

Married filing jointly. If the taxpayer is filing a joint return, but is no longer married to the other parent of the child who qualifies the taxpayer for the credit, the taxpayer may not have to claim an exemption for the child. The taxpayer does not have to claim the exemption if he or she would be able to claim it except that the child's other parent will be able to claim the exemption because either the taxpayer released his or her claim in writing or the exemption was granted to the child's other parent by a pre-1985 instrument (such as a divorce decree or separation agreement). If the taxpayer does not claim the exemption, the child's name must be entered on the space to the left of line 28c, Form 1040A.

Head of household. If the child was unmarried during 1990, the child's name must be shown on line 4 or line 6c, Form 1040A. If the child was married, the taxpayer does not have to claim the child as an exemption if the child is claimed as an exemption by the noncustodial parent under the rule explained under Married filing jointly. In this case, the child's name must be entered to the left of line 28c, Form 1040A (unless you entered the child's name in the space provided on line 4).

Qualifying widow(er). For a qualifying widow(er) to take the credit, the child must be claimed as a dependent on line 6c of his or her Form 1040A.

Earned income includes wages, salaries, tips, certain disability pensions, and anything else of value, even if not taxable, that the person received for providing services. Examples of nontaxable earned income are housing allowances for the clergy and certain meals and lodging for employees. Earned income does not include interest, dividends, social security payments, welfare benefits, nondisability pensions, veterans' benefits, taxable scholarships or fellowships not reported on Form W-2, workers' compensation, or unemployment compensation.

Note: As soon as you learn that the taxpayer you are helping has income of less than $20,264 and has a child, find out whether the taxpayer qualifies for the earned income credit. Even if the taxpayer is not required to file a return, one should be filed if the taxpayer qualifies for the earned income credit. If the taxpayer does not qualify for the credit, write "NO" on line 28c and go to line 28d.

Exercise 5

Do these taxpayers qualify for the earned income credit?

a. Benjamin lives alone, is single, and earns $7,000.
Yes ________ No ________

b. Brenda is filing as a qualifying widow and has a dependent daughter who lived with her all year. Brenda has wages of $7,500 and interest income of $200.
Yes ________ No ________

c. Vickie is married, files a separate return, and lived with her husband 11 months of the year. She had wages of $8,000 and claimed her dependent son.
Yes ________ No ________

d. Virginia is filing as head of household and has a 2-year-old daughter who lived with her all year. Virginia gave a written statement to her former husband allowing him to claim their daughter as his dependent. Virginia's earnings were $6,400 last year.
Yes ________ No ________

e. Wilma and Mike are filing a joint return and have dependent triplets. Wilma had earnings of $10,000 and Mike had earnings of $12,000 last year.
Yes ________ No ________

f. Ann is married but has lived apart from her husband since May. She has a dependent son who lived with her all year. She can claim him as a dependent. Ann had wages of $11,200 and does not wish to file with her husband.
Yes ________ No ________

g. Jim and Mary Ann file a joint return and have two dependent children. Jim had wages of $12,900 and interest income of $8,600 last year.
Yes ________ No ________

Computing Earned Income Credit

Use the Earned Income Credit Worksheet and Table to figure the credit. The table is reprinted here (Exhibit 9) from the Instructions for Form 1040A. Notice that you do not use line 22 (taxable income) of Form 1040A in making this computation.

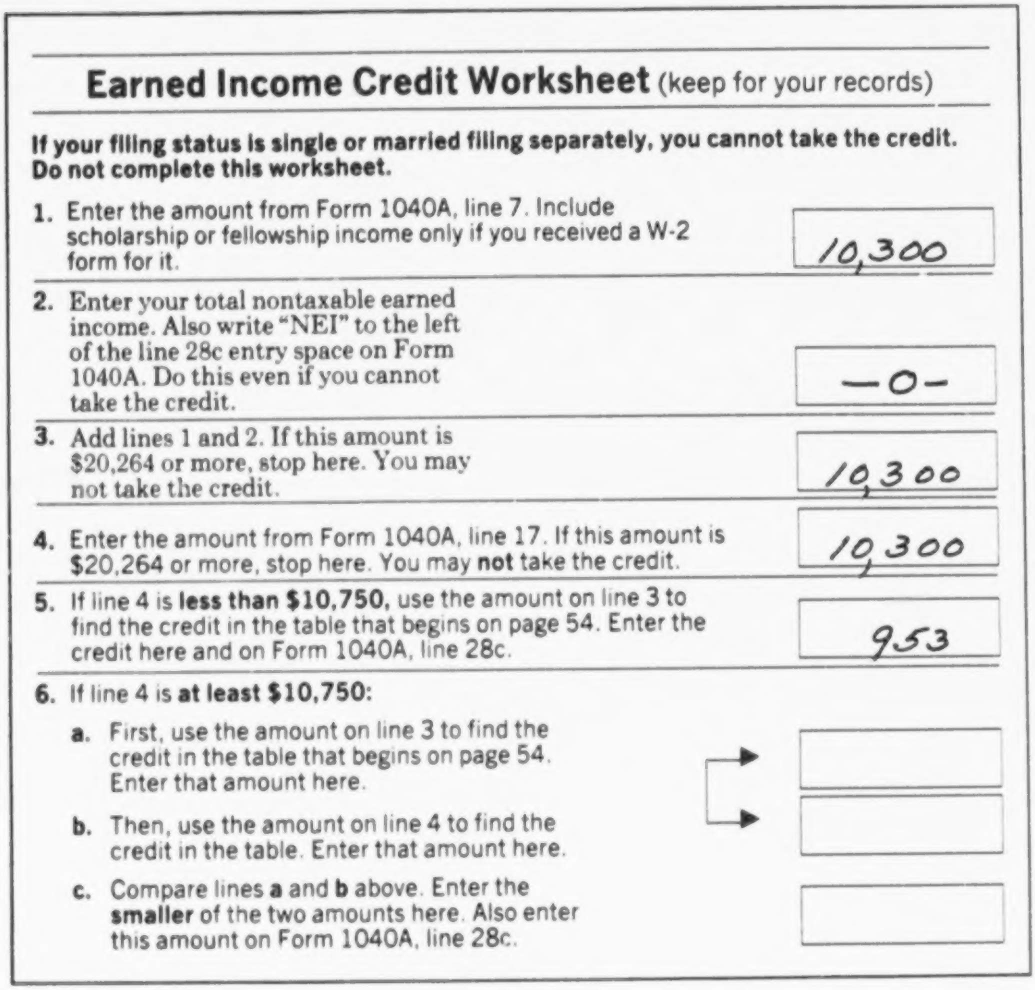
Example

Dinah Cobb is filing as head of household and has a dependent child living with her. Her only income in 1990 was her wages of $10,300. Her earned income credit is computed on the worksheet shown in Exhibit 10.

Exhibit 10



Earned Income Credit Worksheet (keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you cannot take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it.	10,300
2. Enter your total nontaxable earned income. Also write "NEI" to the left of the line 28c entry space on Form 1040A. Do this even if you cannot take the credit.	—0—
3. Add lines 1 and 2. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.	10,300
4. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 17. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.	10,300
5. If line 4 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040A, line 28c.	953
6. If line 4 is at least $10,750:
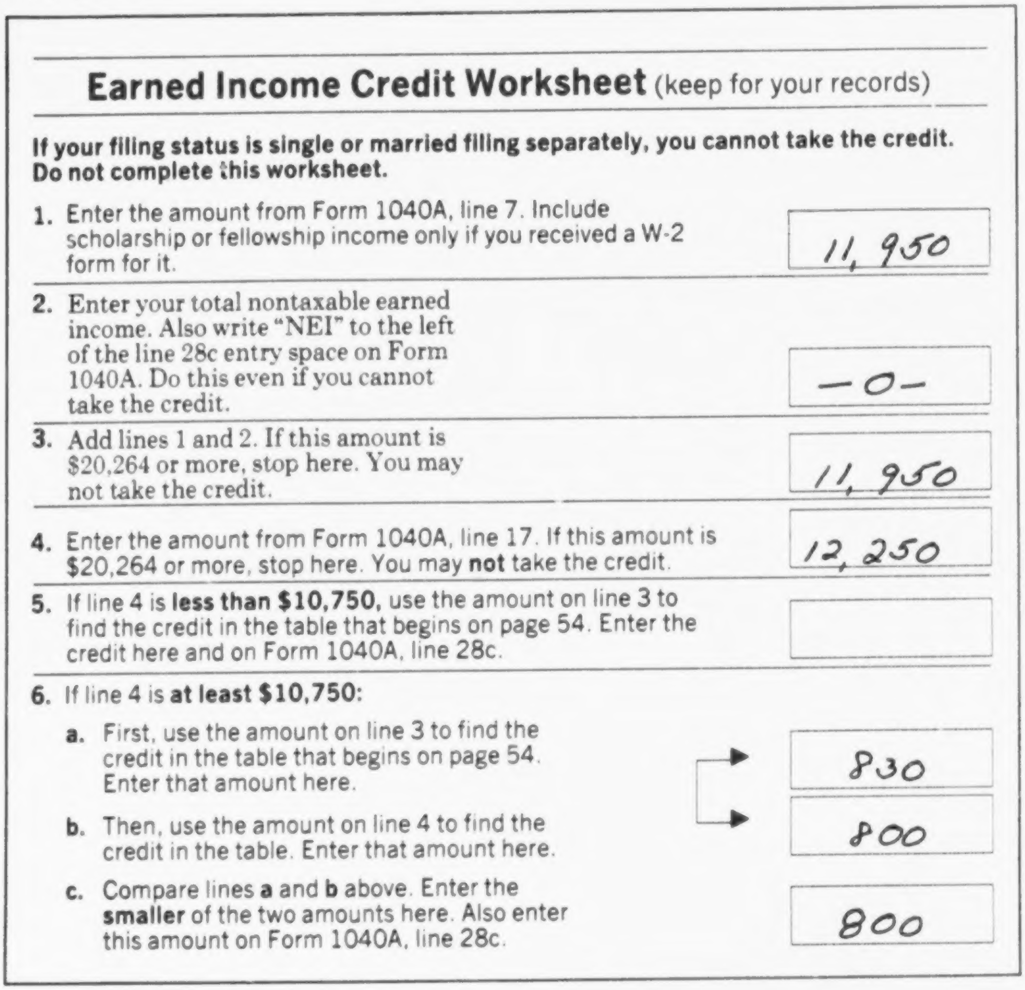
a. First, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter that amount here.
b. Then, use the amount on line 4 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here.
c. Compare lines a and b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28c.

Example

Sue Clare files as head of household. She had wages of $11,950 and interest income of $300 in 1990. She has three dependent children who live with her. Her earned income credit is $800, computed as shown in Exhibit 11.

Exhibit 11



Earned Income Credit Worksheet (keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you cannot take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it.	11,950
2. Enter your total nontaxable earned income. Also write "NEI" to the left of the line 28c entry space on Form 1040A. Do this even if you cannot take the credit.	-0-
3. Add lines 1 and 2. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.	11,950
4. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 17. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.	12,250
5. If line 4 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040A, line 28c.
6. If line 4 is at least $10,750:
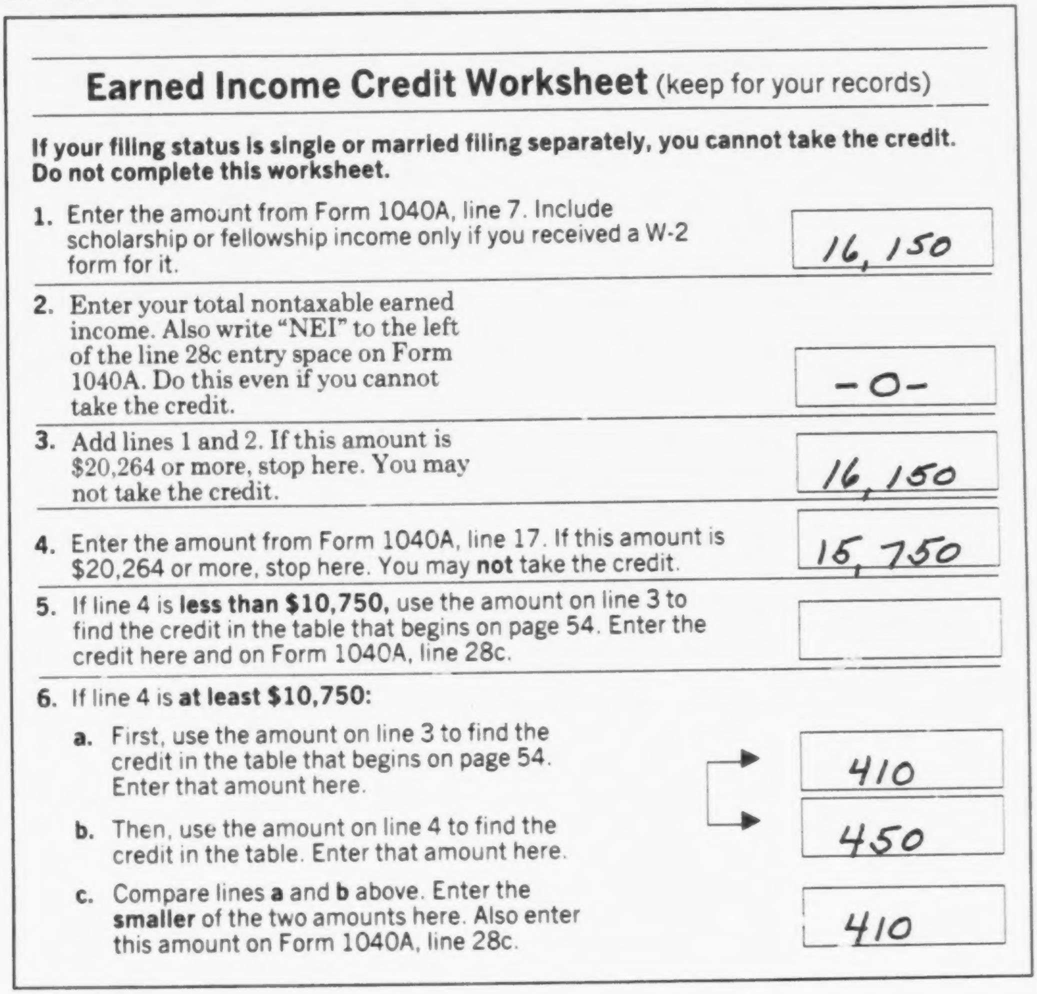
a. First, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter that amount here.	830
b. Then, use the amount on line 4 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here.	800
c. Compare lines a and b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28c.	800

Example

David and Nancy Boone are filing a joint return and have dependent children who lived with them. David had wages of $7,525 and Nancy had wages of $8,625 in 1990. Their earned income on line 7 is $16,150. Their adjusted gross income, line 16, is $15,750 after they take a deduction for Nancy's IRA contribution. Their earned income credit is computed on the worksheet (Exhibit 12) and they would enter $410 on line 28c of their Form 1040A.

Exhibit 12



Earned Income Credit Worksheet (keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you cannot take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it.	16,150
2. Enter your total nontaxable earned income. Also write "NEI" to the left of the line 28c entry space on Form 1040A. Do this even if you cannot take the credit.	-0-
3. Add lines 1 and 2. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.	16,150
4. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 17. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.	15,750
5. If line 4 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040A, line 28c.
6. If line 4 is at least $10,750:
a. First, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter that amount here.	410
b. Then, use the amount on line 4 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here.	450
c. Compare lines a and b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28c.	410

Exercise 6

Figure Jane's earned income credit on the worksheet provided (Exhibit 13). She files as qualifying widow and has a dependent child who lived with her all year. Jane had wages of $7,400 last year. Her adjusted gross income was $8,100.

Exhibit 13

Earned Income Credit Worksheet (keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you cannot take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it.
2. Enter your total nontaxable earned income. Also write "NEI" to the left of the line 28c entry space on Form 1040A. Do this even if you cannot take the credit.
3. Add lines 1 and 2. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.
4. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 17. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.
5. If line 4 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040A, line 28c.
6. If line 4 is at least $10,750:
   - a. First, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter that amount here.
   - b. Then, use the amount on line 4 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here.
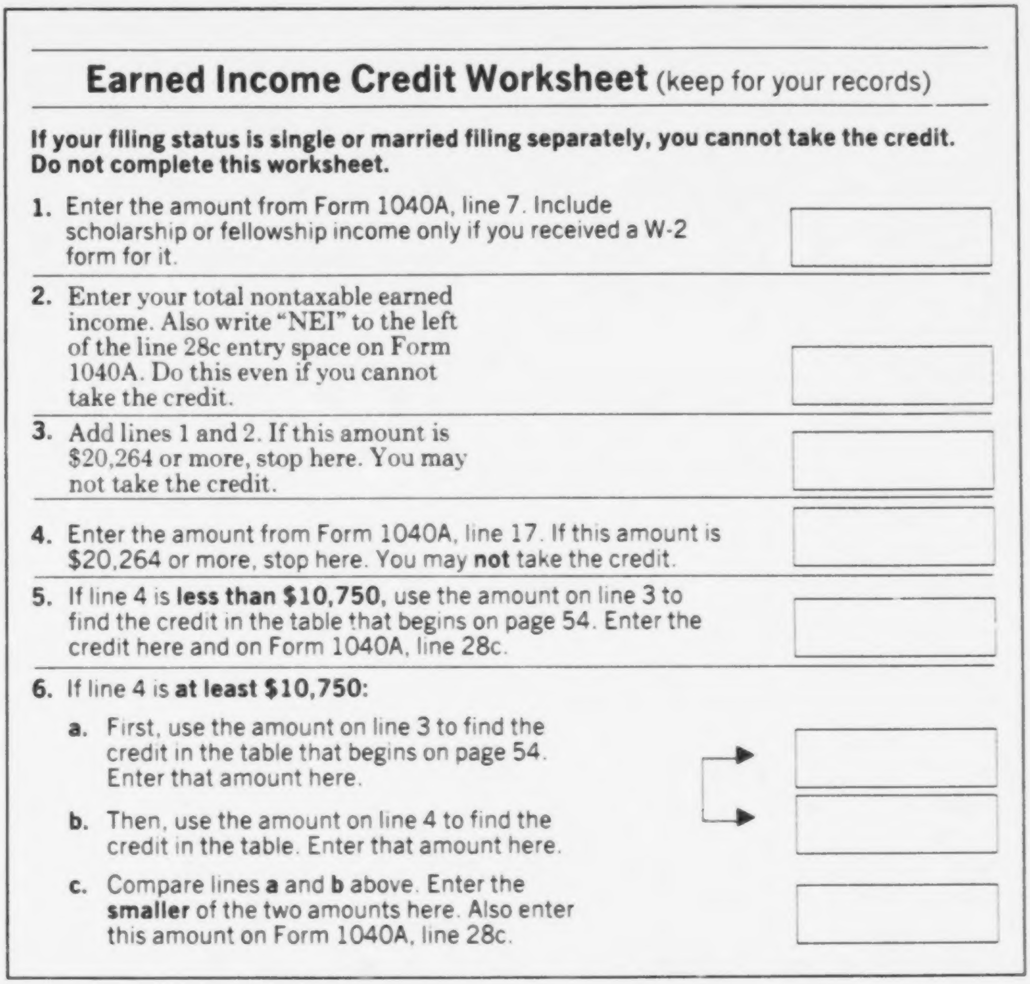
   - c. Compare lines a and b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28c.

Exercise 7

Figure the earned income credit for Bob. Use the worksheet from the Instructions to Form 1040A (Exhibit 14). He files as head of household and has a dependent child who lived with him all year. Bob had wages of $10,900 and interest income of $400 last year.

Exhibit 14



Earned Income Credit Worksheet (keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you cannot take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it.
2. Enter your total nontaxable earned income. Also write "NEI" to the left of the line 28c entry space on Form 1040A. Do this even if you cannot take the credit.
3. Add lines 1 and 2. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.
4. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 17. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.
5. If line 4 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040A, line 28c.
6. If line 4 is at least $10,750:
   - a. First, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter that amount here.
   - b. Then, use the amount on line 4 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here.
   - c. Compare lines a and b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28c.

Exercise 8

Figure the earned income credit for Harvey and Sharon, who are filing a joint return and have a dependent child who lived with them all year. Harvey had wages of $12,000. Sharon had wages of $5,000. Together they had interest income of $400. Their adjusted gross income, line 16, is $15,700 after they take a deduction for Harvey's IRA contribution. Use the worksheet (Exhibit 15) provided.

Exhibit 15

Earned Income Credit Worksheet (keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you cannot take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it.
2. Enter your total nontaxable earned income. Also write "NEI" to the left of the line 28c entry space on Form 1040A. Do this even if you cannot take the credit.
3. Add lines 1 and 2. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.
4. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 17. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.
5. If line 4 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040A, line 28c.
6. If line 4 is at least $10,750:
   - a. First, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter that amount here.
   - b. Then, use the amount on line 4 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here.
   - c. Compare lines a and b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28c.

Exercise 9

Judith and Leon Pasco are married and filing a joint return. They have two dependent children, Ann (SSN 234-00-5678) and Maria (SSN 235-00-6789), 3 and 4 years old respectively. Leon worked in 1990 and earned $14,892. They have no other income. Complete the following Form 1040A to line 28d (Exhibits 17 and 18). Leon's Form W-2 is reproduced as Exhibit 16. If you determine that the Pascos qualify for the earned income credit, use the worksheet (Exhibit 19) at the end of this exercise.

Step 1

Label

(See page 14.)

Use IRS label. Otherwise, please print or type.

LABEL HERE

Your first name and initial | Last name

If a joint return, spouse's first name and initial | Last name

Home address (number and street). (If you have a P.O. box, see page 15.) | Apt. no.

City, town or post office, state and ZIP code. (If you have a foreign address, see page 15.)

Your social security no.

Spouse's social security no.

For Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice, see page 3.

Presidential Election Campaign Fund (see page 15)

Do you want $1 to go to this fund? ☐ Yes ☐ No

If joint return, does your spouse want $1 to go to this fund? ☐ Yes ☐ No

Note: Checking "Yes" will not change your tax or reduce your refund.

Step 2

Check your filing status

(Check only one.)

1 ☐ Single. (See page 16 to find out if you can file as head of household.)

2 ☐ Married filing joint return (even if only one had income)

3 ☐ Married filing separate return. Enter spouse's social security number above and spouse's full name here ▶ ______

4 ☐ Head of household (with qualifying person). (See page 16.) If the qualifying person is your child but not your dependent, enter this child's name here ▶ ______

5 ☐ Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child (year spouse died ▶ 19____). (See page 17.)

6a ☐ Yourself If someone else (such as your parent) can claim you as a dependent on his or her tax return, do not check box 6a. But be sure to check the box on line 18b on page 2.

6b ☐ Spouse

No. of boxes checked on 6a and 6b ______

c Dependents:

1. Name (first, initial, and last name)	2. Check if under age 2	3. If age 2 or older, dependent's social security number	4. Relationship	5. No. of months lived in your home in 1990

No. of other dependents listed on 6c ______

d If your child didn't live with you but is claimed as your dependent under a pre-1985 agreement, check here ▶ ☐

e Total number of exemptions claimed.

Add numbers entered on lines above ☐

Attach Copy B of your Forms W-2 and W-2P here.

Attach check or money order on top of any Forms W-2 or W-2P.

7 Wages, salaries, tips, etc. This should be shown in Box 10 of your W-2 form(s). (Attach Form(s) W-2.) 7

8a Taxable interest income (see page 23). (If over $400, also complete and attach Schedule 1, Part I.) 8a

b Tax-exempt interest. (DO NOT include on line 8a.) 8b

9 Dividends. (If over $400, also complete and attach Schedule 1, Part II.) 9

10a Total IRA distributions. 10a | 10b Taxable amount (see page 24). 10b

12 Unemployment compensation (insurance) from Form(s) 1099-G. 12

13a Social security benefits. 13a | 13b Taxable amount (see page 27). 13b

14 Add lines 7 through 13b (far right column). This is your total income. ▶ 14

15a Your IRA deduction from applicable worksheet. 15a

b Spouse's IRA deduction from applicable worksheet.

Note: Rules for IRAs begin on page 29. 15b

c Add lines 15a and 15b. These are your total adjustments. 15c

16 Subtract line 15c from line 14. This is your adjusted gross income. (If less than $20,264, see "Earned income credit" on page 39.) ▶ 16

Exhibit 18

1990 Form 1040A

Step 6

17 Enter the amount from line 16. 17

18a Check if: ☐ You were 65 or older ☐ Blind ☐ Spouse was 65 or older ☐ Blind } Enter number of boxes checked ▶ 18a ☐

b If someone else (such as your parent) can claim you as a dependent, check here ▶ 18b ☐

c If you are married filing separately and your spouse files Form 1040 and itemizes deductions, see page 33 and check here ▶ 18c ☐

19 Enter your standard deduction. See page 34 for the chart (or worksheet) that applies to you. Be sure to enter your standard deduction here. 19

20 Subtract line 19 from line 17. (If line 19 is more than line 17, enter -0-.) 20

21 Multiply $2,050 by the total number of exemptions claimed on line 6e. 21

22 Subtract line 21 from line 20. (If line 21 is more than line 20, enter -0-.) This is your taxable income. ▶ 22

(If you want IRS to figure your tax, see page 35.)

23 Find the tax on the amount on line 22. Check if from: ☐ Tax Table (pages 48–53) or ☐ Form 8615 (see page 36) 23

24a Credit for child and dependent care expenses. Complete and attach Schedule 2. 24a

b Credit for the elderly or the disabled. Complete and attach Schedule 3. 24b

c Add lines 24a and 24b. These are your total credits. 24c

25 Subtract line 24c from line 23. (If line 24c is more than line 23, enter -0-.) 25

26 Advance earned income credit payments from Form W-2. 26

27 Add lines 25 and 26. This is your total tax. ▶ 27

28a Total Federal income tax withheld. (If any is from Form(s) 1099, check here ▶ ☐.) 28a

b 1990 estimated tax payments and amount applied from 1989 return. 28b

c Earned income credit. See page 39 to find out if you can take this credit. 28c

d Add lines 28a, 28b, and 28c. These are your total payments. ▶ 28d

Attach check or money order on top of Form(s) W-2, etc. on page 1.

29 If line 28d is more than line 27, subtract line 27 from line 28d. This is the amount you overpaid. 29

30 Amount of line 29 you want refunded to you. 30

31 Amount of line 29 you want applied to your 1991 estimated tax. 31

32 If line 27 is more than line 28d, subtract line 28d from line 27. This is the amount you owe. Attach check or money order for full amount payable to "Internal Revenue Service." Write your name, social security number address, daytime phone number, and "1990 Form 1040A" on it. 32

33 Estimated tax penalty. (see page 43). 33

Step 9

Sign your return

Keep a copy of this return for your records.

Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true, correct, and complete. Declaration of preparer (other than the taxpayer) is based on all information of which the preparer has any knowledge.

Earned Income Credit Worksheet (keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you cannot take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it.
2. Enter your total nontaxable earned income. Also write "NEI" to the left of the line 28c entry space on Form 1040A. Do this even if you cannot take the credit.
3. Add lines 1 and 2. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.
4. Enter the amount from Form 1040A, line 17. If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here. You may not take the credit.
5. If line 4 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040A, line 28c.
6. If line 4 is at least $10,750:
   - a. First, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter that amount here.
   - b. Then, use the amount on line 4 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here.
   - c. Compare lines a and b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28c.

Summary

Most Form 1040A filers had income tax withheld, and many of them can take credits that reduce their tax. Withheld income tax is a payment; so is estimated tax. The earned income credit is refundable, which means that the filer may be able to receive a refund even if no tax payment was made.

In this lesson you have learned what credits and payments the taxpayer can claim on Form 1040A and how to determine the amount of each one. In the next lesson you will learn how to fill in the rest of Form 1040A and to review each step to make sure it is complete and accurate.

5. If line 4 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040A, line 28c.

6. If line 4 is at least $10,750:
   - a. First, use the amount on line 3 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 54. Enter that amount here. 538
   - b. Then, use the amount on line 4 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here. 538
   - c. Compare lines a and b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040A, line 28c. 538

Lesson 12

Finishing the Return

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Complete the taxpayer identification section of Form 1040A.
2. Explain the signature section to a taxpayer.
3. Use the proper VITA or TCE designation.
4. Review the return for completeness and accuracy.
5. Assemble the return.

Reviewing the Return

Assembling the Return

Summary

Introduction

All that is left to do on the return is to make sure that the taxpayer identification section, Step 1, is filled in, that the taxpayer signs the return, Step 9, and that you use the right program designation.

* Important reminder. If a taxpayer changed his or her mailing address during the year, the taxpayer should have notified the Internal Revenue Service of the change on Form 8822, Change of Address. If the form has not yet been completed, you should help the taxpayer fill it out and mail it to the Internal Revenue Service Center for the old address (addresses for the Service Centers are listed on the back of the form).

Taxpayer Identification Section

We have waited until the final lesson on Form 1040A to study Step 1 because this is one of the last sections to complete. Filling it in last saves time because some taxpayers will give you more information after you start preparing the return, and you may have to fill out a new form.

The taxpayer identification section includes the taxpayer's name, address, and social security number. The second line in this section is for the taxpayer's spouse to fill in when a joint return is filed. The address on the return is the address where any refund or notices will be sent. If the taxpayer filed a return last year, he or she should have received this year's forms package in the mail with a preaddressed label for the return. Use the label if the taxpayer brings it in, because using it saves processing time. The label shows the taxpayer's name, address, and social security number. Mark through any errors on the label and print the correct information right on the label.

If you meet taxpayers who do not have a social security number, they must apply for one on Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card. They can get the form at any Social Security Administration office and at many IRS offices as well. U.S. citizens must show proof of age, identity, and citizenship when they apply for the number. If they are 18 or older, they must appear in person. If they have not received the number by the date the return is due, they should file the return anyway, and write "Applied for" in the space for the number.

If the post office delivers mail to the taxpayer's P.O. box rather than to a street address, enter the P.O. box number on the line for the present home address.

Joint Returns

The following examples show how the identification section should look on a joint return. The second example (see Exhibit 2) shows how to fill in the names if the husband and wife use different last names. Make sure the spouse fills in his or her complete name. On any joint return, it is important to write the social security numbers in the same order as the names. Not doing this will considerably delay the processing. For example, if you write the husband's name first, write his social security number first also.

Do you want $1 to go to this fund? ☒ Yes ☐ No
If joint return, does your spouse want $1 to go to this fund? ☒ Yes ☐ No

Note: Checking "Yes" will not change your tax or reduce your refund.

Presidential Election Campaign Fund

The Presidential Election Campaign Fund question follows the taxpayer identification section. This question confuses some taxpayers. By checking "Yes," the taxpayer gives permission for $1 to go to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund. On a joint return, each taxpayer chooses whether $1 should go to the fund. Checking "Yes" will not change the tax or refund shown on the return.

Signature

The taxpayer must sign and date the return in Step 9, or it cannot be processed. Both spouses must sign a joint return, even if only one had income.

Occupation

Filling in occupations is part of completing a return. Let taxpayers tell you their occupations, and record them in the same words.

VITA or VITA-T TCE or TCE-X

On each return you prepare in the VITA program, write "VITA" in the paid preparer's section. If the taxpayer prepares the return with your help, write "VITA-T." Do not sign your name. Many VITA sites have a supply of returns with the VITA designation preprinted.

If you are a TCE volunteer, you should write "TCE" in the paid preparer's section, and if the taxpayer at a TCE site prepares the return with your help, write "TCE-X." Many TCE sites also supply returns with the volunteer designation preprinted.

Note: Detailed instructions for identifying returns with VITA and TCE designations are in the Administrative Procedures lesson in Module I.

Reviewing the Return

You will want to review the return for accuracy and completeness. Make sure you transferred the right amounts to Form 1040A from the taxpayer's Forms W-2, 1099, etc. Use a calculator to verify your math computations, and refer to the following Quality Review Checklist. When you finish, have another volunteer or quality reviewer at the site look over the return.

Quality Review Checklist

1. Are the name, address, and social security number blocks completed accurately?
2. Is the Presidential Election Campaign Fund box checked?
3. Is the filing status correct?
4. Are the exemptions checked, listed, and added correctly?
5. Are social security numbers entered for dependents age 2 or older?
6. Are the income items entered correctly to arrive at total income?
7. Is there any tax-exempt interest to be shown on the return?
8. Did the taxpayer receive any IRA distributions, pension or annuity income, or social security benefits? Remember, these items of income can now be reported on Form 1040A.
9. Has the correct tax been selected from the Tax Table?
10. Can the taxpayer claim the credit for the elderly or the disabled? If so, make sure you fill out Schedule 3 to figure the allowable credit.
11. Does the withheld tax shown on the return agree with Forms W-2, 1099-INT, and 1099-DIV?
12. Did the taxpayer pay any estimated tax last year? If so, he or she can now enter the payments on Form 1040A.
13. Is the refund or balance due figured correctly? If the taxpayer is due a refund on Form 1040A, check to see if he or she would like to credit all or part of the refund to next year's tax liability.
14. Did the taxpayer sign and date the return?
15. Are the occupation spaces filled in?
16. Are all Forms W-2 attached to the return?
17. Is the return identified "VITA" or "TCE" in the paid preparer's block?

Assembling the Return

Forms W-2

Staple Copy B of all Forms W-2 and W-2P right side up in the left margin of Form 1040A where indicated. Do not attach any Forms 1099 to the income tax return. The taxpayer should keep the Forms 1099, Copy C of Form W-2 or W-2P, and his or her own copy of the completed return, for at least 3 years.

Payments

If the taxpayer makes a payment with the return, advise the taxpayer to make the check or money order payable to "Internal Revenue Service," to write the social security number, day-time telephone number, form number (Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ), and year of the return (1990) on the payment, and to attach the payment to the left margin of Form 1040A where indicated.

Summary

This lesson covers the last parts to complete on Form 1040A: the taxpayer identification section, the Presidential Election Campaign Fund block, the signature section, the VITA or TCE designation, and the quality review.

Go on to Module III if you will be helping taxpayers with Form 1040.

Introduction

Module II, Lesson 7, explained when a taxpayer may file Form 1040A, and Module II, Lesson 1, explained when a taxpayer may file Form 1040EZ. Other taxpayers file Form 1040. Some of them must file it, and some of them should file it to take deductions, adjustments, or credits not available on the other two forms. Publication 17 explains in detail who must or should file Form 1040.

Who Files Form 1040

In Module II you learned questions to ask about taxable income, age, blindness, and filing status, to see whether the person must file a return. To see whether Form 1040 is the correct return, you will also need to ask about specific types of income, deductions, credits, and payments.

* NOTE: If the taxpayer had to file Form 1040 in 1989 because he or she received a pension or annuity, payments from his or her IRA, taxable social security benefits, or if he or she figured the credit for the elderly or the disabled, estimated tax payments, or the penalty for the underpayment of estimated tax, the taxpayer may be able to file Form 1040A in 1990 instead of Form 1040. For more details, see Module II.

Example

Bob L. and Mary A. Hinsdale will report the following items on their return.

Income:
Salaries	$40,000
Interest	500
Ordinary dividends	300
Nontaxable dividends	50
Lottery winnings	1,000
Adjustments:
IRA contributions	$3,000
Penalty for early withdrawal of savings	30
Itemized deductions:	$6,500
Payments:
Tax withheld	$6,000

They must file Form 1040 to report the nontaxable dividends, the lottery winnings, and the penalty for early withdrawal of savings, and to itemize deductions.

Exercise 1

Review the sample interview questions and answers in this exercise. You may find them useful in getting the information you need from the person you are helping. As you get further into the lessons, you will also learn other questions to ask the taxpayer. It is a good idea to repeat the information back to the taxpayer to be sure that it is correct.

Sample questions	Sample answers
1. Are you married?	Yes
2. Are you 65 or older? (Do not ask obviously young people this question.)	Yes
3. Is your spouse 65 or older?	No—wife died 4 years ago.
4. Do you have other dependents?	No
5. Are you partially or totally blind?	No
6. What kinds of income did you receive during 1990? (Specify the year, because taxpayers may include income they received after the tax year ended.)	$13,500 pension that was partially taxable ($3,000 nontaxable), and $3,000 in bank interest
7. Do you have any adjustments to income? (Go over the Adjustments to Income section.)	No
8. Will you itemize your deductions?	No
9. Will you be claiming any tax credits? (Go over Credits section. Don't forget earned income credit and child and dependent care credit if taxpayer has a child.)	No
10. Do you have other taxes?	No
11. Did you have federal taxes withheld?	$1,000 withheld from pension
12. Did you make estimated tax payments to IRS?	No

a. Should this person file a return? (Be able to explain why or why not to the taxpayer.)

Answer

b. Which tax form should this person use?

Answer

Exercise 2

A taxpayer gives you the following information:

1. Is single and under 65
2. Has wages of $4,800
3. Has no dependents
4. Is not interested in giving $1 to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund
5. Shares apartment with a roommate who pays part of the rent and utilities
6. Received $700 in unemployment compensation during the year
7. Does not have enough deductions to itemize
8. Claimed no credits
9. Has no other taxes
10. Has federal income tax withheld—$100

a. Should this person file a return?

Answer

b. Which tax form should this person use? Why?

Answer

Exercise 3

A taxpayer gives you the following information:

1. Is married, both spouses under 65; wants to file jointly
2. Wants to give to Presidential Campaign Fund: Yes for both
3. Has dependents: Two children, Phillip and Alice, ages 4 and 6
4. Has no other dependents
5. Has wages of $20,000 for taxpayer and $16,000 for spouse; no other income
6. Has job-related moving expenses of $8,000
7. Paid $1,000 expenses for a babysitter while both spouses were working
8. Doesn't think they qualify for any other credits
9. Has no other taxes
10. Had federal income tax withheld from both wages

a. Should this person file a return?

Answer

b. Which tax form should this person use? Why?

Answer

Exercise 4

Another taxpayer tells you the following:

1. Is single and under 65
2. Has one child, Ann, single, age 22, who lived with taxpayer for more than 6 months of the year
3. Has no dependents
4. Received wages of $15,000
5. Has interest income of $600
6. Received no other income
7. Paid $80 penalty for early withdrawal of savings
8. Does not want to itemize
9. Has no other tax credits or taxes
10. Had federal income tax withheld from wages

a. Should this person file a return?

Answer

b. Which tax form should this person use? Why?

Answer

Summary

This lesson gave you practice in interviewing taxpayers to decide who must or should use Form 1040, and why.

Answers to Exercises

1. a. Yes. Explain to the person you are helping that a federal income tax return for a single person 65 or older is required if gross income is at least $6,100. Note: The taxpayer told you that he is married; but remember that when you asked about his wife, you discovered that she died 4 years ago. Don't let the taxpayer confuse you by giving you a wrong answer unintentionally, as shown in this example.
   b. Forms 1040 or 1040A. This taxpayer has partially taxable pension income that can be reported on Forms 1040 or 1040A.
2. a. Yes. The filing requirement for a single taxpayer under 65 is $5,300.
   b. Form 1040A is the correct form. There is no need to use Form 1040 since all the information you received during this interview with the taxpayer can go on Form 1040A. The taxpayer cannot use Form 1040EZ because he or she received unemployment compensation.
3. a. Yes. The filing requirement is $9,550 for married taxpayers filing jointly who are under 65.
   b. Form 1040. The wages and the child care expenses could go on either Form 1040A or Form 1040. However, the job-related moving expenses can be claimed only on Schedule A, Form 1040. A social security number is needed for Alice and Phillip.
4. a. Yes. Taxpayer may file as head of household. The filing requirement for a head of household under 65 is $6,800.
   b. Form 1040. Claiming an adjustment for the penalty for early withdrawal of savings makes it necessary to file Form 1040.

Lesson 2

Filing Status and Exemptions

Objective

At the end of this lesson you will be able to complete the Filing Status and Exemptions sections of Form 1040.

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

The Filing Status and Exemptions sections on Form 1040 include all items you learned about on Form 1040A, and the same rules apply.

Exemptions

The Exemptions section of Form 1040 contains the same items that are on Form 1040A. The same rules apply (see Module II, Lesson 4):

Lines 6a and 6b—Personal exemptions are exemptions claimed only for the taxpayer and his or her spouse.

Line 6c—Dependency exemptions are exemptions the taxpayer may claim for other qualifying people. In this part, the taxpayer must list the social security number of any dependent claimed who is age 2 or older.

Example

Mary K. Pine's husband died in 1989, and she filed a joint income tax return for that year. Her two dependent children, John E. and Ann E., both under age 2, live with her. She wants help filing her tax return for 1990. To determine Mary's most beneficial filing status you ask, "Have you remarried?" and "During 1990 did you pay more than half of the cost of keeping up your home, which was the principal home of the children for the entire year?" If Mary answers "No" to the first question and "Yes" to the second, she qualifies as a widow with a dependent child for 1990 and possibly for 1991. Look at Mary's completed Filing Status and Exemptions sections in Exhibit 1.

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

If the taxpayer has income that cannot be reported on Form 1040A, he or she must use Form 1040. The most common income items (such as wages, salaries, tips, interest, dividends, and unemployment compensation) are reported the same way on Form 1040 as they are on Form 1040A. For tax situations that are beyond the scope of volunteer assistance, you should refer the taxpayer to specific IRS publications or to professional tax preparers.

Rounding Off Dollars

You may round off cents to the nearest whole dollar on a tax return and its schedules. To do so, drop amounts under 50 cents and increase amounts from 50 to 99 cents to the next dollar. For example, $2.29 becomes $2 and $4.50 becomes $5.00.

If you do round off, do so for all amounts on the return and its schedules. However, if you have to add two or more amounts to figure the amount to enter on a line, include cents when adding the amounts and only round off the total.

Example

A taxpayer received two W-2 forms, one showing wages of $6,000.67 and one showing wages of $8,500.81. On Form 1040, line 7, you would enter $14,501 ($6,000.67 + $8,500.81 = $14,501.48) instead of $14,502 ($6,001 + $8,501).

Wages, Salaries, Tips, Etc.

Wages, salaries, and tips are compensation that an employed person receives as payment for personal services. These payments are a primary example of earned income, which is a term you need to understand because other definitions and limits depend on it.

Form W-2

An employed person should receive a Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, from each employer he or she worked for during the year. This form reports earned income.

Box 10, Wages, tips, other compensation, on Form W-2, shows the payment received for services that is to be included on Form 1040, line 7. The payment may have been received as cash wages, goods and services, bonuses and awards, or employee benefits, such as certain insurance coverage payments made by the employer. In preparing the Income section of Form 1040, you can disregard box 11, Social security tax withheld, and box 12, Social security wages, of Form W-2.

Final Wage Payments

An employee who retires or resigns may receive a single large payment as severance pay or accumulated vacation pay. This payment is included on Form W-2 as compensation for service, and must be reported as wages.

More Than One Form W-2

You will often meet someone who had several different employers during the same year, each of whom has issued a Form W-2. To increase accuracy in handling several Forms W-2, select Copy B of each set and return all other copies to the taxpayer. Add the amounts from box 10 of each Form W-2 and enter the total on Form 1040, line 7. Follow the same procedure when husband and wife have more than one Form W-2 on a joint return. Doing this will also simplify totalling the withheld federal income tax (box 9) later.

Form W-2c

If the taxpayer receives a Form W-2 with incorrect information on it, he or she should get Form W—2c, Statement of Corrected Income and Tax Amounts, to correct his or her Form W-2.

The taxpayer should attach Form W-2c and the original Form W-2 to his or her return when it is filed. If the return has already been filed, Form W-2c is attached to his or her amended return.

For more information about other compensation, see Publication 17 and Publication 525, Taxable and Nontaxable Income.

Form W-2P

A retired person receives a statement similar to a Form W-2, known as a Form W-2P, Statement for Recipients of Annuities, Pensions, Retired Pay, or IRA Payments, from the payer of his or her pension or annuity. This retirement income is not wages. Do not include it on line 7 of Form 1040. You will learn how to report pensions and annuities in Module IV.

Self-Employment Income

Self-employment income is not wages, although it is earned income. Many self-employed people receive Form 1099-MISC, Statement for Recipients of Miscellaneous Income, which resembles Form W-2, and is issued by a person or business who "hired" the taxpayer's services or "contracted" for his or her labor. Often a self-employed taxpayer mistakenly thinks the form is a Form W-2. Refer this person to a professional tax preparer.

Exercise 1

Mr. Morris tells you he received $7,500 of wages from working at the supermarket, $120 in interest income, and $6,000 of military retirement pay. How much should he report on Form 1040, line 7?

Answer

Exercise 2

Tom F. and Sally C. Fergus want to file a joint return. They had three Forms W-2 (see Exhibits 3, 4, and 5). How much will you enter on Form 1040, line 7?

Interest Income

Money earns interest when it:

1. Is deposited in accounts in banks and other financial institutions,
2. Is used to buy certificates or bonds, or
3. Is lent to another person or business.

Because the money, rather than a person, is working, interest is unearned income.

Interest received or credited to an individual's account is includible in taxable income unless specifically tax-exempt by law (see Tax-Exempt Interest, later).

Most interest received must be included in income. This includes interest received from bank savings and checking accounts, from loans made to anyone, and from other sources.

Note: Any tax-exempt interest received or accrued during the year must be shown on the tax return. Do not include this amount in total income.

Savings Accounts

A cash-basis taxpayer must report interest that is earned from an account in a bank, credit union, savings and loan, or similar financial institution in the year that it is received. Interest is considered received by the taxpayer when it is credited to the account and subject to withdrawal, even if it is not entered in the taxpayer's passbook.

Note: Many distributions are commonly called dividends, but are actually interest. These include "dividends" on deposits or on share accounts in federal savings and loan associations, domestic savings and loan or building and loan associations, credit unions, cooperative banks, and mutual savings banks.

Interest on frozen deposits. Under certain circumstances, taxpayers may exclude from income amounts of interest credited during the year on deposits that could not be withdrawn by the end of the year because of the bankruptcy or insolvency of the financial institution, or because the state where the institution is located has placed limits on withdrawals.

Savings Bonds

Interest on U.S. Savings Bonds may be earned in one of two ways. Some bonds are issued at a discount, and the interest is represented by an increase in the value over a stated period of time. Interest on other bonds is paid at stated intervals by check or coupon.

Series EE Bonds. These bonds, which are the most common type, are purchased for less than their face value (before 1980, Series E Bonds were issued). They "pay" interest by increasing in value as they reach maturity. A taxpayer who owns either Series EE or Series E Bonds may report the interest income in either of two ways:

1. A taxpayer may report the interest when he or she cashes the bond, or when the bond reaches final maturity, whichever is earlier, or
2. A taxpayer may report the yearly increase in the bond's value.

If a taxpayer purchased a Series E Bond in 1950 and deferred reporting interest, the interest must be reported on the 1990 tax return since these bonds have matured.

* Beginning in 1990, a taxpayer may exclude interest from Series EE U.S. savings bonds issued after 1989 if he or she paid qualified higher education expenses during the year. For more information, refer the taxpayer to Publication 550, Investment Income and Expenses.

Series HH Bonds. These bonds are issued at face value. The interest on them is paid by check twice a year (before 1980, Series H Bonds were issued). A taxpayer must report the interest earned on these bonds in the year he or she receives it.

Other U.S. obligations, such as U.S. Treasury notes and bonds, which are issued by an agency or instrumentality of the United States, are fully taxable.

Certificates of Deposit, Savings or Money Market Certificates

If interest is paid at fixed intervals of one year or less during the term of the account, include the interest in income when it is actually received or the taxpayer is entitled to receive it without paying a substantial penalty. The same is true for accounts that mature in one year or less and give a single payment of interest at maturity. If interest is deferred for more than one year, see Original Issue Discount, later.

Other Interest Items

Interest on life insurance policies. Benefits from a life insurance policy that a taxpayer receives because of the death of the insured may be paid either in a lump sum or in installments. Generally, if the payments are received in installments, the interest must be included in the taxpayer's income. However, if the decedent died before October 23, 1986, and was the taxpayer's spouse, the first $1,000 of such interest received each year is not taxed.

Interest on insurance dividends. This interest is included in taxable income, when it is credited to the taxpayer's account, if the dividends can be withdrawn on demand.

Interest on GI insurance dividends that have been left on deposit with the Department of Veterans' Affairs is taxable.

Form 1099-INT

Banks and other financial institutions use Form 1099-INT, Statement for Recipients of Interest Income, to report interest received or credited to the depositor's account. Some credit unions and savings and loan institutions call interest "dividends." True dividends are different and will be discussed later in this lesson.

A few taxpayers will have Forms 1099-INT that show federal income tax withheld. Include the withheld amount with other withheld tax when you fill in line 55 of Form 1040.

Most taxpayers who have cashed U.S. Savings Bonds will receive a Form 1099-INT. However, Form 1099-INT may show more interest than the taxpayer needs to report as income if he or she was not the original owner of the bond, or if the taxpayer had chosen to report the interest income as it was earned. Be sure to check with the taxpayer concerning this interest.

Box 1 of Form 1099-INT shows taxable interest that must be reported. Box 3 also shows taxable interest, generally from U.S. Savings Bonds.

If a taxpayer withdrew funds from a time savings account or other form of deposit (certificate, etc.) before the maturity of that account, he or she may be charged an interest penalty. This forfeited interest is shown in box 2 of Form 1099-INT (early withdrawal penalty). The taxpayer must report on line 8a, Form 1040, the gross amount of the interest paid or credited to the account during the year without subtracting the forfeited interest penalty. This amount (the forfeiture in box 2) is deducted as an adjustment to income on line 28, Form 1040.

Original Issue Discount (OID)

All long-term obligations that pay no interest before maturity are presumed to be issued at a discount. Original issue discount (OID) is the difference between the principal amount (stated redemption price at maturity) of a long-term debt instrument, such as a bond, note, or other evidence of indebtedness, and its issue price.

Form 1099–OID, Statement for Recipients of Original Issue Discount, is used by a corporation, a bank, or other financial institution to report the amount of original issue discount income that a taxpayer should report as income for the year. Box 1 of the Form 1099–OID shows the correct amount of interest for the year if the taxpayer bought the obligation at its original issue and held the issue all year. Box 2 shows regular interest paid on the obligation in addition to the OID income.

If the taxpayer has OID income from an obligation, and bought the obligation after its original issue or did not hold the obligation all year, refer the taxpayer to Publication 550, Investment Income and Expenses, or Publication 1212, List of Original Issue Discount Instruments, or to a professional tax preparer.

Schedule B, Part I. If taxable interest income is more than $400 or if the exclusion of interest from Series EE U.S. savings bonds issued after 1989 is claimed, list the payers' names and the various amounts on Schedule B, Part I.

On Schedule B, line 1, enter all interest income the taxpayer received.

List the name of the payer. If any of the interest income is from seller-financed mortgages, list that interest first. If several accounts are at the same bank, list the interest from each account separately. You may use ditto marks rather than repeat the bank's name.

For more information about interest income, see Publication 17. For more information about reporting interest on frozen deposits, see Publication 550.

Tax-Exempt Interest

Certain types of interest are exempt from federal income tax. Interest on the obligations of a state or one of its political subdivisions, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or one of its political subdivisions is not taxable. However, tax-exempt interest must be shown on line 8b, Form 1040.

Examples of the types of agencies or political subdivisions that may issue tax-exempt obligations are:

Port authorities,
Toll-road commissions,
Utility service authorities,
Community redevelopment agencies, and
Qualified volunteer fire departments.

Mutual funds often buy tax-exempt issues and will include these exempt-interest dividends on the statements to their shareholders. These amounts are not included on line 8a, but must be reported as tax-exempt interest on line 8b.

Dividend Income

Dividends are distributions paid by corporations. Taxpayers also may receive dividends through a partnership, an estate, a trust, or an association that is taxed as a corporation.

Taxpayers may receive any of the following kinds of distributions: ordinary dividends, capital gain distributions, or nontaxable distributions. Most distributions are paid in cash. However, taxpayers may receive additional stock, stock rights, other property, or services.

Ordinary dividends. Ordinary dividends are distributions from the earnings and profits of a corporation to its shareholders. While there are many other forms of corporate distributions, ordinary dividends are the usual type.

Dividends that a taxpayer receives from common or preferred stock are ordinary dividends unless the paying corporation states otherwise. Ordinary dividends are taxable.

Capital gain distributions. Capital gain distributions are paid to a taxpayer or credited to his or her account, generally from mutual funds, regulated investment companies, or real estate investment trusts. Capital gain distributions are treated as long-term capital gains, regardless of how long the taxpayer held the stock. Capital gains are explained in Module IV.

Nontaxable distributions. Certain distributions a taxpayer may receive are not taxable.

A return of capital is a return of part of the taxpayer's investment in the stock of the company and is not paid out of the earnings and profits of the corporation. A return of capital reduces the basis of the stock and is not taxed until the taxpayer's basis in the stock is fully recovered. Any return of capital in excess of basis is capital gain. Capital gain is explained in Module IV.

Stock dividends are generally not taxable. They increase the taxpayer's number of shares in the company. However, there are times when stock dividends will be taxable. Questions regarding these should be referred to a professional preparer.

Other distributions. Exempt-interest dividends received from a mutual fund are not taxable. Dividends on insurance policies are not taxable until they are more than the total of all net premiums paid by the taxpayer. Dividends on veterans' insurance are not taxable. Certain patronage dividends also are not taxable. Credit union dividends are reported as interest.

Dividend reinvestment. Stockholders often leave dividends on deposit for reinvestment and never receive any checks. This method of investing in stock is an example of "constructive receipt" of income. That is, the stockholder has an option to receive the income, so it is taxable income at that time. If the person receiving dividend income does not know what kind of dividend was received or reinvested, and the paying company's statement is unclear, refer the person to a professional preparer or to Publication 550.

How To Report Dividend Income

Ordinary dividends may be reported on either Form 1040A or Form 1040. However, Form 1040 must be used if a taxpayer receives capital gain distributions or return of capital distributions.

Dividends—$400 or Less. Report all ordinary dividends on line 9, Form 1040.

Dividends—Over $400. If the taxpayer's total dividends are over $400, the source and the amount of all dividends received must be listed on line 5, Part II of Schedule B (Form 1040). Included on this line are ordinary dividends, capital gain distributions, and nontaxable distributions. The total of all dividends received is then added on line 6, Schedule B.

Note: If a taxpayer has a statement from a brokerage firm, list the brokerage firm as the source and the total of all dividends received from all stocks held by that firm. The taxpayer may also have a statement from the brokerage firm listing individual sources of dividends received. Do not list these individual sources of dividends.

Return of capital distributions. These are not reported until the taxpayer's cost or other basis in the stock has been reduced to zero. If the basis has been reduced to zero, this amount must be reported on Schedule D.

Capital gain distributions listed on line 5 are totaled on line 7 of Schedule B. This amount must also be entered on line 13 of Schedule D (Form 1040). However, if Schedule D is not otherwise required, enter the amount from line 7 directly on Form 1040, line 14.

Nontaxable distributions from line 5 are totaled on line 8 of Schedule B (Form 1040).

Form 1099–DIV

Dividend income is reported to stockholders on Form 1099–DIV, Statement for Recipients of Dividends and Distributions. Form 1099–DIV is shown in Exhibit 10. You should be familiar with the terms at the top of each box.

Box 1a. Gross dividends and other distributions of stock. This box includes any amounts shown in boxes 1b, 1c, 1d, and 1e. If the taxpayer does not file Schedule B (see Dividends—$400 or Less, earlier), enter the sum of boxes 1b and 1e on Form 1040, line 9. Also, enter the amount in box 1c on Form 1040, line 14, if Schedule D is not otherwise needed. If Schedule D is needed, enter the amount in box 1c on Schedule D, line 13.

If the taxpayer files Schedule B, Form 1040 (see Dividends—Over $400, earlier), report the amount in box 1a on Schedule B.

Box 1b. Ordinary dividends. Ordinary dividends are fully taxable and are included in box 1a.

Box 1c. Capital gain distributions. Capital gain distributions are included in box 1a.

Box 1d. Nontaxable distributions. Amounts shown in box 1d are usually a return of capital that reduce the taxpayer's basis in the stock. Once the taxpayer has received an amount equal to his or her cost, or other basis, these distributions are taxable to the taxpayer as a capital gain even if the payer lists them as nontaxable. This amount is included in box 1a.

Box 1e. Investment expenses. The amount shown in box 1e is the taxpayer's share of the expenses of a nonpublicly offered mutual fund, which is included as a dividend in box 1a. The expenses shown in box 1e are deductible as a miscellaneous deduction on Schedule A, Form 1040, subject to the 2% AGI limit.

Box 2. Federal income tax withheld. The amount in this box represents backup withholding. Tax is not required to be withheld from all dividend payments. However, some taxpayers may be subject to withholding. If Form 1099-DIV shows withheld tax, include the amount in box 2 on line 55, Form 1040, and check the box on this line.

Box 3. Foreign tax paid (if eligible for foreign tax credit). This item is beyond the scope of the volunteer program. You should refer the taxpayer to Publication 514, Foreign Tax Credit for Individuals.

Box 4. Foreign country or U.S. possession. This is the country or possession to which the foreign tax was paid.

Boxes 5 and 6. Cash and noncash liquidation distributions. These items are beyond the scope of the volunteer program. You should refer the taxpayer to Publication 550.

Attachment Sequence No. 08

Part I Interest Income

(See Instructions on pages 13 and 30.)

If you received more than $400 in taxable interest income, or you are claiming the exclusion of interest from series EE U.S. savings bonds issued after 1989 (see page 30), you must complete Part I. List ALL interest received in Part I. If you received more than $400 in taxable interest income, you must also complete Part III. If you received, as a nominee, interest that actually belongs to another person, or you received or paid accrued interest on securities transferred between interest payment dates, see page 31.

Interest Income

Amount

1 Interest income. (List name of payer—if any interest income is from seller-financed mortgages, see Instructions and list this interest first.) ▶ 1

Note: If you received a Form 1099-INT, Form 1099-OID, or substitute statement, from a brokerage firm, list the firm's name as the payer and enter the total interest shown on that form.

PROOF COPY

2 Add the amounts on line 1. Enter the total 2

3 Enter the excludable savings bond interest, if any, from Form 8815, line 14. Attach Form 8815 to Form 1040 . . . 3

4 Subtract line 3 from line 2. Enter the result here and on Form 1040, line 8a . . ▶ 4

Part II Dividend Income

(See Instructions on pages 13 and 31.)

If you received more than $400 in gross dividends and/or other distributions on stock, you must complete Parts II and III. If you received, as a nominee, dividends that actually belong to another person, see page 31.

Dividend Income

Amount

5 Dividend income. (List name of payer—include on this line capital gain distributions, nontaxable distributions, etc.) ▶ 5

Note: If you received a Form 1099-DIV, or substitute statement, from a brokerage firm, list the firm's name as the payer and enter the total dividends shown on that form.

If you received capital gain distributions but do not need Schedule D to report any other gains or losses, see the Instructions for Form 1040, lines 13 and 14.*

Part III Foreign Accounts and Foreign Trusts

If you received more than $400 of interest or dividends, OR if you had a foreign account or were a grantor of, or a transferor to, a foreign trust, you must answer both questions in Part III.

	Yes	No
11a At any time during 1990, did you have an interest in or a signature or other authority over a financial account in a foreign country (such as a bank account, securities account, or other financial account)? (See page 31 of the Instructions for exceptions and filing requirements for Form TD F 90-22.1.)
b If "Yes," enter the name of the foreign country ▶
12 Were you the grantor of, or transferor to, a foreign trust that existed during 1990, whether or not you have any beneficial interest in it? If "Yes," you may have to file Form 3520, 3520-A, or 926

For Paperwork Reduction Act Notice, see Form 1040 Instructions. Schedule B (Form 1040) 1990

Miscellaneous Income

State and Local Tax Refunds

A taxpayer who received a state or local income tax refund this year generally must report it on Form 1040, line 10, if the taxpayer itemized deductions in the earlier year and deducted state income tax withheld or paid during that year. A taxpayer in this situation should fill out the worksheet in the instructions for Form 1040 to figure the taxable portion of the refund. The taxpayer does not report the amount of refund that did not reduce tax in the prior year. A taxpayer who did not itemize need not report refunds.

If the refund reflects any deductions, credits, or paymen[illegible] or other than 1989, see Publication 525, Taxable and Nontaxable Income.

Payers of state and local income tax refunds generally will report all payments of $10 or more on Form 1099-G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Government Payments.

Example

In May 1990, after Bill H. and Sarah A. Fairfax filed their 1989 state income tax return, they received a $500 refund from the state. On their 1989 Schedule A (Form 1040), they had deducted $1,000 for state income tax paid. Their itemized deductions were $6,500 (line 26 on their 1989 Schedule A). Bill and Sarah are both under 65. This entire amount reduced their taxable income in 1989. Their completed worksheet is shown as Exhibit 21.

Exhibit 21

Worksheet for State and Local Income Tax Refunds (Keep for your records)

1. Enter the income tax refund from Form(s) 1099-G (or similar statement)	500
2. Enter the amount from your 1989 Schedule A, line 26 Note: If the filing status on your 1989 Form 1040 was married filing separately and your spouse itemized deductions in 1989, enter the amount from line 2 on line 6; skip lines 3, 4, and 5.	6,500
3. Enter on line 3 the amount shown below for the filing status you claimed on your 1989 Form 1040. • Single, enter $3,100 • Married filing jointly or Qualifying widow(er), enter $5,200 • Married filing separately, enter $2,600 • Head of household, enter $4,550	5,200
4. If you (or your spouse if you filed a joint return) were under 65 and not blind at the end of 1989, enter -0-. Otherwise, multiply the number on your 1989 Form 1040, line 33a, by $600 ($750 if your 1989 filing status was single or head of household) and enter the result	-0-
5. Add lines 3 and 4. Enter the total	5,200
6. Subtract line 5 from line 2. Enter the result (but not less than zero)	1,300
7. Taxable part of your refund. Compare the amounts on lines 1 and 6 above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here and on Form 1040, line 10	500

Alimony Received

Alimony or separate maintenance payments made under a court decree are taxable income to the person receiving them. The person making the payments deducts them as an adjustment to gross income. Child support payments are not alimony. The person making them cannot deduct them, nor are they income to the recipient. Unless a written agreement or divorce decree specifies that payments are for child support, they generally are considered alimony.

Income from Business or Profession

Refer taxpayers to Publication 334, Tax Guide for Small Business, if any of their income is from a business or a profession.

Capital Gains and Losses

Sales of stocks are reported on Schedule D. There are sales of other capital assets. One of these is the sale of a residence. Both the sales of stocks and the sale of a residence are covered in Module IV. The sale or exchange of other assets is beyond the scope of the volunteer program and should be referred to a professional tax preparer, or information can be obtained from Publication 544, Sales and Other Dispositions of Assets.

Capital Gain Distributions

If the taxpayer does not need to use Schedule D, he or she reports the capital gain distribution on Form 1040, line 14. This is the amount from Schedule B, line 7, for a taxpayer filing Schedule B.

Sale of Business Property

The sale or involuntary conversion of business property is beyond the scope of the volunteer program. These questions should be referred to a professional tax preparer. Publication 544 also may be helpful.

Pension Income

Module IV, Lesson 3, covers the treatment of income from pensions, annuities, and IRA distributions.

Rental, Partnership, Estate, and Trust Income

Any taxpayers who receive income from one of these sources should not be seeking volunteer assistance. Again, these are business types of income to be referred to a professional tax preparer. Publication 527, Residential Rental Property, would be helpful to someone with rental income.

Farm Income

Advise taxpayers with farm income to see Publication 225, Farmer's Tax Guide, or a professional tax preparer.

Unemployment Compensation

On Form 1040, line 20, enter the total unemployment compensation received, as reported on Form 1099-G. All of it must be included in taxable income.

Supplemental unemployment benefits received from an employer's fund are fully taxable as wages if the employee did not contribute to the fund. Report these amounts on line 7, Form 1040.

Taxable Social Security Benefits

Some taxpayers must include part of their social security benefits in taxable income. Social security benefits include any monthly benefit under Title II of the Social Security Act, or the equivalent portion of a railroad retirement benefit.

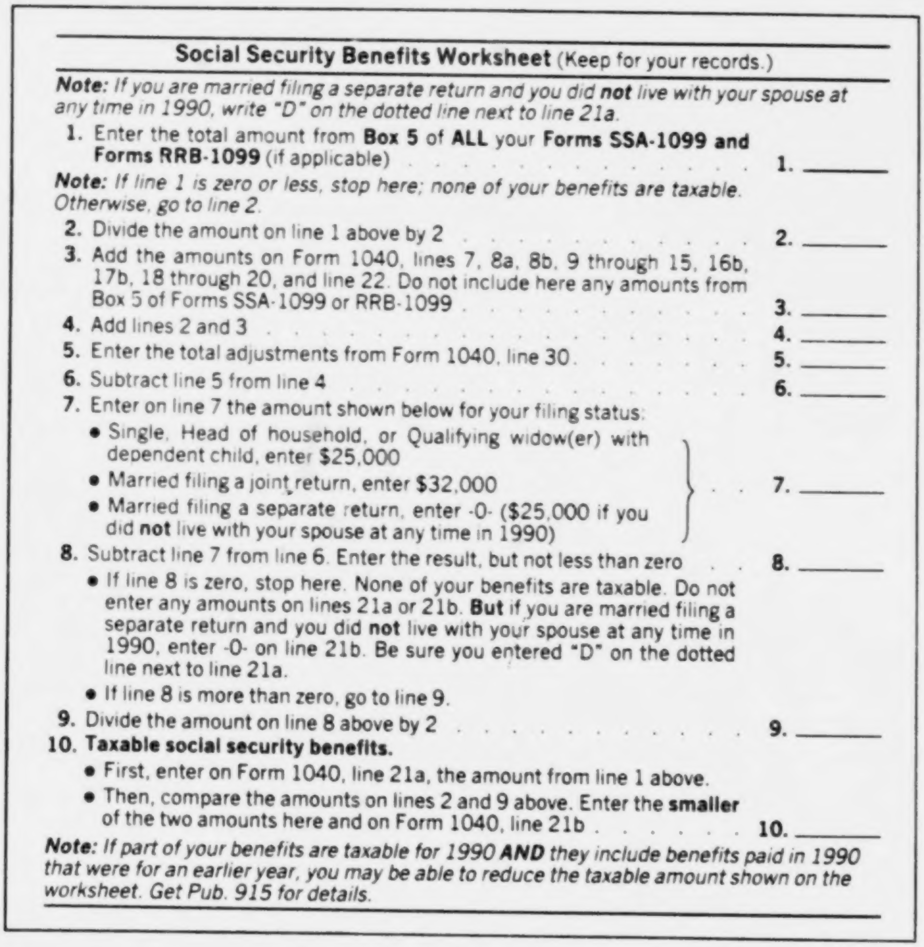
Generally, if a taxpayer's income is over a certain base amount, part of the social security is taxable. The taxable amount is the lesser of one-half of the social security benefits received or one-half of the excess combined income (from line 10 of the worksheet) that is over the base amount.

The base amounts are:

- $32,000 for individuals filing joint returns,
- $0 for married individuals filing separate returns unless the husband and wife lived apart all year, and
- $25,000 for all other filers.

A worksheet in the forms instructions (Exhibit 22) is used in computing taxable social security benefits.

Exhibit 22



Social Security Benefits Worksheet (Keep for your records.)

Note: If you are married filing a separate return and you did not live with your spouse at any time in 1990, write "D" on the dotted line next to line 21a.

1. Enter the total amount from Box 5 of ALL your Forms SSA-1099 and Forms RRB-1099 (if applicable) . . . . 1. ________

Note: If line 1 is zero or less, stop here; none of your benefits are taxable. Otherwise, go to line 2.

2. Divide the amount on line 1 above by 2 . . . . 2. ________
3. Add the amounts on Form 1040, lines 7, 8a, 8b, 9 through 15, 16b, 17b, 18 through 20, and line 22. Do not include here any amounts from Box 5 of Forms SSA-1099 or RRB-1099 . . . . 3. ________

5. Enter the total adjustments from Form 1040, line 30 . . . . 5. ________
6. Subtract line 5 from line 4 . . . . 6. ________
7. Enter on line 7 the amount shown below for your filing status:
    - Single, Head of household, or Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child, enter $25,000
    - Married filing a joint return, enter $32,000
    - Married filing a separate return, enter -0- ($25,000 if you did not live with your spouse at any time in 1990)

    } . . 7. ________
8. Subtract line 7 from line 6. Enter the result, but not less than zero . . 8. ________
    - If line 8 is zero, stop here. None of your benefits are taxable. Do not enter any amounts on lines 21a or 21b. But if you are married filing a separate return and you did not live with your spouse at any time in 1990, enter -0- on line 21b. Be sure you entered "D" on the dotted line next to line 21a.
    - If line 8 is more than zero, go to line 9.
9. Divide the amount on line 8 above by 2 . . . . 9. ________
10. Taxable social security benefits.
    - First, enter on Form 1040, line 21a, the amount from line 1 above.
    - Then, compare the amounts on lines 2 and 9 above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here and on Form 1040, line 21b . . . . . . 10. ________

Note: If part of your benefits are taxable for 1990 AND they include benefits paid in 1990 that were for an earlier year, you may be able to reduce the taxable amount shown on the worksheet. Get Pub. 915 for details.

A taxpayer who gets social security benefits will receive a statement on Form SSA-1099, Social Security Benefit Statement, showing the total benefits paid during the year. The statement also shows any social security benefits the taxpayer repaid during the year and benefits that were reduced because of workers' compensation received. Form RRB-1099, Statement for Recipients of Payments by the Railroad Retirement Board, is used for railroad retirement benefits.

For more information on the taxability of social security and railroad retirement benefits, see Module IV, Lesson 4, Taxable Social Security Benefits, or Publication 915, Social Security Benefits and Equivalent Railroad Retirement Benefits.

Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions

A taxpayer for whom a broker sold stocks, bonds, commodities, etc., or who exchanged property or services through a barter exchange, should receive Form 1099-B, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds From Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions, from the broker or barter exchange. Sales of stocks are explained in Module IV. For more information about barter exchanges, see Publication 17.

Other Income

Form 1040 has no specific line or schedule for various kinds of taxable income. Report this income on Form 1040, line 22. Examples include prizes and awards, gambling winnings, jury duty fees, and director's fees. If a particular item is clearly taxable and it does not fit in any of the categories having specific income lines, the "Other income" line is the place to report it. Be sure to identify the income item by its nature and source.

For more information about other income, see Publication 17.

Total Income

To arrive at total income from all sources (line 23 of Form 1040), add the right column of Form 1040, from lines 7 through 22.

Exercise 10

Fill in the blanks:

a. A state or local income tax ____________ may be taxable if the taxpayer itemized deductions and deducted state or local income tax paid or withheld in the year to which the ____________ applies.
b. Alimony received is ____________.
c. Self-employed persons should be referred to ____________ or ____________.
d. Unemployment compensation must be ____________ and is ____________.
e. Jury duty fees and gambling winnings should be reported on Form 1040, line ____________.

Exercise 11

Laurie L. Lamar, a single taxpayer, wants you to help her with her income tax return. She had wages of $7,500, interest income of $375, gross dividends of $250 (of which $50 was a nontaxable distribution and $75 was a capital gain distribution), and unemployment compensation of $1,000. She also won $2,500 in her state sweepstakes. She had no adjustments to income and no Schedule D transactions. Complete the Income section of Form 1040 (Exhibit 23) for Laurie.

Dan C. and Penny A. Dale are filing jointly. Penny's Form W-2 shows $4,672 in wages. Dan's Form W-2 shows $11,750. Penny has a Form 1099-G reporting $432 in unemployment compensation. They have a Form 1099-INT that reports $285 of interest income. They also have stock investments and two Forms 1099-DIV (Exhibits 24 and 25). Penny won a Chamber of Commerce contest in which the prize was $500 in cash. Prepare Part II of their Schedule B (Exhibit 26) and the Income section of their Form 1040 (Exhibit 27). They have no foreign bank accounts or trusts and no Schedule D transactions.

Summary

The Income section of Form 1040 is used to report all types of taxable income. The taxable amount in the right column may be less than the amount received, because certain exclusions and deductions are figured on a schedule, a worksheet, or Form 1040. Completing the Income section is one of the major tasks in preparing Form 1040.

Lesson 4

Adjustments to Income

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Determine whether taxpayers qualify for the deduction for individual retirement arrangements (IRAs).
2. Figure the correct adjustment to income for:
    a. The IRA deduction,
    b. Penalty for early withdrawal of savings, and
    c. Alimony paid.
3. Report each deduction correctly on Form 1040 and determine adjusted gross income.

Introduction

Total (gross) income minus adjustments is adjusted gross income. An adjustment is an item that a taxpayer can subtract from total income without having to itemize deductions. Some adjustments are business-related and fall outside the scope of VITA or TCE training. You will study three adjustments: contributions (payments) to an individual retirement arrangement (IRA), penalty for early withdrawal of savings, and alimony paid.

Contributions to an IRA

An individual retirement arrangement (IRA) is a tax-sheltered savings plan that taxpayers set up for themselves. Contributions (payments) to the plan may be deductible from total income if certain conditions are met. Earnings from an IRA generally are not taxed until they are distributed.

Anyone who contributes more than allowed, takes distributions before age 59½ (unless disabled), or receives smaller distributions than required after reaching age 70½, is subject to additional tax. If you meet taxpayers with these or any other IRA complexities, refer them to a professional tax preparer or to Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

Who Can Have an IRA

Anyone under 70½ can have an IRA if he or she receives payments for personal services (compensation), such as wages, salaries, commissions, tips, bonuses, professional fees, and earnings from self-employment. Alimony or separate maintenance payments that are included in gross income are compensation for IRA purposes. Qualifying income for an IRA does not include income from property, such as interest, rents, dividends, pension and annuity income, or income not includible in gross income on the return.

A working married taxpayer with an unemployed spouse, or whose spouse received very little earned income (less than $250) and chooses to be treated as having no earned income for IRA purposes, on a joint return, for the year, can set up an IRA for the spouse.

A taxpayer cannot take a deduction for any payment made to an IRA during or after the tax year in which he or she reaches 70½. However, a taxpayer can continue to deduct payments to a spouse's IRA until the year in which the spouse reaches 70½.

Full, Partial, or No Deduction

As you studied earlier in Module II, Lesson 9, the deduction a taxpayer can take for contributions to an IRA depends on:

1. Whether or not the taxpayer is covered by a retirement plan set up by his or her employer for any part of the year, and if so,
2. How much adjusted gross income (AGI) the taxpayer has.

Full deduction. A taxpayer who is not covered by an employer retirement plan can take a full IRA deduction of up to $2,000 or 100% of compensation, whichever is less.

Partial or no deduction. A taxpayer who is covered by an employer-maintained retirement plan may be entitled to only a partial deduction or no deduction at all, depending on his or her adjusted gross income and filing status. A taxpayer's allowable IRA deduction begins to phase out at certain AGI levels. These levels were shown in a chart earlier in Module II, Lesson 9.

Because the average taxpayer that you help will not have an AGI greater than the amounts shown in the chart, you will not be expected to know the phaseout formula. If you do help a taxpayer with an AGI in excess of the levels, refer the taxpayer to Publication 590 or to a professional preparer.

Married couples. If they file a joint return and neither spouse is covered by a retirement plan at work, each spouse may be entitled to the full deduction of up to $2,000, or 100% of compensation, whichever is less. If one spouse is not covered by a plan but the other spouse is, then the couple's IRA deduction may be reduced or eliminated depending on their combined AGI.

However, if both spouses file separate returns and the spouse not covered by a plan does not live with his or her spouse for any part of the tax year, he or she is considered as not covered by a plan and is entitled to the full IRA deduction. For additional information, see Publication 17.

How Much Can Be Deducted for an IRA

The following chart will help you see how much taxpayers can deduct each year for IRAs. This chart is for people who are not covered by a retirement plan at work or for those who are covered, but who do not have an AGI above the phaseout levels given in Module II, Lesson 9.

Facts	Filing Status	Subtract the Lowest of:
Employed taxpayer has IRA Joint return, both taxpayers employed and have IRAs: Figure each taxpayer's IRA deduction separately and combine them to find the amount to deduct (no more than $2,000 for each).	Any	• Contributions to IRA; • Compensation; or • $2,000
Employed taxpayer has IRA and sets up IRA for unemployed spouse or for spouse with less than $250 of earned income	Married filing jointly	• Contributions to both IRAs; • Employed taxpayer's compensation; or • $2,250 (no more than $2,000 for either IRA)
Employed taxpayer without IRA sets up IRA for unemployed spouse or for spouse with less than $250 of earned income	Married filing jointly	• Contributions to IRA; • Employed taxpayer's compensation; or • $2,000

If a person has more than one IRA, the IRAs must be combined and treated as one when figuring the amount that can be contributed and the amount that can be deducted. The worksheet in the instructions for Form 1040 can be used to figure the amount of the IRA deduction.

Nondeductible contributions. As you read earlier in Module II, Lesson 9, a taxpayer can make nondeductible contributions to an IRA, even though he or she may have little or no deductible contributions because of the phaseout rules. Earnings on these contributions are not taxed until they are distributed to the taxpayer. The maximum amount allowable is limited to the lesser of $2,000 or 100% of the total compensation received, less the amount of the allowable IRA deduction.

To be able to deduct an IRA contribution from total income, the taxpayer must establish the IRA and make the contribution before the federal income tax return is due for the year. Contributions can be deducted even if they are made after the return is filed. They must be designated for the tax year and made by the date the return is due, which is usually April 15th. If a deduction is claimed for an intended contribution that is not made, the taxpayer must file an amended return to eliminate the IRA deduction.

Where To Deduct an IRA Contribution

If the taxpayer files Form 1040 as a single person, head of household, or as married filing separately, enter his or her deductible IRA contribution on line 24a. If a joint return is filed and both spouses have IRAs, enter the allowable amount that one spouse contributed to his or her IRA on line 24a. Enter the other spouse's deductible contribution on line 24b.

Exercise 1

Bill C. and Kathy D. Custer are both employed, and each earned $15,000 in 1990. Neither spouse was covered by an employer retirement plan for any part of the year. In July 1990, Bill contributed $1,200 for his 1990 IRA. In February 1991 he contributed $800 for his 1990 IRA. Kathy contributed $400 to her IRA for 1990. How much may Bill enter on Form 1040, line 24a, of their joint return? How much can Kathy enter on line 24b of their return?

Answer

Exercise 2

Mary E. Walker, 55, retired two years ago. She received an $8,000 taxable pension and $750 for babysitting during the past year. How much could Miss Walker contribute to an IRA and enter on Form 1040, line 24a?

Answer

Penalty for Early Withdrawal of Savings

A depositor may freely withdraw funds from an ordinary savings account. With time deposits, however, such as the popular short-term certificates, the depositor is charged a penalty if funds are withdrawn before maturity. The bank reports this penalty on the Form 1099-INT it uses to report interest it paid the depositor. The penalty is identified on the form as the amount forfeited.

Reporting Early Withdrawal Penalty

In the Income section of Form 1040, and on Schedule B if required, the taxpayer must include the total amount of interest paid or credited. The penalty can be taken as an adjustment on Form 1040, line 28. If an early withdrawal penalty was charged on more than one account, enter the total. The entire penalty may be deducted, even if it exceeds the interest income and whether or not the taxpayer itemizes deductions.

Exercise 3

Arlene N. Fairfield has given you her Forms 1099-INT totaling more than $400 in interest income. She planned to file Form 1040A because she could not itemize or claim any of the tax credits that are available only on Form 1040. You have noticed the early withdrawal penalty on a few of the Forms 1099-INT.

a. What advice would you give Miss Fairfield?

Answer

b. Is there a limit on how much a taxpayer may deduct for the early withdrawal penalty?

Answer

Alimony Paid

Anyone who pays alimony can claim the total paid during the year as an adjustment to income. The alimony is fully taxable to the person receiving it.

Child support payments are not alimony and are not deductible.

The amount of alimony that is deductible depends on when the decree of divorce or separate maintenance was executed. Different rules apply to agreements made after 1984. If you need to know how these rules apply, see Publication 504, Tax Information for Divorced or Separated Individuals.

Note: There is also a requirement for an individual who is deducting alimony payments to provide the recipient's social security number. This is entered in the designated space on line 29 of the payer's Form 1040.

Publications 17 and 504 contain more information on the alimony deduction.

Exercise 4

Nan E. Troup was divorced a few years ago and her decree required her to make alimony payments to her former husband. She is supposed to pay $200 on the 15th of each month. She was late making her December payment in 1990, so she included it with her January payment in 1991. How much will you enter on Form 1040, line 29, for Ms. Troup?

Answer

Exercise 5

Seth B. Lewis was granted a divorce that required him to make monthly payments of $100 for alimony and $400 for child support. He made every payment in full and on time this past year. How much may he deduct on Form 1040, line 29?

Answer

Other Adjustments

Keogh Plan

A Keogh plan is similar to an IRA except that it is for self-employed taxpayers and larger amounts may be contributed. Publication 560, Retirement Plans for the Self-Employed, gives information about Keogh plans.

Health Insurance Deduction for Self-Employed

Self-employed persons may be able to deduct 25% of the health insurance payments they made for themselves, their spouses, and their dependents during 1990 on line 26, Form 1040. The deduction is limited to the taxpayer's earned income from his or her trade or business. A worksheet is included in the Form 1040 instructions for these taxpayers to use to figure their allowable deduction.

Jury duty pay given to employer

A taxpayer who is required to give to his or her employer any part of his or her pay for jury duty, in exchange for payment by the employer of compensation while the taxpayer serves as juror, may deduct the amount given to the employer as an adjustment to income. The deductible amount should be included in the total entered on line 30 of Form 1040. On the dotted line next to line 30, the taxpayer should write "Jury pay," and the amount deducted. For additional information, see Publication 17.

Note: As you read earlier in Lesson 3 of this module, jury duty pay received by taxpayers is includible as other income on line 22, Form 1040.

Total Adjustments

Add all adjustments and enter the total on Form 1040, line 30. There are other adjustments that are entered directly on line 30. These adjustments are beyond the scope of the volunteer program.

Adjusted Gross Income (AGI)

Subtract the total adjustments on Form 1040, line 30, from the total income, line 23, to find adjusted gross income, line 31. Adjusted gross income, known as AGI, is an important term of reference in regard to medical deductions, certain miscellaneous deductions, earned income credit, and certain other tax items. If there are no adjustments to income, adjusted gross income is the same as total income. When you complete a return, always make an entry on Form 1040, line 31, for adjusted gross income and also on line 32.

If the taxpayer's income, as reported on line 31, is less than $20,264, he or she may be eligible for the earned income credit (EIC). See Module II, Lesson 11, for the EIC requirements.

Exercise 6

William F. and Kay C. Baxter want help with their return. William is retired and receives a federal pension of $8,200, now fully taxable. Kay is still working and earned $8,500 in wages in 1990. Kay contributed $1,200 for 1990 to her own IRA. They cashed in a certificate of deposit and had an early withdrawal penalty of $143. Their taxable interest income for 1990 was $381. Prepare the Baxters' joint Form 1040 (Exhibit 3) through line 31.

Summary

The three adjustments to income that volunteers can help taxpayers prepare are: contributions to an IRA, penalty for withdrawing savings early, and alimony paid. Contributions to an IRA is the only item in the Adjustments to Income section of Form 1040 that can also be claimed on Form 1040A. Refer taxpayers to IRS publications or to professional preparers if you think they may be eligible to claim any of the other adjustments to income on Form 1040.

Even if there are no adjustments, determine adjusted gross income on each return. You will need it to figure the correct tax.

Answers to Exercises

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

Taxpayers will either itemize deductions or use the standard deduction (explained in the next lesson) to reduce their tax liability. In most cases, the taxpayer will use the larger of the two. However, a married taxpayer filing a separate return cannot claim the standard deduction if the taxpayer's spouse itemizes deductions.

If, for state tax purposes, a taxpayer itemizes even though his or her itemized deductions are less than the amount of his or her standard deduction, write "IE" (itemized elected) on the dotted line next to line 34.

There are other taxpayers who must itemize, such as a nonresident alien, but these are cases that should be referred to a professional tax preparer.

Itemized deductions are items specifically allowed by law. They include medical and dental expenses, taxes paid, interest paid, charitable contributions to qualifying organizations, casualty and theft losses incurred, moving expenses, and specific miscellaneous expenses.

Medical and Dental Expenses

Lines 1 through 4 of Schedule A are used to deduct medical and dental expenses. Include only expenses paid for:

1. The taxpayer and spouse,
2. Dependents listed on the return, and
3. Others who could have been claimed as dependents except that they had gross income of $2,050 or more or filed a joint return.

If either parent claims a child as a dependent under the rules for divorced or separated parents, each parent may deduct the medical expenses he or she pays for the child.

Example

John G. Bacan provided more than half of his mother's support but cannot list her as a dependent because she received $2,050 in wages during 1990. If part of the support John provided was to pay his mother's medical bills, he can include that part in his medical and dental expense deduction.

Deductible Expenses

Deductible medical expenses are those the taxpayer paid and for which there was no reimbursement from insurance or other sources. A detailed list of allowable medical expenses is shown in Publication 17. These expenses include such items as prescribed drugs; insulin; medical, dental, and nursing care; medical and hospital insurance premiums; special items such as eyeglasses, crutches, or hearing aids; transportation for medical care; and certain lodging. Transportation is limited to actual costs or 9 cents a mile, plus tolls and parking fees.

Certain capital expenditures incurred for a personal residence to make it suitable to the needs of a person with disabilities are fully deductible (subject to the 7.5% limit discussed later). Other capital improvements to a home may be partly deductible if the main reason for the improvement is for medical care. Refer the taxpayer to Publication 502, Medical and Dental Expenses, or to a professional tax preparer.

Schedule A (Form 1040) 1990

Figuring the Medical and Dental Expense Deduction

To be deductible, medical and dental expenses must exceed 7.5% of a taxpayer's adjusted gross income.

Example

Virginia D. Walters had $15,000 in adjusted gross income. Her unreimbursed doctors' and dentists' bills were $600 for herself and her dependent son, Ron. She paid $468 in insurance premiums; $125 for medicines her doctor prescribed; and $20 for nonprescription medicines, such as cold capsules, aspirin, and vitamins. Ron's eyeglasses cost Virginia $60. Virginia and Ron made seven trips by car to the doctor's office, which was a 30-mile round trip each time, plus $5 for parking. Ron went to the dentist by taxi three times, and each round trip cost $7. For her Schedule A, Virginia figures her transportation costs for medical care as follows:

30 miles × 7 times = 210 miles by car
210 miles × 9 cents a mile =	$18.90
$5 parking fee × 7 times =	35.00
$7 taxi trip × 3 times =	21.00
Medical transportation	$74.90
Rounded off	$75.00

The Medical and Dental Expenses section from Virginia's Schedule A is shown as Exhibit 2.

Taxes

A deductible tax is imposed on, and paid by, the taxpayer. If the taxpayer pays tax for someone else, such as a parent or a friend, neither of them can deduct that tax.

Taxes are deducted on lines 5 through 8 of Schedule A. The three types described here can be deducted.

State, Local, and Foreign Income Taxes

A taxpayer may deduct income taxes paid to a state or local government or to a foreign government or any of its subdivisions. These taxes include withheld tax, estimated payments, and tax paid for an earlier year.

Example

In 1990, Mark James had $800 withheld from his wages for his 1990 state income tax. In addition, he paid $400 in estimated tax to the state. In April 1990, he paid a balance due of $300 when he filed his 1989 state income tax return. The total state income tax Mark paid in 1990 is $1,500. This is the amount deductible on his 1990 Schedule A.

Real Estate Taxes

Deductible real estate taxes are levied for the general public welfare. They are state, local, or foreign taxes on real property, such as the taxpayer's house or land. Local benefit taxes (for example, assessments to pave a street or install a sewer) are generally not deductible, unless they are for maintenance or interest charges related to the benefits.

The taxpayer cannot deduct real estate tax paid with the monthly mortgage payment into an escrow account. The taxpayer may deduct only what the escrow agent (usually the bank or mortgage lender) paid the state or locality.

Members of the clergy and military personnel may deduct real estate taxes even if they receive a housing allowance that they may exclude from income.

Personal Property Tax

A deductible personal property tax is a state or local tax charged on the value of personal property. It is charged on a yearly basis, even if it is collected more or less often.

Example

Jane P. Morrison paid a registration fee for her personal car, based partly on its value and partly on its weight. She may deduct only the part based on its value.

Nondeductible Taxes

Many federal, state, and local government taxes are not deductible. For example:

1. General sales tax,
2. Federal taxes—income tax, social security (FICA), railroad retirement tax, and excise taxes or customs duties,
3. Hunting licenses, dog licenses,
4. Water and sewer taxes,
5. Taxes paid for another person,
6. Taxes on alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, and tobacco,
7. State, local, or federal taxes on gasoline, diesel, and other motor fuels used in a nonbusiness vehicle, and
8. Utility taxes (telephone, gas, electricity, etc.).

Interest

Interest is the amount that is paid for borrowing money. Only the taxpayer who is legally liable for the debt can deduct interest in the tax year it is paid or accrued. There are four categories of interest expenses that may be deducted on Schedule A, lines 9a through 13:

1. Home mortgage interest,
2. Points,
3. Investment interest, and
4. Personal interest.

Home Mortgage Interest

The amount of mortgage interest that a taxpayer may deduct depends on the date he or she obtained the loan, the amount of the loan, and the use of the proceeds of the loan.

If a mortgage debt was incurred before October 14, 1987, and secured by a main or second home, the interest on that debt is fully deductible, regardless of the amount of the loan or the purpose for which the proceeds of the loan were used by the taxpayer.

Example

Shirley C. Marshall bought her home four years ago for $50,000. The balance of her mortgage is $40,000 in 1990. Shirley may continue to deduct all of the interest she pays on her mortgage and deduct this amount on Schedule A.

Interest Limit. If a mortgage debt was incurred after October 13, 1987, and secured by a main or second home, the interest is fully deductible if the loan does not exceed $1 million ($500,000 if married filing separately) and its proceeds were used to buy, build, or substantially improve that home. In addition to this interest, in general, a taxpayer can deduct all of the interest paid on any other loans secured by a main or second home, other than to buy, build, or substantially improve his or her home, as long as the total of these loans does not exceed $100,000 ($50,000 if married filing separately) and to the extent the total amount of the debt is not more than the secured home's fair market value minus any outstanding acquisition debt on the home. A taxpayer can take the deduction, regardless of the purpose for which the taxpayer used the proceeds of the loan. An example of this type of mortgage is a home equity loan a taxpayer uses to pay off credit card accounts, to buy a car, or pay tuition.

Example

Joe V. Brent bought his home in March 1990 for a purchase price of $70,000. He financed the home with a mortgage of $63,000. This is the only debt secured by the home. Joe may deduct all of the interest paid on the mortgage because the amount of the debt does not exceed $1 million. He may deduct this amount directly on Schedule A.

If the taxpayer took out a mortgage loan on his or her home after October 13, 1987, for a purpose other than explained above, refer the taxpayer to Publication 936, Limits on Home Mortgage Interest Deduction, or to a professional tax preparer.

If mortgage payments were made to a financial institution, such as a bank or mortgage company, enter the amount of fully deductible interest paid on line 9a, Schedule A. If the payments were to an individual, enter the amount of fully deductible interest on line 9b, Schedule A, and include the payee's name and address.

Points. The term "points" is often used to describe certain charges to a borrower. Points are also called loan origination fees, premium charges, or maximum loan charges. If the borrower paid these charges only for the use of money, they are interest.

Points paid to refinance a mortgage, regardless of how a taxpayer arranges to pay them, are not deductible in full in the year the taxpayer pays them unless they are paid in connection with the purchase or improvement of a home. This is true even if the new mortgage is secured by the taxpayer's main home. For more information see Publication 545, Interest Expense.

A taxpayer may deduct points in the year of payment only if the loan is used to buy or improve a main home and the loan is secured by that home. The number of points paid cannot exceed those generally charged in that area. Additional points paid are considered interest paid in advance and must be deducted over the life of the mortgage. Points are deducted on line 10, Schedule A.

Charges by the lender for specific services, such as appraisal fees, preparation costs, settlement fees, or notary fees, are not interest even though they may be called points. Points charged for service in obtaining a Department of Veterans Affairs loan are not deductible interest.

Points paid by the seller are not deductible as interest.

Clergy and military personnel. Members of the clergy and military personnel may deduct allowable mortgage interest even if the interest was paid from a nontaxable housing allowance.

Mortgage interest credit. If the taxpayer claims the mortgage interest credit on Form 8396, Mortgage Interest Credit, he or she must reduce the amount of mortgage interest claimed on Schedule A by the amount of the credit claimed. See the instructions for Schedule A and Form 8396.

Investment Interest

* Investment interest includes interest paid or accrued on money borrowed to buy or carry property held for investment. For 1990, taxpayers are allowed an investment interest deduction of up to the amount of net investment income plus 10% of any excess, but not more than $10,000 ($5,000 if married filing a separate return).

Refer taxpayers with questions about investment interest to Publication 550 or to a professional tax preparer.

Personal Interest

* In general, personal interest is any interest expense other than fully deductible home mortgage interest, investment interest, or interest incurred in a trade or business. Personal interest includes interest paid for loans such as signature loans, car loans, credit card balances, and installment plan loans. For 1990, only 10% of personal interest paid is deductible on line 12, Schedule A.

Example

Bill M. and Wanda R. Drew paid the following interest expense in 1990:

Home mortgage interest (purchased home in 1986 for $60,000; balance of mortgage $40,000; no other debts secured by home)	$4,500
Car loan	430
Credit cards	270
Signature bank loan	600

Nondeductible Interest

1. Credit investigation fees,
2. Points paid by the seller,
3. Loan fees (paid for services necessary to get a loan),
4. Interest relating to tax-exempt income,
5. Premium on a convertible bond, and
6. Interest on a debt the taxpayer is not legally liable to pay.

Example

Louise cosigns a loan made by the bank to Tom. Since they are jointly liable for the note, Louise may deduct 10% of the interest she paid on the loan in 1990, and Tom may deduct 10% of the interest he paid in 1990.

Exercise 2

Prepare the Interest section of Mike P. and Joan F. Black's Schedule A (Exhibit 5). During the year they paid the following interest: $1,990 on their home mortgage (all qualified), $500 in credit card interest, $250 on an installment plan purchase and $1,000 on a car loan. Contributions

A taxpayer may deduct contributions to organizations that are organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, educational, scientific, or literary purposes, organizations that work to prevent cruelty to children or animals, and organizations that foster national or international amateur sports competition if they do not provide athletic facilities or equipment. If the taxpayer itemizes, report contributions on lines 14 through 17 of Schedule A.

Deductible Contributions

To be deductible, a contribution must be made to an organization, not an individual. Qualifying organizations include:

1. Churches, synagogues, Salvation Army, Red Cross, CARE, United Way, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, World Wildlife Fund, etc.,
2. Fraternal orders (if gift will be used for the purposes listed above),
3. Nonprofit schools and hospitals,
4. Nonprofit medical research organizations,
5. Veterans' groups and certain cultural groups, and
6. Federal, state, and local governments (if the gifts are exclusively for public purposes).

Deductible items include:

1. Money gifts to qualified organizations,
2. Dues, fees, and assessments, above the value of the benefits received, paid to qualified organizations (not country clubs or other social organizations),
3. Fair market value of used clothing, furniture, or other items given to charity,
4. Cost and upkeep of uniforms that have no general use but must be worn while performing donated services,
5. Transportation expenses that were not repaid and that relate directly to services the taxpayer gave a qualified organization—these include either out-of-pocket expenses, such as bus fare, gas, and oil; or 12 cents a mile. In either case, parking fees and tolls are deductible,
6. Out-of-pocket expenses that were not repaid, including reasonable amounts paid for necessary meals and lodging while the taxpayer was away from home overnight donating services to a qualified organization (providing there was no significant element of personal pleasure or vacation involved), and
7. The part of a contribution above the fair market value for items such as merchandise and tickets to charity balls or sporting events.

Example

Marcia V. Teak gave $75 to the City Museum. In return, she received an art book that retails for $40. On Marcia's Schedule A she would show $35 as her deductible contribution to the museum.

Nondeductible Contributions

Contributions to nonqualifying organizations are not deductible. Such organizations include:

1. Business organizations, such as the chamber of commerce,
2. Civic leagues,
3. Communist organizations,
4. Social clubs, and
5. Foreign organizations—however, the taxpayer may deduct contributions to a U.S. organization that transfers funds to a charitable foreign organization if the U.S. organization controls the use of the funds or if the foreign organization is only an administrative arm of the U.S. organization.

Nondeductible items include:

1. Cost of raffle, bingo, or lottery tickets,
2. Tuition to a private school,
3. Value of a person's time or service,
4. Blood donated to a blood bank or the Red Cross,
5. Car depreciation, insurance, general repairs, or maintenance,
6. Direct contributions to individuals,
7. Sickness or burial expenses for members of a fraternal society, and
8. The part of a contribution that personally benefits the taxpayer, if the taxpayer pays the organization more than the fair market value for merchandise or tickets to events such as charity balls or sporting events.

Exercise 3

Martha R. Green contributed the following amounts during the year: $400 to St. Martin's Church, $52 to the United Way, and $50 to a family whose house burned. Complete the Gifts to Charity section of Schedule A (Exhibit 7).

Casualty and Casualty and Theft Losses

A casualty loss results from a sudden, unexpected, or unusual event such as fire, storm, shipwreck, flood, earthquake, or automobile accident. Theft is the unlawful taking of money or property with the intent to deprive the owner of it. Theft does not include the mere disappearance of money or property.

Part of an unreimbursed casualty or theft loss may be deductible. The taxpayer must be able to prove that the casualty or theft occurred to property that he or she owned. The taxpayer must also be able to prove the amount of the loss.

A casualty or theft can result in gains to some property and losses to other property. Each loss must be reduced by $100. The gains and losses from all casualties and thefts are then netted. If a taxpayer has a net loss, it must exceed 10% of his or her adjusted gross income on line 31, Form 1040, to be deductible. If a taxpayer appears to have a loss that exceeds 10% of his or her adjusted gross income, you should refer the taxpayer to IRS Publication 547, Nonbusiness Disasters, Casualties, and Thefts, or suggest professional assistance.

Moving Expenses

Moving expenses can only be claimed as an itemized deduction on line 19, Schedule A. This is a business-related expense outside the scope of VITA or TCE. Refer taxpayers with this expense to Publication 521, Moving Expenses, or to a professional tax preparer.

Miscellaneous Deductions

Certain employee expenses, expenses of producing income, and other qualifying expenses are deducted as miscellaneous deductions on Schedule A.

Most miscellaneous itemized deductions are subject to a 2% limit. The amount deductible is the total of these miscellaneous deductions that is more than 2% of adjusted gross income. The 2% limit is applied after all other deduction limits are considered. A list of some deductible miscellaneous expenses follows. For a more complete list, see Publication 17 or Publication 529, Miscellaneous Deductions.

Deductions Subject to 2% Limit

1. Union dues and fees,
2. Professional society dues,
3. Uniforms not adaptable to general use,
4. Small tools and supplies,
5. Professional books, magazines, journals, etc.,
6. Employment-related educational expenses,
7. Expenses of looking for a new job,
8. Investment counsel fees,
9. Investment expenses,
10. Tax counsel and assistance,
11. Fees paid to IRA custodian, and
12. Safe deposit box rental for investment documents.

Deductions Not Subject to 2% Limit

1. Gambling losses to the extent of gambling winnings, and
2. Handicapped individual's work-related expenses (such as attendant care services at the individual's place of work that are necessary for the person to be able to work)

Nondeductible Miscellaneous Expenses

1. Burial or funeral expenses,
2. Capital expenditures,
3. Fees and licenses, such as car and marriage licenses, and dog tags,
4. Fines and penalties,
5. Home repairs, insurance, rent,
6. Illegal bribes and kickbacks,
7. Insurance (except medical),
8. Losses from the sale of a taxpayer's home, furniture, personal car, etc.,
9. Lost or misplaced cash or property,
10. Personal legal expenses, and
11. Commuting expenses in going to and from work.

Example

Bill E. and Mary A. Owen have an adjusted gross income (line 31, Form 1040) of $15,000. A list of their miscellaneous expenses follows. The Miscellaneous Deductions section of their Schedule A is shown as Exhibit 8. They also attached a separate sheet to their return listing each item and the amount of each item.

Total Itemized Deductions

In the last section of Schedule A, the separate sections are added and the total is entered on line 27. The result is carried over to line 34, Form 1040, and is subtracted from adjusted gross income.

Exercise 5

Kevin A. and Jean C. Edwards' adjusted gross income is $28,000. A list of their itemized deductions is shown. All medical expenses are amounts in excess of insurance reimbursement. They purchased their home in 1987 and the mortgage is held by a commercial mortgage company. They have not refinanced the mortgage nor increased the principal balance since they bought their home. Using this information, complete their Schedule A (Exhibit 10).

Summary

In this lesson you learned which expenses a taxpayer can claim as itemized deductions on Schedule A (Form 1040). There are restrictions and limitations within each category. These expenses are medical and dental expenses, taxes, interest, contributions, casualty and theft losses, moving expenses, and miscellaneous expenses. Most taxpayers will itemize deductions only if the total of these deductions exceed their standard deduction. However, some taxpayers must itemize deductions even if the total is less than their standard deduction.

Introduction

Filling in the Tax Computation section of Form 1040 is handled differently for taxpayers who itemize and taxpayers who do not. If the taxpayer itemizes, fill in the Tax Computation section after you complete Schedule A (Form 1040). For taxpayers who do not itemize, go on to the Tax Computation section directly from the Adjustments to Income section of Form 1040.

Note: A different computation is used to figure the tax on the income of children under the age of 14 who have more than $1,000 of investment income. See Module IV, Lesson 6.

Itemized Deductions

The total itemized deductions from line 27, Schedule A, are entered on line 34, Form 1040. This amount is used to reduce the adjusted gross income that is reported on lines 31 and 32 of the taxpayer's Form 1040.

Standard Deduction

Taxpayers who do not itemize deductions also take the standard deduction on line 34, Form 1040. This amount is used to reduce the adjusted gross income that is reported on lines 31 and 32 of the taxpayer's Form 1040.

Generally, if a taxpayer's itemized deductions are less than his or her standard deduction, use the taxpayer's standard deduction to compute his or her tax. However, as explained in Module III, Lesson 5, certain taxpayers cannot claim the standard deduction. They must itemize deductions or enter "0" on line 34.

The items that must be completed to figure the standard deduction on Form 1040 are the same as the items on Form 1040A. The same rules apply. See Module II, Lesson 9, for a complete discussion of the standard deduction.

Line 33a—Check boxes for indicating whether the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse is 65 or older or blind and the space for entering the total boxes checked.

Line 33b—Check box if taxpayer can be claimed as a dependent on another person's return.

Line 33c—Check box if taxpayer is married filing a separate return and the taxpayer's spouse itemizes deductions or if taxpayer is a dual-status alien.

Example

Ellen G. White is 28 years old and has a son, Allen, who lived with her the entire year. She files as head of household for 1990. She must file Form 1040 because she received a $45 capital gain distribution. Her itemized deductions are $2,375. Therefore, she enters her standard deduction of $4,750 on line 34, Form 1040. (See Exhibit 2.)

Exercise 1

For each of the taxpayers described next, figure the standard deduction you would enter on line 34, Form 1040.

a. Bill E. White is single and 37 years old. His children, Bill E. Jr. and Brenda C., live with him. He files as head of household.

b. Jennie J. Jones, 45, is married and files a separate return. Neither Jennie nor her husband Don itemizes deductions.

c. Richard H. Dawn, 27, and Helen R. Dawn, 30, are married and file a joint return.

Standard deduction for person 65 or older or blind. In Module II, Lesson 9, you learned that taxpayers who are 65 or older or blind, use a higher standard deduction. If line 33a, Form 1040, is completed, use the chart shown here (Exhibit 3) from the Form 1040 instructions to find the amount to enter on line 34.

DO NOT use this chart if you were 65 or older or blind OR if someone can claim you as a dependent.

If your filing status is:	Your standard deduction is:
Single	$3,250
Married filing joint return or Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child	$5,450
Married filing separate return	$2,725
Head of household	$4,750

Example

Lee I. and Sharon T. Ash are married and file a joint return for 1990. Lee is 68 and blind. Sharon is 66. Using the chart (Exhibit 3) you determine that their standard deduction for 1990 is $7,400. (See Exhibit 4.)

a. Lily C. Brown, 68 years old, is married filing a separate return. Neither Lily nor her husband itemizes deductions.

b. Tom D. Evans is 65 years old, blind, and married to Sandy O. who is 61. The Evanses are filing a joint return.

c. Bill R. Day is 69 years old. His sister, who is 67 years old, lives with him and receives all her support from him. Bill is filing as head of household.

Standard deduction for persons who can be claimed as dependents. The special rules for figuring the standard deduction for persons who can be claimed as dependents on another taxpayer's return are explained in Module II, Lesson 9.

If the taxpayer you are helping can be claimed as a dependent on another taxpayer's return, be sure to check the box on line 33b.

Example

Millie G. Lewis, 17, is a full-time student who can be claimed as a dependent on her parents' 1990 tax return. Millie worked during the summer and earned $2,196. She also received $345 from a raffle in which she participated. Millie's standard deduction is $2,196 and is computed as follows:

1) Earned income	$2,196
2) Minimum standard deduction	500
3) Larger of lines 1 and 2	2,196
4) Standard deduction based on filing status shown on return	3,250
5) Standard deduction—smaller of lines 3 and 4	$2,196

Exercise 3

Bob U. Green, 24, is single and can be claimed as a dependent on his parents' return. Bob's total income is $1,000. Of this amount, $400 is wages and $600 is unearned income. Bob has no itemized deductions. Figure Bob's standard deduction using the worksheet (Exhibit 6).

Exhibit 6

1) Earned income
2) Minimum standard deduction
3) Larger of lines 1 and 2
4) Standard deduction based on filing status shown on return
5) Standard deduction—smaller of lines 3 and 4

Taxable Income

Subtract the amount on line 34 from line 32. Enter the result on line 35.

Next multiply $2,050 times the number of exemptions claimed on line 6e and enter the result on line 36. When line 36 is subtracted from line 35, the result is taxable income, which goes on line 37.

Example

John T. Samuels is single, 29, and claims only his own exemption. His adjusted gross income from line 32, Form 1040, is $16,000.

John itemized deductions and had $3,734 on line 27, Schedule A. His taxable income is figured as follows:

Adjusted gross income		$ 16,000
Less: Itemized deductions from line 27, Schedule A	$3,734
$2,050 × 1 (John's personal exemption)	2,050	5,784
Taxable income		$ 10,216

Exercise 4

a. Joe E. and Millie A. Brown are married and file a joint return. They are both under 65. They claim their three children and have itemized deductions of $2,700 (from line 27, Schedule A). Figure their taxable income if their adjusted gross income is:

(1) $16,850

Answer

(2) $15,720

Answer

b. Al, 46, is married, files a separate return, has adjusted gross income of $14,378, and claims only his own exemption. Neither Al nor his wife itemizes deductions. Al's standard deduction is $2,725. What is his taxable income?

Answer

c. Nancy, 24, is single. She claims only her own exemption. Her adjusted gross income is $11,920. Nancy's standard deduction is $3,250. What is her taxable income?

Tax Table

Most people with less than $50,000 in taxable income use the Tax Table to find their tax. The part of the Tax Table shown here (Exhibit 7) is reprinted from the instructions for Form 1040.

To find the correct tax, read down the income column to the taxable income amount shown on line 37 of Form 1040. Then read across the line to the column heading that describes the filing status used on page 1 of the Form 1040. The amount shown at the point the two lines meet is the tax. Enter this amount on line 38 of Form 1040, and check the box marked Tax Table. Pay special attention to the headings for the income lines ("at least, but less than") to make sure you use the right income line.

Example

George B. and Ellen A. Raymonds file a joint return. Their taxable income on line 37 of Form 1040 is $7,850. Because their taxable income is exactly $7,850, they use the $7,850–$7,900 line, not the $7,800–$7,850 line. Next, they find the column for married filing jointly and read down the column. Their tax would be $1,181.

Exercise 5

a. Ann is a single taxpayer. What is her tax if her taxable income is $5,487?

Answer

b. Earl files as head of household, has an adjusted gross income of $15,330, and claims three exemptions. His itemized deductions (line 27 of Schedule A) total $2,275. The standard deduction for head of household is $4,750.

(1) What is his taxable income?

Answer

(2) What is his tax?

Introduction

A credit lowers tax, dollar for dollar. A credit differs from a deduction, which lowers income before it is taxed. Taxpayers may take credits even if they do not itemize deductions. This lesson explains the credits that taxpayers who come to volunteer sites claim most often. You will now learn to figure the credit for child and dependent care on line 41 of Form 1040 (Exhibit 1). The Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled on line 42 is discussed in Module IV, Lesson 5. The credits that can be taken on lines 43, 44, and 45 are beyond the scope of the volunteer program.

Credit for Child and Dependent Care Expenses

One of the most commonly used credits is for child and dependent care expenses. Taxpayers may claim it if, in order to work or look for work, they must pay for the care of their children, a spouse with a disability, or other dependents with disabilities. This credit is explained in Module II, Lesson 11. The requirements for claiming the credit are the same for both Form 1040A and Form 1040. For Form 1040, the credit is figured on Form 2441, Child and Dependent Care Expenses. Form 2441 must be attached to Form 1040.

Preparing Form 2441

Specific instructions for preparing Form 2441 are on the form. However, you should be aware of the particular items following:

Part I - Lines 1 and 2: Write the name, address, social security number (SSN) or employer identification number (EIN), and the amount paid to the persons or organizations who provided the care for the qualifying persons during 1990. On line 2 add the amounts in column (d) of line 1 and enter the total.

If the person you are helping received any benefits during the year under an employer-provided Dependent Care Assistance Program, fill in Part III before making any entries on Part II. Otherwise go on to Part II, below.

Part II - Lines 3 through 16 The child care credit is figured in this section of Form 2441. Be especially careful in filling out lines 9, 10, 11, and 12. The credit is figured on line 16 of Form 2441. See the instructions for the amount of credit the taxpayer can claim on line 41, Form 1040.

Part III - Lines 17 through 26: Complete this part only if the taxpayer received any benefits in 1990 under an employer-provided Dependent Care Assistance Program. Complete Part III after completing Part I.

Note: Taxpayers must withhold and pay matching social security taxes on wages they paid to employees working in their homes. If the employee provided the care in the taxpayer's home and was paid at least $50 for the care in any one calendar quarter, you need to find out if the taxpayer withheld social security tax from the wages and filed Form 942, Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees, for each quarter. If not, you should advise the taxpayer to get Form 942 and Publication 926, Employment Taxes for Household Employers, or to consult a professional preparer.

Example

Mrs. Alma K. Hyde, SSN 123-00-1234, leaves her child at the A.M. Day Care Center while she works. The center is located at 221 Elm Ave., Anycity, OH. Its EIN is 10-4487980. She paid $1,800 in child care expenses. She did not receive any benefits during the year under an employer-provided Dependent Care Assistance Program. Her earned income was $10,500. This amount is also her total income, Form 1040, line 23. See Exhibit 2.

Exercise

Sam L. and Sue D. Ross need help with their child care credit. Because the Rosses had heavy medical expenses, they itemize on Schedule A, Form 1040. Their total income, Form 1040, line 23, and their adjusted gross income is $27,000. Sam earned $17,000 and Sue earned $10,000. Sam's social security number is 987-00-6543 and Sue's number is 123-00-6689. Their children, Mike N. and Mary C., lived with them all year. Mike was born on September 20, 1979, and Mary was born on June 10, 1981. All year, both children attended Duval Day Care Center after school. The center is located at 496 White Road, Duval City, FL 33130. Its EIN is 10-4487965. In 1990, the Rosses' child care expenses totaled $3,190, of which they paid $2,000 and Sue's employer paid $1,190. They do not claim any other credits. Prepare the Rosses' worksheet and Form 2441 (Exhibits 4, 5, and 6).

Note: If you are also claiming the child and dependent care credit, fill in Form 1040 through line 40. Then complete Part II of this form. Be sure to include any amount shown on line 26 above when figuring your earned income in Part II.*

Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled

Both elderly persons and persons who are permanently and totally disabled can claim a special credit on Form 1040. They can also use Form 1040A to claim this credit. To be eligible for the credit, taxpayers must either be 65 or older by the end of the tax year or be retired on permanent and total disability by the end of the year. All eligible taxpayers figure the credit on Schedule R. This credit is covered in Module IV, Lesson 5.

Mortgage Interest Credit

There is a credit available to taxpayers who are issued qualified mortgage credit certificates under a qualified state or local program. The certificate must be for the taxpayer's principal residence. The credit may not be claimed if the interest is paid to certain related persons.

The credit is figured on Form 8396, Mortgage Interest Credit. The credit is included in the total on line 46 of Form 1040 with "MIC" written on the dotted line next to the amount.

Taxpayers who claim this credit must reduce the amount of mortgage interest that they claim on Schedule A, Form 1040, by the amount of the credit.

See Form 8396 and its instructions and Publication 530, Tax Information for Homeowners, for more information on this credit.

Credit Limitation

The credits described here are nonrefundable credits. That is, the total of these credits cannot exceed the tax liability on line 40, Form 1040.

Example

Jim R. and Gail M. Wood have a tax liability of $300 and child care credit of $600. They would list their child care credit as shown in Exhibit 7.

	47	Subtract line 46 from line 40. (If line 46 is more than line 40, enter -0-.) . . . . . ▶				47	-0-

Since the credit at least equals the total tax, zero would be shown on line 47, Form 1040. The remainder of the credit can never be used.

Summary

Taxpayers can claim several credits in the Credits section of Form 1040. As a VITA volunteer, you will help taxpayers determine when they qualify, and how much they may claim, for the:

1. Credit for child and dependent care expenses.
2. Credit for the elderly or the disabled.

You will also be able to recommend publications that taxpayers should order if they have questions about other credits.

Answer to Exercise

The credit is $420. See filled-in Exhibits 4, 5, and 6.

Worksheet (Keep for your records)

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 23 27,000
(Add to line 1 any tax-exempt interest from private activity bonds issued after August 7, 1986, and any net operating loss deduction.)

2. Enter $40,000 ($30,000 if single or head of household; $ 20,000 if married filing separately) 40,000

3. Subtract line 2 from line 1. If the result is zero or less, STOP HERE and enter on Form 1040, line 41, the amount of your credit shown on line 14 of Form 2441. Otherwise, go to line 4 . . . -0-

4. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 40 . . . . ______

5. Multiply line 3 by .21. . . . . . . ______

6. Subtract line 5 from line 4 (if zero or less, enter zero) . . . . ______

Compare line 6 of the worksheet above with the amount of credit shown on Form 2441, line 16.

- If line 6 above is more than your credit, you do not have to complete Form 6251. Enter on Form 1040, line 41, the amount of your credit shown on Form 2441, line 16.
- If your credit is more than the amount on line 6 above, get Form 6251 and complete it through line 15. Then figure the limit on your credit as follows:

A. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 40 . . . . ______

B. Enter the amount from Form 6251, line 15 . . . . ______

C. Maximum credit. Subtract line B from line A (if zero or less, enter zero) ______

Compare the credit you first figured on line 16 of Form 2441 with line C above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts on line 16 of Form 2441, and on Form 1040, line 41. If line C above is the smaller amount, also write "AMT" in the left margin next to line 41.

Module III

Lesson 8

Advance Earned Income Credit

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Identify the advance earned income credit payment shown on Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement.
2. Report advance earned income credit payment on Form 1040.

Introduction

Determining If Credit Was Paid

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

At this point the only other item you will need to identify and enter on Form 1040 is the advance earned income credit payment. If you discover that a taxpayer has other taxes, such as self-employment tax, alternative minimum tax, tax from recapture of investment credit, social security or railroad retirement (RRTA) tax on reported and unreported tip income, or tax on an IRA (early distributions, excess payments, or excess accumulations), refer that taxpayer to a professional tax preparer.

Determining if Credit Was Paid

You may help people who received advance earned income credit payments. These individuals have filed Form W-5, Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate, with an employer. These employees would have received some earned income credit payment during the year in their paychecks. They must file Form 1040A or Form 1040, even if they are not otherwise required to file an income tax return.

Look at each Form W-2 to see if the advance earned income credit was paid to the individual. It is shown in box 8. On line 53 show the amount from box 8.

You will also have to determine whether the person qualifies for the earned income credit (discussed in Lesson 9, next). Enter the correct credit on Form 1040, line 57.

Example

Barry D. Richmond's Form W-2 shows $250 advance earned income credit. You would show $250 on line 53, Form 1040 (see Exhibits 1 and 2). Barry has a dependent child living with him. He files as head of household.

Summary

Advance earned income credit payments are reported in box 8, Form W-2. If the person you help received an advance earned income credit payment and files Form 1040, show this amount on line 53. You will need to determine if the taxpayer is eligible for the earned income credit and how much it is. Enter the taxpayer's correct credit on Form 1040, line 57. If other taxes are involved in addition to an advance earned income credit payment, refer the person you are helping to a professional preparer.

Earned Income Credit

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction *

The federal government has a pay-as-you-go tax system. Under this system, most federal income tax is paid in either of two ways. It is withheld directly from wage earners' paychecks or, for income not subject to withholding, estimated tax payments are used to pay the tax. Both types of payments are reported in the Payments section of Form 1040. Estimated tax payments for 1990 and the amount applied from the 1989 return can also be reported on Form 1040A.

A refundable credit called the earned income credit is also reported in the Payments section. You should be extremely careful when figuring the earned income credit and check your figures, because mistakes are often made in figuring this credit.

As a volunteer, you are responsible for entering amounts only on lines 55, 56, 57, and 59 of the Payments section of Form 1040. If you meet taxpayers who have any other payments, refer them to a professional preparer. These are payments involving extensions (Forms 4868 and 2688), credit for tax on gasoline and special fuels, and regulated investment company credit.

Federal Income Tax Withholding

Federal income tax withheld from wages is shown in box 9 of Form W-2. This amount will be entered on line 55 of Form 1040. If a taxpayer has two or more Forms W-2, add the withheld tax from all the Forms W-2 and enter the total on line 55.

If a taxpayer had two or more employers during the year and had income of more than $51,300, he or she may have had too much social security or railroad retirement tax withheld. This excess withholding can be entered as a payment on line 59 of Form 1040. A worksheet is in the instructions for Form 1040 for use in figuring the excess amount.

Benefits paid from pension plans, annuities, and IRAs are automatically subject to withholding unless the taxpayer chooses otherwise. A taxpayer should fill out a withholding certificate and give it to the payer of the pension, annuity, or IRA distribution. For a more complete discussion, you should refer the taxpayer to Publication 575, Pension and Annuity Income (Including Simplified General Rule), or Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

If the taxpayer received benefits during the year from a pension plan, annuity, IRA, etc., the payer should have sent the taxpayer a Form W-2P, Statement for Recipients of Annuities, Pensions, Retired Pay, or IRA Payments. The withheld federal income tax is shown in box 11. If the taxpayer received more than one kind of benefit, you should add the amounts from all Forms W-2P and enter the total on line 55, Form 1040.

Example

Mrs. Jane C. Foxx, 67, received $4,000 in pension benefits during 1990. Her Form W-2P (Exhibit 4) shows that $240 in tax was withheld from the total she received. She enters this amount on line 55, Form 1040. If Mrs. Foxx had more than one Form W-2P, she would add the withheld tax from all of them and enter the total on line 55, Form 1040.

There may also be income tax withheld from dividends, interest income, and other income reported on Form 1099. Volunteers will be working only with dividends (Form 1099-DIV) and interest income (Form 1099-INT). The income tax withheld will be shown in box 4 of Form 1099-INT and in box 2 of Form 1099-DIV and should be included in the total on line 55, Form 1040. Check the box on line 55.

Estimated Tax Payments

Estimated income tax is paid on income that is not subject to withholding, or on income from which not enough tax is withheld. Estimated tax is the total of the taxpayer's expected tax for the year minus his or her expected withholding and credits.

Taxpayers did not have to pay estimated tax during 1990 if their net liability was less than $500 or if their total payments and credits were at least 90% of their current year's tax liability or 100% of the prior year's tax (whichever is less). They also did not have to pay estimated tax if in 1990 they were not U.S. citizens or residents and they had no tax liability for the full preceding tax year. See Module IV, Lesson 7, for the requirements for filing estimated tax.

Taxpayers will be able to tell you if they made estimated tax payments during the year. They generally have a checkbook register or cancelled checks to show the amount paid. Estimated tax may be paid in four installments; it does not have to be paid all at once. Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals, is used to pay the full amount or installments due.

Although the last payment was probably made in 1991, credit for the payment is taken on the 1990 return because this amount applies to the 1990 tax year. This circumstance confuses many taxpayers. The last payment for 1990 estimated tax could be mistaken for a payment of 1991 estimated tax later when the taxpayer receives the cancelled check. Also, if a taxpayer paid the first installment of 1990 estimated tax on or about April 16 and filed a 1989 tax return with a balance due the IRS at the same time, he or she may erroneously credit the 1989 balance due payment as a 1990 estimated tax payment. Always be sure to check the taxpayer's return for last year so that you do not make this error.

You should also check the taxpayer's prior year return to see if there was an overpayment of tax that was designated to be applied to 1990 estimated tax rather than to be refunded. If so, you should add this amount to the estimated tax payments that were made earlier. Then enter the total on line 56, Form 1040.

Note: You should determine if the taxpayer received a notice from the Service Center indicating that a change was made in the amount of the overpayment from his or her 1989 income tax return that was to be applied to the taxpayer's 1990 estimated tax payments. If the amount was changed, be sure to include the corrected amount in the total on line 56 and not the amount shown on the taxpayer's 1989 return.

Example

If the taxpayer paid $400 in estimated tax, enter the $400 on line 56 of Form 1040, as shown in Exhibit 5.

Earned Income Credit

Some taxpayers may be able to claim a refundable credit of up to $953, even though they may not have to file a tax return and had no federal income tax withheld. In order to claim this credit, however, they must file a federal income tax return. The qualifications for the earned income credit are the same for both Form 1040 and Form 1040A. These qualifications are explained in Module II, Lesson 11. The Form 1040 instructions has the Earned Income Credit Worksheet (Exhibit 6) that will help you decide whether the taxpayer can take the credit and, if so, how much it is.

To qualify, the taxpayer must generally:

1. Have earned income and adjusted gross income each less than $20,264,
2. Have some earned income (wages, salaries, tips, etc.),
3. File as head of household, married filing jointly, or qualifying widow(er), and
4. Have a child living with him or her over half the year in the United States (all year for a qualifying widow(er)).

The child of a qualifying widow(er) must be claimed as a dependent on line 6c of Form 1040 or on line 6c of Form 1040A.

The special rules that apply to individuals who are filing as head of household or married filing jointly are listed in Module II, Lesson 11, and in the instructions to Form 1040.

Note: If the taxpayer must file Form 2555, Foreign Earned Income, he or she cannot take the earned income credit. The earned income credit must be reduced by the amount of any alternative minimum tax reported on line 49 of Form 1040. If you see any taxpayers who must file Form 2555 or who are liable for the alternative minimum tax, refer them to a professional tax preparer.

Example

Rebecca needs your help in filling out her income tax return. During the interview she tells you the following about herself:

—Single

—Her 7-year-old son, Mario, lived with her all year

—The dependency tests have been met for Mario

—Wages, $8,100

—Interest, $400

—Prize photography contest, $600

—No adjustments to income

—Itemized deductions, no more than $4,550

—Child care expenses, $1,200 paid

—No other credits

—No other taxes.

Note the following facts:

Rebecca's adjusted gross income on Form 1040, line 31, is less than $20,264.

Rebecca has $8,100 earned income.

Rebecca has $9,100 adjusted gross income.

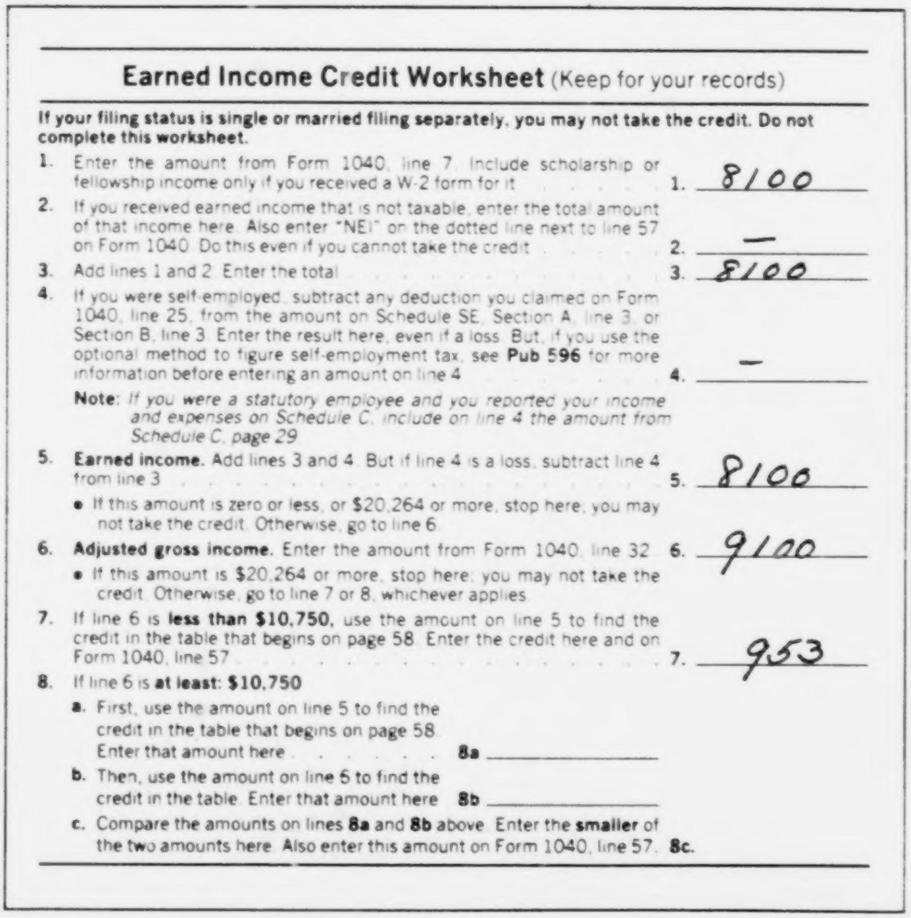
Rebecca's child, Mario, lived with her for over half the year.

Rebecca entered Mario's name and social security number on line 6c, Form 1040.

If Rebecca could not claim Mario as a dependent but had provided over half the cost of maintaining their household, she would still qualify for the credit as a head of household because Mario was unmarried. His name would be entered on Form 1040, line 4.

Rebecca's Earned Income Credit Worksheet showing her earned income credit is shown in Exhibit 6.

Exhibit 6



Earned Income Credit Worksheet (Keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you may not take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it 1. 8100
2. If you received earned income that is not taxable, enter the total amount of that income here. Also enter "NEI" on the dotted line next to line 57 on Form 1040. Do this even if you cannot take the credit . . . . . . 2. —
3. Add lines 1 and 2. Enter the total 3. 8100
4. If you were self-employed, subtract any deduction you claimed on Form 1040, line 25, from the amount on Schedule SE, Section A, line 3, or Section B, line 3. Enter the result here, even if a loss. But, if you use the optional method to figure self-employment tax, see Pub 596 for more information before entering an amount on line 4 . . . . . . 4. —

   Note: If you were a statutory employee and you reported your income and expenses on Schedule C, include on line 4 the amount from Schedule C, page 29

5. Earned income. Add lines 3 and 4. But if line 4 is a loss, subtract line 4 from line 3 . . . . . . 5. 8100
   - If this amount is zero or less, or $20,264 or more, stop here; you may not take the credit. Otherwise, go to line 6.
6. Adjusted gross income. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 32 6. 9100
   - If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here; you may not take the credit. Otherwise, go to line 7 or 8, whichever applies.
7. If line 6 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 5 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 58. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040, line 57 . . . . . . 7. 953
8. If line 6 is at least: $10,750
   - a. First, use the amount on line 5 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 58. Enter that amount here . . . . . . 8a ________
   - b. Then, use the amount on line 6 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here 8b ________
   - c. Compare the amounts on lines 8a and 8b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040, line 57. 8c.

Exercise 2

a. Melissa needs your help in preparing her Form 1040. During the interview she gives you the following information:

—Single, has own apartment

—The five dependency tests have been met for her mother

—Mother lives with her

—Wages, $8,500

—Won a grocery store sweepstakes prize, $100

—No other income

—No adjustments to income

—Does not have enough deductions to itemize

—No credits

—No other taxes

(1) Is the amount on Form 1040, line 31, less than $20,264? ____
(2) Does the amount on Form 1040, line 31, include wages or other earned income? ____
(3) Does Melissa claim a child as a dependent? ____
(4) What is Melissa's filing status? ____
(5) Can Melissa take the earned income credit? ____

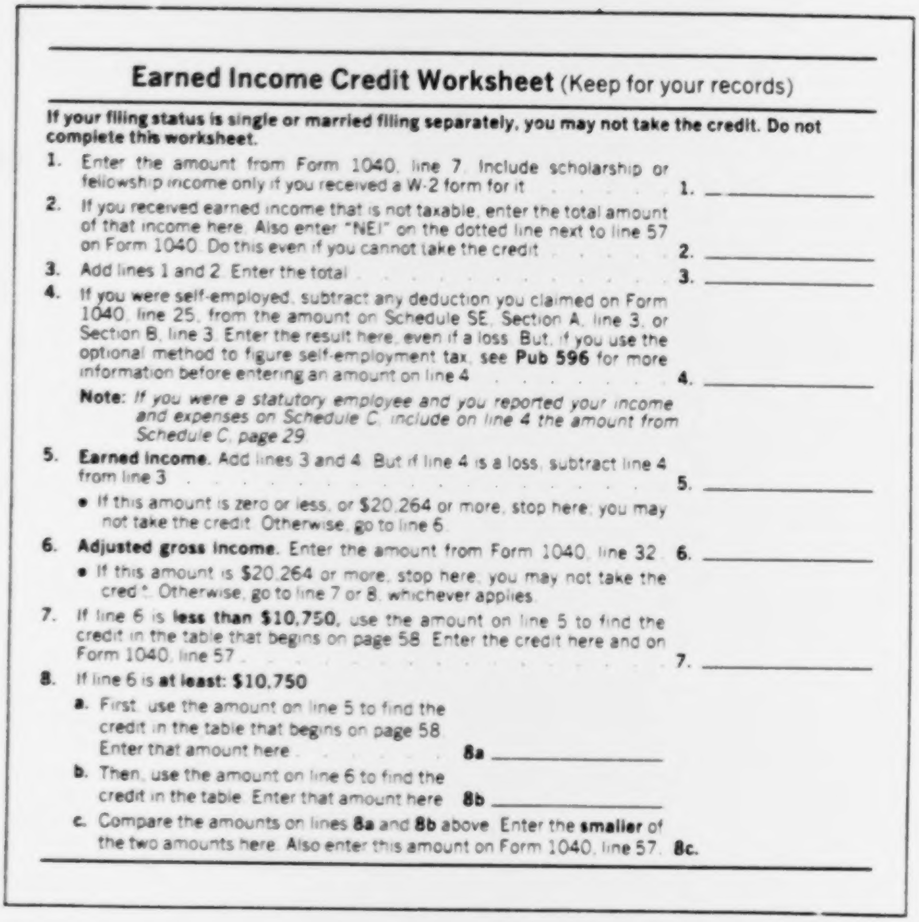
b. Sam is divorced and paid over half of the total support for his son, Philip. Philip lived with his mother all year.
(1) What is Sam's filing status? ____
(2) Can Sam claim the earned income credit? ____

c. John is filing as head of household, is claiming his 6-year-old son, Percy, who lived with him all year, and has earned income and adjusted gross income under $20,264. Does he qualify for the earned income credit? ____

d. Assume the same facts as in (c) above, except that John is excluding income he earned in a foreign country. Can John claim the earned income credit? ____

How To Figure the Earned Income Credit

The earned income credit is figured on the worksheet found in either the Form 1040 instructions or the Form 1040A instructions, along with the Earned Income Credit Table, which is also found in the forms instructions. The table shown as Exhibit 7 is for Form 1040.



Earned Income Credit Worksheet (Keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you may not take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it . . . . . . 1. ____________
2. If you received earned income that is not taxable, enter the total amount of that income here. Also enter "NEI" on the dotted line next to line 57 on Form 1040. Do this even if you cannot take the credit . . . . . . 2. ____________
3. Add lines 1 and 2. Enter the total . . . . 3. ____________
4. If you were self-employed, subtract any deduction you claimed on Form 1040, line 25, from the amount on Schedule SE, Section A, line 3, or Section B, line 3. Enter the result here, even if a loss. But, if you use the optional method to figure self-employment tax, see Pub 596 for more information before entering an amount on line 4 . . . . 4. ____________

   Note: If you were a statutory employee and you reported your income and expenses on Schedule C, include on line 4 the amount from Schedule C, page 29.

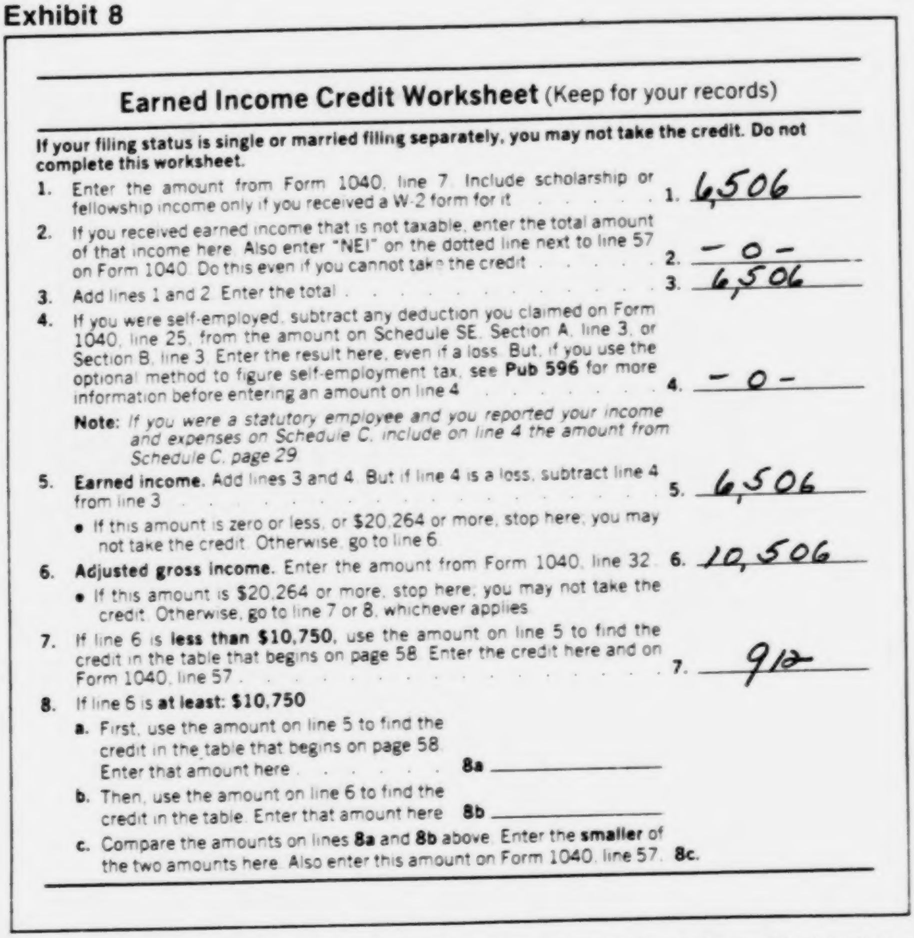
Example

Sylvia qualifies for the earned income credit. Her wages for 1990 were $6,506 and she received $4,000 in alimony payments. The worksheet (Exhibit 8) shows how Sylvia's earned income credit was figured. Note that the two figures entered on lines 6a and 6b are from the EIC table (Exhibit 7).

Exhibit 8



Earned Income Credit Worksheet (Keep for your records)

If your filing status is single or married filing separately, you may not take the credit. Do not complete this worksheet.

1. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 7. Include scholarship or fellowship income only if you received a W-2 form for it 1. 6,506

2. If you received earned income that is not taxable, enter the total amount of that income here. Also enter "NEI" on the dotted line next to line 57 on Form 1040. Do this even if you cannot take the credit . . . . . . 2. – 0 –

3. Add lines 1 and 2. Enter the total 3. 6,506

4. If you were self-employed, subtract any deduction you claimed on Form 1040, line 25, from the amount on Schedule SE, Section A, line 3, or Section B, line 3. Enter the result here, even if a loss. But, if you use the optional method to figure self-employment tax, see Pub 596 for more information before entering an amount on line 4 . . . . 4. – 0 –

Note: If you were a statutory employee and you reported your income and expenses on Schedule C, include on line 4 the amount from Schedule C, page 29

5. Earned income. Add lines 3 and 4. But if line 4 is a loss, subtract line 4 from line 3 . . . . 5. 6,506

- If this amount is zero or less, or $20,264 or more, stop here; you may not take the credit. Otherwise, go to line 6.

6. Adjusted gross income. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 32. 6. 10,506

- If this amount is $20,264 or more, stop here; you may not take the credit. Otherwise, go to line 7 or 8, whichever applies.

7. If line 6 is less than $10,750, use the amount on line 5 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 58. Enter the credit here and on Form 1040, line 57 . . . . 7. 912

8. If line 6 is at least: $10,750

  a. First, use the amount on line 5 to find the credit in the table that begins on page 58. Enter that amount here . . . . 8a ________

  b. Then, use the amount on line 6 to find the credit in the table. Enter that amount here 8b ________

  c. Compare the amounts on lines 8a and 8b above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Also enter this amount on Form 1040, line 57. 8c. ________

PROOF COPY

The amount on line 6c of the worksheet (Exhibit 8) is also entered on line 57 of Form 1040 (Exhibit 9).

Lesson 10

Refund or Amount Owed

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Complete the Refund or Amount You Owe section of Form 1040.
2. Identify when a taxpayer may have to pay the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax.

Introduction

To see if tax was overpaid or underpaid, you will need to compare the total tax on the return (line 54) with the total payments made (line 62).

Refund

If total payments (line 62) exceed the total tax on the return (line 54), the taxpayer has overpaid tax. The overpayment may be refunded, or the taxpayer can choose to have all or part of it applied to next year's tax.

If the taxpayer wants a full refund of the overpayment, include it on line 64 of Form 1040, and make no entry on line 65. If the taxpayer chooses to apply the full amount to the tax for 1991, make an entry on line 65 with no entry on line 64. If the taxpayer wants to receive a partial refund and apply the rest of the overpayment to the tax for 1991, enter the appropriate amounts on both lines 64 and 65.

Example

Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Henry have a total tax of $706 and payments of $1,406 in 1990. Their overpayment is $700. They want to have $400 refunded to them and $300 applied to their 1991 taxes. Their completed Refund or Amount You Owe section is shown in Exhibit 1.

	67	Estimated tax penalty (see page 25)	67

Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true, correct, and [illegible] is based on all information of which preparer has any knowledge.

Amount Owed

If total tax (line 54 of Form 1040) is more than total payments (line 62), the difference is the amount the taxpayer owes. Advise the taxpayer to send with the return a check or money order for the amount owed. A complete list of where to file is in the instructions for Form 1040 and also in Publication 17. On the payment the taxpayer should include his or her social security number, daytime phone number, the year of the return, and the return number (Form 1040EZ, 1040A, or 1040). Also remind the taxpayer to file and pay on time, so interest and penalties will not be charged for filing or paying late. Advise taxpayers that even if they cannot send in their full tax payment, they can avoid penalties for late filing by sending in the return on time.

Gift to Reduce the Public Debt

You may receive inquiries about how people can make voluntary contributions to reduce the public debt. If a taxpayer wants to contribute, he or she should make a separate check or money order payable to "Bureau of the Public Debt" and may enclose it in the tax return envelope. Subject to the limits on charitable contributions, the taxpayer can deduct this contribution as an itemized deduction on the 1991 tax return. Remind the taxpayer not to combine the contribution with any tax owed. The taxpayer should include a separate check payable to "Internal Revenue Service," for the tax.

Underpayment of Estimated Tax

Estimated taxes, the penalties for underpayment of estimated taxes, and the exceptions and waivers to the penalties are discussed in Module IV, Lesson 7. However, for the purpose of this lesson, you should be able to identify when a taxpayer is liable for the penalty. The following discussion assumes that the taxpayer has no net earnings from self-employment. You should refer all self-employed taxpayers to a professional preparer.

In the last lesson, which explained the Payments section of Form 1040, you learned who must pay estimated tax. Generally, if the total payments are less than 90% of the total tax for the current year's return (line 54) or less than 100% of last year's tax, the taxpayer will be charged a penalty for underpaying estimated tax. No penalty will be charged, however, and no estimated tax payments will be required, if the amount of tax not paid through withholding is less than $500.

Example

Clare W. Hanson's total tax for 1990 is $2,365. She had total withholding of $2,160 for the year. Clare will not be charged the penalty because her total withholding was at least 90% of her total tax ($2,365 × 90% = $2,129). If her underpayment were $500 or more and she had not paid at least 90% of the total tax, Clare might be liable for the penalty.

Exceptions to the Penalty—Form 2210

Both the penalty for underpaying estimated tax and an exception to the penalty are figured on Form 2210, Underpayment of Estimated Tax by Individuals. You should tell the taxpayer that exceptions exist. There are also waivers to the penalty. Form 2210 is discussed in Module IV, Lesson 7.

Exercise

In the following situations, determine if the underpayment penalty may apply to the taxpayer. If so, explain why. Assume that none of the taxpayers is eligible for the waivers for retirement, disability, or hardship and that all payments were timely made.

a. Total tax on 1990 return: $2,122.

Total payments on 1990 return: $1,935.

Total tax shown on 1989 return: $1,810.

Answer

b. Total tax on 1990 return: $800.

Total payments on 1990 return: $450.

Total tax shown on 1989 return: $425.

Answer

c. Total tax on 1990 return: $1,946.

Total payments on 1990 return: $1,050.

Total tax shown on 1989 return: $1,874.

Answer

Summary

Compare the total tax on the return with the total payments made during the year to see if the taxpayer has either overpaid or underpaid tax. If there is an overpayment, be sure to show whether it is to be refunded, applied to next year's tax, or partly refunded and partly applied to next year's tax. If the taxpayer has to pay more tax, you should see whether he or she may have to file Form 2210.

Answers to Exercise

a. No. The payments are at least 90% of the total tax ($2,122 × 90% = $1,910), at least 100% of the total shown on the 1989 return ($1,810), and the underpayment is less than $500.
b. No. The underpayment is less than $500.
c. Yes. The underpayment is more than $500, the payments are less than 90% of the total tax on the 1990 return ($1,946 × 90% = $1,751), and less than 100% of the total tax shown on the 1989 return ($1,874).

Finishing the Return

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Complete the taxpayer identification section of Form 1040.
2. Explain the signature section to a taxpayer.
3. Use the proper VITA or TCE designation.
4. Review the return for completeness and accuracy.
5. Assemble the return.

Summary

Introduction

Now that you have completed the line items, you are ready to finish the Form 1040.

Taxpayer Identification Section

The taxpayer identification section is at the top of the return. It includes the taxpayer's and the taxpayer's spouse's (if married, filing a joint return) name, address, and social security number. Be sure to fill in the social security numbers correctly so the return can be processed without delay.

Using the Preaddressed Label

Taxpayers who filed returns last year probably received this year's forms packages by mail. The packages include preaddressed labels. Use these labels because they help save processing time. Peel the label off the bottom front cover of the taxpayer's forms package and place it in the address area of the return. Mark through any errors on the label and print the correct information right on the label.

If the taxpayer did not receive a forms package or does not have the label, print the required information in the taxpayer identification section.

If the post office delivers mail to the taxpayer's P.O. box, rather than to a street address, enter the P.O. box number on the line for the present home address.

* The taxpayer may use Form 8822, Change of Address, to notify the IRS of any change to his or her mailing address.

Joint Returns

On a joint return enter on the first line the taxpayer's first name, middle initial, and then the last name. On the second line enter the taxpayer's spouse's first name, middle initial, and then the last name. Enter the names as shown in Exhibit 1.

The order of listing husband and wife is not important, but it is important to follow the same order for social security numbers, signatures, and names on attached schedules. It is a good idea to use the same order of names each year.

Schedules

All Form 1040-related schedules and attachments have to be identified in case they get separated from Form 1040. Be sure each has the taxpayer's name (or names) and the social security number. On a joint return list the names in the same order used on Form 1040, and put the first social security number on each schedule. See the instructions later for assembling the return.

Presidential Election Campaign Fund

The Presidential Election Campaign Fund question follows the taxpayer identification section on Form 1040. By checking "Yes," a taxpayer gives permission for $1 to go to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund. On a joint return, each taxpayer chooses whether $1 should go to the fund. Checking "Yes" will not change the tax or refund shown on the return.

Signature

The taxpayer must sign and date the return, or it cannot be processed. Both spouses must sign a joint return, even if only one had income.

Occupation

Filling in occupations is part of completing a return. Let taxpayers tell you their occupations and record them in the same words.

VITA or VITA-T TCE or TCE-X

On each return you prepare in the VITA program, write "VITA" in the paid preparer's section. If the taxpayer prepares the return with your help, write "VITA-T." Do not sign your name. Many VITA sites have a supply of returns with the VITA designation preprinted.

If you are a TCE volunteer, you should write "TCE" in the paid preparer's section, and if the taxpayer at a TCE site prepares the return with your help, write "TCE-X." Many TCE sites also supply returns with the volunteer designation preprinted.

Detailed instructions for identifying returns with VITA and TCE designations are in the Administrative Procedures lesson in Module I.

Reviewing the Return

You will want to review the return for accuracy and completeness. Make sure you transferred the right amounts from the taxpayer's Forms W-2, 1099, etc. Use a calculator to verify your math computations and refer to the following Quality Review Checklist. When you finish, have another volunteer or quality reviewer at the site look over the return.

Quality Review Checklist

1. Are the name, address, and social security number blocks completed accurately?
2. Is the Presidential Election Campaign Fund question answered?
3. Is the filing status correct?
4. Are the exemptions checked, listed, and added correctly?
5. Are social security numbers entered for dependents age 2 or older?
6. Are the income items entered correctly?
7. Has the correct tax been selected from the Tax Table?
8. Does the tax withheld shown on the return agree with Forms W-2, 1099-INT, and 1099-DIV?
9. Is the refund or amount owed figured correctly?
10. Did the taxpayer sign and date the return?
11. Are the occupation spaces filled in?
12. Are all Forms W-2 and other schedules or forms attached to the return?
13. Is the return identified as "VITA" or "TCE" in the paid preparer's section?

Assembling the Return

Forms W-2

Staple Copy B of all Forms W-2 and W-2P right side up in the left margin of Form 1040 where indicated. Do not attach any Forms 1099 to the income tax return. Generally, the taxpayer should keep the 1099s, Copy C of Form W-2 or W-2P, and his or her own copy of the completed return, for at least 3 years from the date the return was due or filed, or 2 years from the date the tax was paid, whichever date is later.

Payments

If the taxpayer makes a payment with the return, advise the taxpayer to make the check or money order payable to "Internal Revenue Service," to write the social security number, daytime telephone number, form number (Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ), and year of the return (1990) on the payment, and to attach the payment to the left margin of Form 1040, page 1, where indicated.

Arranging Pages

Arrange the schedules and forms in order of the "Attachment Sequence No." behind Form 1040, and staple them in the upper left corner. The sequence number is in the upper right corner of the schedule or form. Attach forms without an attachment sequence number and any additional information sheets at the end of the return.

Summary

This lesson covers the last parts to complete on Form 1040: the taxpayer identification section, the Presidential Election Campaign Fund block, the signature section, the volunteer designation, and the quality review.

This lesson completes the module on preparing Form 1040. Module IV contains advanced topics and issues of interest to the elderly.

Introduction

As a general rule, property owned and used by an individual for personal or investment purposes is a capital asset. For example, houses, furniture, cars, and stocks and bonds are capital assets. Sales of most capital assets must be reported on Schedule D, Capital Gains and Losses. Losses on the sale of an item owned for personal use, such as a car, furniture, or a home, are not deductible.

In this lesson you will learn about the sales of stocks, and how to report the gain or loss from their sale on Schedule D (Form 1040). Sales of other capital assets must also be reported on Schedule D, but this lesson covers only the sales of stocks. To determine whether there is a gain or loss, and how to report it on a tax return, you must understand such tax terms as holding period, basis, adjusted basis, and gross sales price.

Holding Period

The time a taxpayer owns an asset is called the holding period. The length of the holding period before disposing of an asset determines where the asset is reported on Schedule D. A short-term holding period is one year or less; a long-term holding period is more than one year.

Capital Gain or Loss

Basis

The basis of property is usually its cost for figuring any gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of the asset. Certain costs of purchase, such as purchase commissions and recording fees, may also be included in the property's basis. If a taxpayer acquired stock other than by purchase (such as by gift, inheritance, performance of services, or exchange of property), refer the taxpayer to Publication 551, Basis of Assets.

Example

Tom Mason bought 50 shares of MDK stock, which cost $750. He paid a broker's commission of $30. Tom's basis in the stock is $780 ($750 plus $30).

Adjusted Basis

The basis of stock often must be adjusted for events that occur after purchase. If a taxpayer received additional stock from nontaxable stock dividends or stock splits, the basis of the original stock must be reduced. The basis must also be reduced if the taxpayer received return of capital (nontaxable) distributions.

If a taxpayer sold shares of stock purchased on different dates or at different prices, the taxpayer must be able to specifically identify the lot from which the shares were sold. If these cannot be identified, the basis of the stock sold is charged against the earliest of such lots purchased. However, under certain circumstances, the basis of shares in a mutual fund purchased at different prices may be averaged. Refer the taxpayer to Publication 550, Investment Income and Expenses, or Publication 564, Mutual Fund Distributions.

Sales Price

The sales price on the sale of stock depends on the method used by the broker to report the sale to the Internal Revenue Service. Some brokers report the net amount received by the taxpayer. That is, the gross proceeds of the sale minus the commissions and fees incurred on the sale. Other brokers report the gross proceeds of the sale. In this case, the taxpayer adds the selling expenses to the basis of the stock. The broker must send a Form 1099–B, or similar statement, to the taxpayer showing how the sale was reported. It is important to use the same sales price on your return as shown on Form 1099–B since the broker also sends a copy of this form to the Internal Revenue Service.

Holding Periods

Gains or losses on sales of stock are categorized as either short-term or long-term gains or losses, depending on the length of time the stock was owned. For stock, the date of disposition is the date of the actual sale (trading date) and not the settlement date. Gain or loss is recognized on the trading date.

To determine how long the taxpayer has held stock, begin counting on the day after he or she acquired the stock. This same day of each succeeding month begins a new month, regardless of the number of days in the preceding month. The day the taxpayer disposes of the property is considered part of the holding period.

The total gain on both short-term and long-term capital assets is taxed. Sales must be reported according to the holding periods.

Example

Gloria Banks bought 10 shares of AXY stock on July 20, 1989, and sold it on July 19, 1990. The date after the date of acquisition is July 21. The 21st of each succeeding month is the beginning of a new month. The last day of the one-year holding period, therefore, is July 20, 1990. Thus, this is a short-term capital transaction.

Exercise 1

Determine whether the taxpayer has a short-term or long-term capital gain in the following situations.

a. On May 10, 1989, Brian Cooper bought 100 shares of NNN Corporation stock for $100 a share and on April 10, 1990, he sold the 100 shares for $150 a share.
   ( ) Long-term ( ) Short-term
b. Use the same facts as in (a), except that Brian sold the stock on May 11, 1990.
   ( ) Long-term ( ) Short-term
c. On January 4, 1990, Sandi Black bought 100 shares of ZYX Corporation stock for $100 a share, and on April 30, 1990, she sold the 100 shares for $150 a share.
   ( ) Long-term ( ) Short-term
d. Use the same facts as in (c), except that Sandi sold the stock on July 6, 1990.
   ( ) Long-term ( ) Short-term

Note: If a taxpayer has any questions about holding periods for property acquired by gift, refer the taxpayer to Publication 17, Your Federal Income Tax, or Publication 544, Sales and Other Dispositions of Assets.

Figuring Gain or Loss

Gain on the sale of stock is the excess of the sales price over the adjusted basis of the stock. On Schedule D, the selling expenses are added to the adjusted basis unless only the net amount received is shown on Form 1099-B.

Example

Joan Fremont bought stock for $100 and paid a purchase commission of $10. She later sold it for $500. She paid selling expenses of $25. The Form 1099-B she received showed a gross receipt of $500. Her gain is figured as follows:

Sales price		$500
Less: Adjusted basis	$110
Expense of sale	25	135
Gain		$365

Loss on the sale of stock is the excess of the adjusted basis over the sales price.

Example

Norman Brown purchased stock for $650. He later sold it for $300. He paid selling expenses of $60. His Form 1099-B showed a gross receipt of $300. His loss is figured as follows:

Adjusted basis	$650
Add: Expense of sale	60
Total	$710
Deduct: Sales price	300
Loss	($410)

Example

Tim Williams sold stock for $500. His adjusted basis in the stock was $350. His broker reported net proceeds of $450 on Form 1099-B after the commission was deducted. His gain is figured as follows:

Proceeds	$450
Less: Adjusted basis	350
Gain	$100

Exercise 2

Enter the amount of gain or loss in each of the following situations.

a. Bought 100 shares of XXX stock for $1,000.

Sold 100 shares for $1,500.

Gain ______________ Loss ______________

b. Bought 10 shares of XYZ stock for $875.

Sold 5 shares for $400.

Gain ______________ Loss ______________

Form 1099-B

Any person doing business as a broker or barter exchange must report the gross proceeds from each transaction (other than regulated futures contracts) on a separate Form 1099-B (Exhibit 1). Box 1a shows the trade date of the transaction. To compute the holding period, you must always use the trade date. Box 2 shows the proceeds of the sale. This may be the amount received before the sales commission was deducted, in which case the top box is checked. If it is the net amount received by the taxpayer after the sales commission was deducted, the bottom box is checked.

Reporting Gain or Loss

Schedule D is the form used to report sales of stock and other capital transactions. It is important to separate the transactions by holding periods before you start to complete it.

Schedule D, Part I (Short-Term Capital Gains and Losses)

Use Part I for gains and losses from the sale of stock held one year or less. Use line 2a (and, if necessary, line 2b) to report each sale for which the taxpayer has a Form 1099-B. The sales price of all these transactions is totaled on line 2c. If there are no other Schedule D transactions, also enter this total on line 1. This is the reconciliation of Forms 1099-B. The total sales price shown on line 1 must equal the total of all Form 1099-B sales prices reported to the taxpayer and to the Internal Revenue Service by brokers.

Example

John E. Hunt bought 200 shares of XYZ stock on January 19, 1990, for $2,000 including commissions. He sold the stock on August 20, 1990, for $1,500. He incurred selling expenses of $75. Part I of his Schedule D is illustrated here as Exhibit 2. His SSN is 123-00-4567.

Schedule D, Part II (Long-Term Capital Gains and Losses)

Use Part II for long-term gains and losses from the sale of stock. The only difference between transactions listed on Part I and those listed on Part II is the holding period of the asset. Line 9a is used to report each sale for which the taxpayer has a Form 1099–B. The sales price of all these transactions is totaled on line 9c. The total of lines 2c and 9c should equal the amount shown on line 1. If they are not the same, follow the instructions for line 1.

Note: A taxpayer with questions regarding entries to be made on lines 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 14, and 15 should be referred to a professional tax preparer.

Combining Gains and Losses

Taxpayers may have both gains and losses in the same year. The gains and losses are combined on the Schedule D.

Example

On February 2, 1989, Sam R. Baker bought 100 shares of ABC stock for $1,000, and on May 8, 1989, he bought 150 shares of XYZ stock for $1,000. He sold the ABC stock on March 21, 1990, for $1,700. His broker reported the gross sales price on Form 1099–B. He had $80 in selling expenses. On June 4, 1990, he sold the XYZ stock for $800, which was the net sales price. Part II of Sam's Schedule D is shown as Exhibit 3. His SSN is 100–00–1000.

Combining Long-Term and Short-Term Transactions

Until now, we have looked only at examples of taxpayers with either long-term or short-term transactions. Let's see how Schedule D looks when both long-term and short-term transactions occur.

Example

On December 23, 1988, Priscilla A. Mills bought 100 shares of WXY Corporation stock for $2,500. On January 4, 1990, she bought 50 shares of QUT Corporation stock for $600. On June 5, 1990, she sold the QUT stock for $450, and on February 15, 1990, she sold the WXY stock for $5,000. Her broker reported the net sales price for both stocks. Parts I and II of Priscilla's Schedule D are shown in Exhibit 5. Her SSN is 987–00–6543.

Note: The total sales price on line 2c, Part I, and line 9c, Part II, equals the amount shown on line 1 above Part I.

Schedule D, Part III

Part III summarizes the information from Parts I and II. You will note that the net result of Part I is entered on line 8 of the Schedule D and that the net result of Part II is entered on line 17. Line 18 (Part III) combines these two lines. When line 18 of a taxpayer's Schedule D transactions for the year is a net gain, enter the amount on Form 1040, line 13.

Examples of combining and netting short-term and long-term gains and losses follow:

Example

	A	B	C	D
Line 8	$300 gain	($600) loss	$1,000 gain	($900) loss
Line 17	(1,600) loss	700 gain	1,500 gain	(300) loss
Line 18	(1,300) Net loss	100 Net gain	2,500 Net gain	(1,200) Net loss

Example

Patty R. Nelson sold four different stocks during the year. She received a Form 1099-B for each sale from her broker. Her broker uses the net proceeds sales price. Patty completed Schedule D, Parts I, II, and III as shown in Exhibits 6 and 7. Her SSN is 987-00-1234.

Wash Sales

A wash sale occurs when a person sells stock or securities (including contracts or options to acquire or sell stock or securities) and, within 30 days before or after the sale, acquires substantially identical stock. Losses from wash sales or exchanges of stocks or securities are not deductible. However, the gain from these sales is taxable. Taxpayers with a wash sale should be referred to a professional tax preparer.

Capital Loss Carryover

If a taxpayer's capital losses exceed the limit on capital loss deductions for a year, he or she may carry over the allowable excess to later years until it is absorbed. When carried over, the loss retains its original character as either short term or long term.

The amount of a taxpayer's capital loss that may be carried over is the amount of his or her loss that exceeds the lesser of:

1) The taxpayer's allowable capital loss deduction for the year, or

2) The taxpayer's taxable income increased by his or her allowable capital loss deduction for the year and his or her deduction for personal exemptions.

If the taxpayer's deductions exceed his or her gross income for the tax year, use the negative taxable income when computing the amount in item (2). Use the Part IV of Schedule D (Exhibit 13) to figure the loss carryover to the next year. Note that if there is a loss carryover, you will complete sections A and B for a short-term loss, and sections A and C for a long-term loss carryover.

Summary

Sales of stocks are reported to taxpayers by their brokers on Form 1099-B. Taxpayers report all sales of stocks and reconcile their Forms 1099-B on Schedule D (Form 1040). Sales are reported by the period of time the taxpayer held the stock—either short term or long term. The adjusted basis of a stock must be known to determine whether a sale resulted in a gain or loss.

Lesson 2

Sale of Home

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Explain the rules for postponing and excluding gain from the sale of a main home.
2. Determine who qualifies to postpone or exclude gain.
3. Complete Form 2119, Sale of Your Home.

Introduction

Main Home

Using Form 2119

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

Gain from selling property must generally be included in gross income for the year the property is sold. However, there are exceptions to this rule when a main home is sold. One exception requires certain taxpayers to postpone paying tax on all or part of the gain if the home is replaced with another main home. The other exception allows certain taxpayers who are 55 or older to exclude all or part of the gain from their gross income.

Only taxpayers who meet certain requirements qualify for these exceptions. Unless the requirements are met, the gain from selling a home must be included in gross income.

Taxpayers who sell a home use Form 2119, Sale of Your Home, to figure their gain, how much to postpone or exclude, and how much, if any, to include in gross income. Anyone who sells a main home must file Form 2119, whether there is a gain or a loss on the sale.

Main Home

A main home is the home where the taxpayer lives most of the time. The home may be a house, houseboat, mobile home, cooperative apartment, or a condominium house or apartment.

If a taxpayer alternates between two homes, the main home is the one where he or she lives most of the time.

If a taxpayer owns more than one home, only the sale of the main home qualifies for the special tax treatment. The following examples illustrate main home.

Example

Paul Riley owns and lives in a house in town. He also owns a beach cottage that he uses in the summer. The house in town is Paul's main home; the beach cottage is not.

Example

Fred Garfield owns a house in Houston, but he lives in Dallas in a house that he rents. The rented house in Dallas is his main home, not the house he owns in Houston.

Exercise 1

Joe Fisher lives in a house in New York City. He also owns a summer house in Lake George, N.Y., which he uses occasionally for entertainment. Which is his main home?

Answer ____________________

Exercise 2

Jo Ann Custer owns a house but lives in an apartment for which she pays rent. Which is her main home?

Answer ____________________

Form 1099-S

Transactions involving the sale or exchange of most residential real estate property must be reported to the IRS. This is done by using Form 1099–S, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds From Real Estate Transactions. Generally, the person responsible for closing the real estate transaction (usually a real estate broker or settlement attorney), must furnish Copy A of this statement to the IRS and furnish Copy B to the seller.

The seller of real estate transferred that was a main home must file Form 2119 (discussed in this lesson), with the income tax return (Form 1040). If the real estate transferred was NOT a main home, the transaction must be shown in the applicable parts of Form 4797, Sales of Business Property, Form 6252, Installment Sale Income, and/or Schedule D (Form 1040), Capital Gains and Losses.

Copy B of Form 1099–S is shown as an exhibit here. This is the copy the seller will be furnished.

Form 2119 (1990)

Taxpayers who sell their main home must file Form 2119. All taxpayers who use the form complete Parts I and II. Taxpayers who must include their full gain in income use only these parts, and taxpayers who have a loss on the sale stop at line 8. Taxpayers who postpone gain will use Parts I, II and IV, and taxpayers who choose the 55-or-older exclusion will use Parts I, II, and III. If the exclusion is chosen, Part IV will also be used if there is a gain in excess of the exclusion and another main home is purchased.

For detailed information about selling a home, refer taxpayers to Publication 523, Tax Information on Selling Your Home.

Part II—Gain on Sale

Part II is used to see whether the sale of the old home resulted in a gain or loss and to figure the amount of any gain.

Line 4—Selling price of home. The figure on line 4 is the total amount received for the property, including money, the amount of all notes, mortgages, or other debts that were part of the sale, and the fair market value of other property received.

Line 5—Expense of sale. Selling expenses are amounts the taxpayer paid to sell the home. These include commissions or brokers' fees, points or loan placement fees, termite inspection, attorney or legal fees, recording fees, survey fees, and advertising expenses.

In some cases, certain selling expenses may be deducted as moving expenses. Selling expenses that are allowed as moving expenses may not be deducted from the selling price or added to the purchase price of a new home.

Line 6—Amount realized. Subtract line 5 from line 4.

Line 7—Basis of home sold. The basis of a personal home is generally its cost or purchase price. Cost includes cash, debt obligations (such as mortgages), and other property given in exchange. Certain closing costs, such as commissions and legal and recording fees, are included in the basis. Points or loan origination fees paid to the lender that do not qualify as interest expense may not be added to the basis of the residence.

Example

John Foster bought a mobile home for $15,000 cash and assumed a $25,000 mortgage. The cash and the amount of the mortgage are added together to determine the cost basis of $40,000.

If a home is acquired other than by purchase, the taxpayer must generally use a basis other than cost. Fair market value is usually important in these cases. You should refer taxpayers in this situation to a professional tax preparer.

Adjusted basis. A taxpayer may have to make certain adjustments to the cost or other basis of a home. Increases to basis arise from improvements, additions, and other capital expenditures. Reductions in basis result from fire losses or other casualties, payments received for easements or rights-of-way, residential energy credits claimed, and depreciation deductions if the home was used for business or rental purposes. The postponed gain on the sale of a home is also a reduction in the basis of the new home.

Capital expenditures. An expenditure for a capital improvement increases basis. Capital improvements generally are items that will increase the value of property or prolong its useful life. For example, installing new fixtures, adding rooms to a house, and bricking the outside of a frame building are capital improvements. The cost of repairs that neither add to the value of the property nor prolong its life are not capital improvements. For example, painting a house or replacing tiles on a roof are repairs that will not increase the basis of property. However, if items that would otherwise be considered repairs are done as part of an extensive remodeling or restoration of the taxpayer's home, the entire job is a capital improvement.

Example

On August 24, 1980, George and Betty Kemper bought a houseboat for $30,000, and they live on it. In 1983, they added a sundeck that cost them $7,000. This expenditure is considered a capital improvement, because it increased the value of the property. The $7,000 cost is added to the original cost of the Kempers' home, resulting in an adjusted basis of $37,000.

Exercise 3

Stanley and Helen Ellis made some improvements to their home. Mark the improvements that will increase the property's basis.

a. Painted garage.
b. Installed built-in dishwasher.
c. Had major landscaping done.
d. Installed a new roof.
e. Installed picture window in living room.

Recordkeeping. A person who owns a home, or other property that replaces it, should save receipts and other records for all improvements, additions, and other items that affect the basis. Ordinarily these records should be saved for at least 3 years after filing a return reporting disposition of the property. However, if a taxpayer uses the basis of an old home to figure the basis of a new home, such as when an old home is sold and the tax on the gain is postponed, he or she should keep those records as long as they are relevant for tax purposes.

Line 8a— Gain on sale. The basis on line 7 is subtracted from the amount realized, line 6. If the result is a loss, enter zero on line 8a and stop there. A loss on the sale is not deductible and does not affect the basis of a new home. If the result is a gain, enter the amount on line 8a. You will use this figure, the gain on the sale of the old home, as you complete the taxpayer's Form 2119. If the taxpayer is not replacing the old home or electing the 55-or-older exclusion, enter the gain from line 8a on the taxpayer's Schedule D (Form 1040), Capital Gains and Losses.

Taxpayers who sold their old home on the installment method should file Form 6252, Installment Sale Income, instead of Schedule D. You should refer these taxpayers to a professional preparer.

Exercise 4

Randy G. Martin, SSN 000-00-1515, bought his house for $35,000 in 1972. In 1981 he added a porch costing $2,500, and he had the driveway paved for $2,100. Randy sold his home for $95,000 on May 1, 1990. He received $70,000 and the buyer assumed his $25,000 mortgage. He paid $6,000 in sales commissions to a real estate broker to sell the house, and $300 for real estate taxes that accrued for the part of 1990 before he sold. His address in 1414 Liner Drive, Coral City, NM 00001. He intends to replace his home. Complete Part II of Form 2119 (Exhibit 3) to determine the gain.

Form 2119 (1990)

Part III—One-Time Exclusion of Gain for People Age 55 or Older

A taxpayer who qualifies to do so, may exclude from gross income all or part of the gain on the sale or exchange of a main home. The taxpayer may exclude up to $125,000 of gain ($62,500 if the taxpayer is married and files a separate return).

The taxpayer can make the election to exclude gain only once in a lifetime. The balance of the gain must be postponed if the taxpayer buys or builds another home within certain time frames that will be covered in the discussion of Part IV.

Because the taxpayer can use this exclusion only once, it may be to the taxpayer's advantage to postpone the gain on this sale, and wait until a later sale to use the exclusion when there may be a larger gain.

The exclusion may be chosen by completing Part III of Form 2119, if:

1. The taxpayer (or spouse) is age 55 or older on the date of the sale;
2. The taxpayer (or spouse) has owned and used the property as a main home for at least 3 years (either continuous or interrupted) during the 5-year period that ends on the date of sale;
3. Both the taxpayer and the taxpayer's spouse make the election to exclude the gain, in the case of a taxpayer who was married when the old home was sold; and
4. Neither the taxpayer nor the taxpayer's spouse has excluded gain on the sale or exchange of a home after July 26, 1978.

However, to meet the 3 of 5-year requirement, a taxpayer will be considered to have lived in his or her main home for any time during the 5-year period that he or she became physically or mentally unable to care for himself or herself and resided in a facility (including a nursing home) licensed by a state or political subdivision to care for individuals in that condition. The taxpayer must have owned and actually lived in the home as his or her main home for a total of at least 1 year during the 5-year period.

Line 9a—Anyone who wishes to elect the one-time exclusion fills in lines 9a–g.

Time to exclude gain. A taxpayer may make or revoke a choice to exclude gain from a particular sale or exchange at any time before the latest of the following dates:

—Three years from the due date of the return for the year of the sale,
—Three years from the date the return was filed, or —Two years from the date the tax was paid.

Exercise 5

Indicate which of the following taxpayers qualify for the 55-or-older exclusion of up to $125,000.

a. In 1990, Roger Hill, age 77, and his wife, Judy, age 70, sold the houseboat where they had lived for 5 years.
b. In 1990, Jill Hays, age 61, sold her condominium for $85,000 and had a gain of $54,000. She had lived there for 3 years.
c. Peter Hood was 55 on August 1, 1990, and on that day sold the mobile home where he had lived for 10 years for a gain of $19,000.

Answer ____________________

Line 9g—Exclusion. Enter the smaller of the line 8a amount or $125,000 ($62,500 if married filing a separate return).

Part IV—Adjusted Sales Price, Taxable Gain and Adjusted Basis of New Home

Line 10—This amount is the difference between lines 8a and 9g. If lines 8a and 9g are the same, or line 9g is more than line 8a, enter zero and stop there; the taxpayer will exclude all of the gain on the sale of the old home.

Example

Henry Tripp is single and age 61. He sold the house he had owned and lived in for the past 20 years. He does not plan to buy a new home and chooses to take the 55-or-older exclusion. Mr. Tripp has never taken the exclusion before. His gain on the sale (line 8a) is $43,000. Parts II and III, and line 10 of his Form 2119 are shown here (Exhibit 4).

Tom E. and Mary O. Turner are both 63 years old. Their SSNs are 010-00-0010 and 101-00-1000. Their new address is 1040 ABC Drive, New Town, FL 33333. On May 7, 1990, they sold the house that they owned and lived in for the past 30 years. The selling price was $175,000, and the Turners paid selling expenses of $11,000. The house cost them $24,000, and they paid $2,000 extra to have a garage added. Mr. and Mrs. Turner spent $500 in fixing-up expenses in March 1990. They plan to use the 55-or-older exclusion. On May 16, 1990, they bought a new house for $42,000, and moved in the next day. Complete their Form 2119 (Exhibit 5). Note that they do not have to sign the form since it is filed with their Form 1040.

Form 2119 (1990)

If the taxpayer (and, if married, his or her spouse) buys and occupies a home to replace the one that was sold, some or all of the gain must be postponed if the replacement home is bought (or built) within the 4-year period that begins 2 years before and ends 2 years after the date of the sale of the old home. This is true even if one spouse dies after the old home is sold and before the new home is purchased. Any costs attributable to periods before or after the 4-year period may not be considered. Part IV is used to figure how much gain will be postponed and what the adjusted basis of the new home will be.

Do not use Part IV for taxpayers who choose the 55-or-older exclusion unless they have more gain than they can exclude and purchase another home. However, since a taxpayer may take the exclusion only once, he or she may be better off postponing the gain on this sale and using the exclusion later.

Example

Bob Oakland sold his condominium on July 25, 1990. His replacement period runs from July 25, 1988, to July 25, 1992.

Suspension of replacement period. The 2-year replacement period after the sale of the old home is suspended while the taxpayer has a tax home (the place where the taxpayer lives and works) outside the United States. The suspension applies only if the taxpayer's stay abroad begins before the 2-year replacement period ends. The replacement period, plus the period of suspension, generally cannot end later than 4 years after the date the old home was sold.

For certain members of the military serving overseas or required to live at a remote U.S. base, the suspension period and replacement period together may be extended up to 8 years. For more information, see Publication 678-M, Military Module.

Note: If you report and pay tax on the gain from the sale of your old home and later replace your home within an extended replacement period, you should file an amended return (Form 1040X) to recover the tax you paid. However, due to the extended replacement period, your claim for refund may be barred by the statute of limitations for filing a claim. To avoid difficulties, you should file a protective claim for refund when you file your return reporting the gain from the sale of your old home and pay the tax. For more information, get Publication 523.

If the taxpayer is married, and both spouses use the new home (and also used the old home), as their main home, the replacement period is suspended while either spouse has a tax home outside the United States. The replacement period, plus the period of suspension, can end no later than 4 years after the date the old home was sold.

Example

James Morton sold his home on June 24, 1989. His replacement period began on this date. On December 23, 1989, he was transferred to a foreign country. James had used 6 months of his replacement period before his transfer. From December 23, 1989, to August 28, 1991, when he returns to the United States, his replacement period is suspended, but then it resumes as of August 28, 1991. James will have until February 28, 1993 (18 months), to buy and live in a new home. If he had remained outside the United States for 2 years or more, the replacement period would end June 24, 1993.

Exercise 7

Mildred Hart sold her home on August 1, 1990. What is the latest date for her to buy and occupy a home and postpone the gain from the sale?

Answer ____________________

Exercise 8

Indicate which of these taxpayers met the replacement period requirement.

a. Fran sold her old house on November 20, 1989, and bought a new one on January 10, 1990. She moved in January 15, 1990.
b. Mike started building a new home May 25, 1988. He moved into it on June 10, 1989, and sold his old home on April 30, 1990.
c. Liz sold her condominium on August 1, 1989, and on January 4, 1990, bought a home already built. She moved into it on January 15, 1990.

Answer ____________________

Qualifying replacement home. For gain to be postponed, the new home must qualify as a replacement home.

If the taxpayer buys and sells a new home before the date the old home is sold, the new one does not qualify for postponing gain.

If the taxpayer sells the old home and invests in a retirement project that will provide living quarters, personal care, etc., but that does not give the taxpayer any legal interest in the property, the taxpayer has not bought a replacement home that qualifies for postponing gain.

If more than one main home is bought during the replacement period, only the last one bought during that period can qualify for postponing gain unless the sale is because of a work-related move for which moving expenses can be deducted. See Publication 523 for details.

Line 11— Fixing-up expenses. These are decorating and repair expenses incurred only to help sell the old property. They are used only in determining the part of the gain on which the tax is postponed. They are not deductible in figuring taxable income, and they are not used in figuring either the basis of the old home or the amount realized from its sale. Fixing-up expenses must have been incurred for work performed within 90 days before the contract to sell was signed, and they must have been paid no later than 30 days after the sale.

Line 12— Adjusted sales price. The adjusted sales price of the old home is the amount realized, line 6, less fixing-up expenses, line 11. The tax treatment of the gain on the sale of the old home depends on whether the adjusted sales price is more or less than the purchase price of the new home.

Line 13b— Cost of new home. The cost of the new home includes cash payments, any mortgage or debt on the property, and commissions and other expenses of the purchase. The taxpayer must have incurred all of these items during the replacement period and must not have deducted them as moving expenses. The cost of the new home must be at least as much as the adjusted sales price of the old one (line 12) for the taxpayer to postpone all of the gain from the sale. On line 13a, enter the date you moved into your new home.

Line 14a—Add the amounts on lines 9g and 13b. If the adjusted sales price of the old home (line 12) is more than the cost of the new one (line 13b), there will be a taxable gain this year. It is the lower of:

- The gain on the sale (line 8a), or
- The difference between lines 12 and 13b.

Line 14b—Subtract line 14a from line 12. If zero or less, enter zero.

Line 14c—Taxable gain. This is the smaller of line 10 or line 14b. The gain taxable this year is entered on line 14c and on Schedule D (Form 1040).

Line 15— Postponed gain. Subtract line 14c from line 10. Any gain not entered on line 14c is entered on line 15. It is postponed, not forgiven. If the new home is sold later, the gain may continue to be postponed, it may be reported as income, or it may be excluded, depending on whether the taxpayer buys and occupies a qualifying replacement home or is eligible to exclude the gain.

Line 16— Adjusted basis of new main home. The adjusted basis of the new home is the difference between the cost of the new home (line 13b) and the postponed gain (line 15). The postponed gain lowers the taxpayer's basis in the new home. The taxpayer's adjusted basis on line 16 is used as the starting point for figuring basis when the taxpayer sells this home.

Example

On April 17, 1975, Carl and Susan Boulder, both aged 27, bought their first house for $25,000. They had no capital improvements. On June 22, 1990, the Boulders sold this house for $67,500. They had no selling expenses. On August 13, 1990, they bought and moved into a duplex house that cost $45,000. Because this amount is less than the adjusted sales price of the house they sold, the Boulders must report part of their gain in the year of sale. The taxable gain (line 14c) is $22,500, which they enter on Schedule D (Form 1040). The gain they postpone ($20,000 on line 15), reduces their basis in their new home to $25,000, line 16. See Exhibit 6.

Exercise 9

On September 15, 1983, Claude O. and Karen A. Brooks bought a condominium for $40,000. They made no capital improvements. On March 12, 1990, they sold the condo for $55,000. They had selling costs of $3,300. On June 18, 1990, they bought and moved into a new condominium that cost $45,000. Neither of them is 55 or older. Their SSNs are 101–00–0001 and 101–00–0002. Their new address is 815 Maine Ave., Old Town, VA 22000. Since they file this form with their Form 1040, they do not need to sign this form. Use the Form 2119 shown in Exhibit 7 to figure the part of their gain that is taxable this year.

Exercise 10

In 1973, James C. Weber (Soc. Sec. No. 456–00–7890) and his wife, Betty M. (Soc. Sec. No. 000–00–0001), bought a house for $26,000. On May 16, 1990, the Webers, both age 62, sold their house for $182,000. They had selling expenses of $13,000, and no fixing-up expenses. They did not take back a mortgage or note. They had not used the house for business or rented out any part of it.

On June 11, 1990, they bought a new house for $87,000 and moved in the same day. They wish to take the exclusion and postpone tax on any remaining gain. Their new address is 330 Carl Spring Drive, Arlington, VA 70000. Complete all of Form 2119 for Mr. and Mrs. Weber (Exhibit 8).

Form 2119 (1990)

Summary

In this lesson you learned how to complete Form 2119 for taxpayers who sold their main home in the past year. You studied how to figure and report the following:

1. Gain taxable in the year of sale;
2. The once-in-a-lifetime exclusion of up to $125,000 in gain for taxpayers who are age 55 or older when they sell their home;
3. Amount of gain that can be postponed when the taxpayer replaces his or her home with another qualifying home; and
4. The adjusted basis of the new home.

Answers to Exercises

1. House in New York City.
2. Apartment.
3. b, c, d, and e.
4. See filled-in Exhibit 3.
5. All qualify for the exclusion.
6. See filled-in Exhibit 5.
7. August 1, 1992.
8. All meet the requirement.
9. See filled-in Exhibit 7.
10. See filled-in Exhibit 8.

Lesson 3

Pensions

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Use the General Rule and the Simplified General Rule in computing the taxable and nontaxable parts of a pension.
2. * Report pension income on the appropriate lines of Form 1040 and Form 1040A.
3. Be aware of several kinds of retirement income.
4. See, from the statement the taxpayer received, what kind of retirement income the taxpayer has.

Introduction

As a volunteer you will often be asked, "How much tax do I pay on my pension?" This lesson will help you understand the questions most frequently asked by taxpayers who receive pension income. You will study fully taxable pensions, partly taxable pensions, and lump-sum distributions. You will also have an overview of the general rule for partly taxable pensions, the taxation of lump-sum distributions, and special treatment for certain retirement payments. You will learn what statements taxpayers receive that show their retirement benefits.

Note: The three-year rule was repealed for retirees whose annuity starting date is after July 1, 1986. After this date, the general rule or the simplified general rule must be used for reporting all pension and annuity income that is not fully taxable. The "general rule" and the "simplified general rule" are discussed later in this lesson.

Pensions and Annuities

Pensions and annuities provide cash payments, usually after a person has retired. The payments may be for life or over a fixed period. They may begin at retirement or at a specific age.

- A pension is generally a fixed amount paid periodically to a retired employee or survivor and is usually based on years of service and on the amount of compensation received while working.

- An annuity is generally obtained by buying an annuity contract from an insurance company, a trust company, or an individual, and it provides for income payable at stated intervals for a period of more than one full year.

This lesson refers to both pensions and annuities as pensions, and primarily covers plans to which both the employer and employee contribute. Other rules also affect certain kinds of retirement income, as explained later under Special Treatment.

Whether a pension is fully or partly taxable generally depends on whether the employee contributed to the pension plan. Employee contributions are "after-tax" amounts the employee paid into the pension fund. Employee contributions are often referred to as the cost of the pension or as the investment in the contract. The employer usually deducts them from wages and pays them into the pension fund for the employee. For the pensions discussed here, the employer will also have contributed to the pension fund.

Most taxpayers know whether they contributed to their pension fund. If a taxpayer does not know, refer this person to his or her former employer for the information.

Fully Taxable Pensions

Generally, if the taxpayer did not contribute to the cost of the pension plan, the pension benefits received are fully taxable. Military pensions based on age or length of service are noncontributory and, therefore, fully taxable.

Individual Retirement Arrangements. Generally, distributions from an individual retirement arrangement (IRA) are fully taxable and are reported on line 10b, Form 1040A or line 16b, Form 1040. Rollovers (movement of funds to an IRA from another IRA or from a pension plan) are not taxable.

* If a person has made nondeductible contributions to an IRA, a portion of the distributions is not taxed. Anyone who has made nondeductible contributions to an IRA, for the year of making such a contribution or for the year of receiving an IRA distribution, must file Form 8606, Nondeductible IRA Contributions, IRA Basis, and Nontaxable IRA Distributions. See Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs), for detailed information about individual retirement arrangements.

Partly Taxable Pensions

When a retiree has contributed to a pension plan, part of the pension received is a return of the amounts contributed in earlier years, when he or she was still an employee. If the retiree already paid tax on the contribution (it was included in wages), he or she does not pay tax on it again when the pension is received.

One of three methods is used to determine how the taxpayer will recover the cost tax-free. The methods are:

- The general rule.
- The simplified general rule.
- The three-year rule only for pensions starting before July 2, 1986.

General Rule

All taxpayers who contributed to their pension or annuity and their pension or annuity starting date is after July 1, 1986, must use either the General Rule, or, if they qualify, the Simplified General Rule, discussed later, to figure the taxable and nontaxable part of each payment.

Under the general rule each payment consists of two parts: a return of the taxpayer's contribution, which is nontaxable, and a taxable part. Once the amount of the tax-free part is determined, it stays the same, even if the periodic payments increase. The additional amount is taxable.

The total amount of pension or annuity income that is excluded over the years as a return of the investment may not exceed the total investment reduced by the value of any refund feature. Any unrecovered investment at a retiree's (or last annuitant's) death is allowed as an itemized deduction in the last tax year (not subject to the 2% of adjusted gross income limit, discussed earlier in Module III, lesson 5).

Assume a retiree, whose annuity starting date is after 1986, excludes $100 a month under the general rule. If the total investment is $12,000, the exclusion ends after 10 years (120 months). Thereafter, the entire pension or annuity is taxable.

Note: Some employers send their retirees statements that show the nontaxable amount or the exclusion percentage originally used to figure the nontaxable part of the taxpayer's pension. Other taxpayers will not know these amounts. If these taxpayers are unable to get this information from their former employers (or other payer of the pension), you should refer them to Publication 575, Pension and Annuity Income, (Including Simplified General Rule), Publication 721, Tax Guide to U.S. Civil Service Retirement Benefits, or Publication 939, Pension General Rule (Nonsimplified Method), or to a professional preparer.

If the taxpayer has been given the exclusion percentage, you can figure the tax-free part of the pension. Add up the payments received during the year before any deduction for such items as insurance premiums or income tax withheld. Then multiply this total by the exclusion percentage to get the tax-free part of the pension. The balance is taxable.

Example

Mr. Smith retired in November 1989. Annuity payments of $700 a month started in January 1990. The given exclusion percentage is 14.4%. Mr. Smith's 1990 tax-free part of the pension is $1,210 and the taxable part is $7,190, figured as follows:

Annual payments ($700 x 12 months)	$8,400
Multiply by exclusion percentage (14.4%)	x .144
Tax-free part of pension	$1,210
Taxable part ($8,400 – $1,210)	$7,190

Example

Mary Ann Mallory retired in July 1988. She began to receive a monthly pension of $600 in September 1988. Her employer figured her exclusion percentage to be 13.7%. Thus, her monthly exclusion will be $82.20 until she recovers her investment in the pension. Mary Ann's tax-free part of the pension for 1990 is $986 and the taxable part is $6,214, figured as follows:

Total payments ($600 x 12 months)	$7,200
Tax–free part of pension ($82.20 x 12 months)	986
Taxable part ($7,200 – $986)	$6,214

Exercise 1

Janice Rutledge retired in September 1988 and began receiving a monthly annuity of $725 in November of that year. She tells you that her exclusion percentage is 15.3% ($111 per month). Figure the tax-free part and the taxable part of Janice's annuity for 1990.

Total payments for 1990 $
Multiply by exclusion percentage ×
Tax–free part of annuity $
Taxable part $

Exercise 2

Gilbert Owens retired in February 1990 and began receiving a pension in April 1990 of $670 a month. His employer figured his exclusion percentage to be 14.8%. Figure the tax-free part and the taxable part of Gilbert's pension for 1990.

Total payments for 1990	$
Multiply by exclusion percentage	×
Tax–free part of pension	$
Taxable part	$

The total amount of the pension is shown on Form 1040, line 17a, and the taxable part is shown on line 17b. On Form 1040A, use lines 11a and 11b.

If the exclusion percentage is not available, you should refer to the publications mentioned earlier so that you can apply the formula and appropriate actuarial table to arrive at the exclusion percentage.

To determine the exclusion percentage, you must divide the taxpayer's investment in the contract by the expected return. An example of this procedure is shown.

Example

Mr. Brown began receiving a monthly annuity of $1,000. His investment in the contract is $42,000 and the expected return is $180,000. The exclusion percentage is 23.3% computed as follows:

$42,000 ÷ $180,000 = 23.3% (Investment divided by expected return = exclusion percentage).

Simplified General Rule

If the taxpayer's pension or annuity starting date is after July 1, 1986, you may be able to use a computation simpler than the General Rule, explained earlier, to figure the taxable and nontaxable parts of the taxpayer's or survivor's annuity. This simpler method can be used only if:

- The annuity payments are for either (a) the taxpayer's life, or (b) for the lives of the taxpayer and his or her beneficiary, and
- The annuity payments are from a qualified employee plan, a qualified employee annuity, or a tax-sheltered annuity, and
- At the time the payments began, either the taxpayer was under age 75 or, if the taxpayer was 75 or older, the number of years of guaranteed payments was fewer than 5.

If the taxpayer meets these conditions and the Simplified General Rule is used, figure the taxable part of the taxpayer's pension using the worksheet for the Simplified General Rule in the Form 1040 or the Form 1040A Instructions for 1990.

Be sure to tell the taxpayers you help that they should keep the worksheet for figuring their 1991 taxable pensions. For purposes of the worksheet, use the taxpayer's age at the birthday preceding his or her annuity starting date.

The following examples will show you how the simplified method applies to typical situations.

Example

Peter Smith, age 62, began receiving retirement benefits under a joint and survivor annuity to be paid for the joint lives of Peter and Peter's wife, Mary. Peter's annuity starting date is March 1, 1990. He contributed $19,200 to the plan and did not receive any distributions before the annuity starting date. Peter is to receive a retirement benefit of $800 a month, and Mary is to receive a monthly survivor benefit of $400 upon Peter's death.

Under the Simplified General Rule, Peter's investment in the contract at the annuity starting date is $19,200 (his after-tax contributions to the plan). The set number of monthly payments according to line 3 of the worksheet for a recipient who is 62 years old is 240. The tax-free part of each $800 monthly annuity payment to Peter is $80, figured by dividing Peter's total investment ($19,200) by the number of monthly payments (240): (See Exhibit 1.)

$$\frac{\text{Total investment: } $19{,}200}{\text{Expected payments: } 240} = $80 \text{ (Peter's monthly return of investment)}$$

If Peter lives to collect more than 240 monthly payments, he will have to include in his gross income the full amount of any annuity payments received after 240 payments have been made.

If Peter does not live to collect 240 monthly payments and Peter's wife, Mary, begins to receive monthly payments, she will also exclude $80 (arrived at in line 4) from each monthly payment until 240 payments (Peter's and hers) have been collected. If she dies before 240 payments have been made, a miscellaneous itemized deduction (but not subject to the 2% floor on miscellaneous deductions) will be allowed for the unrecovered cost on Mary's final income tax return.

9. Taxable amount. Subtract line 8 from line 1. Enter the result, but not less than zero. Also enter this amount on Form 1040, line 17b. If your Form W-2P shows a larger amount, use the amount on this line instead of the amount from Form W-2P 9. 7,200.00

Note: If you had more than one pension or annuity that is not fully taxable, figure the taxable part of each separately. Enter the total of the taxable parts on Form 1040, line 17b. Enter the total pension or annuity payments received in 1990 on Form 1040, line 17a.*

Exercise 3

Martha Rivers began receiving a $1,500 monthly annuity upon her retirement on January 1, 1990. She contributed $29,000 to her qualified employee plan and did not receive any distributions before January 1, 1990. Martha was 53 years old at the annuity starting date. Using the Simplified General Rule worksheet (Exhibit 2), figure the taxable part of Martha's monthly benefit payments for 1990.

Note: If you had more than one pension or annuity that is not fully taxable, figure the taxable part of each separately. Enter the total of the taxable parts on Form 1040A, line 11b.

Example

Irene Burke began receiving monthly retirement benefits under her qualified employee plan in March 1989. Irene was 64 at the annuity starting date. She contributed $24,000 to the plan and did not receive any distributions before the annuity starting date. Irene's monthly benefit is $650. Irene's taxable part of her monthly benefit payments for 1990 under the Simplified General Rule (Exhibit 3) is figured as follows:

Exercise 4

Charles Street retired in December 1988 and began receiving monthly retirement benefits under his qualified employee plan in January 1989. Charles was 61 at the annuity starting date. He had contributed $32,000 to his retirement plan and did not receive any distributions before January 1989. Charles' monthly benefit is $1,100. Using the Simplified General Rule worksheet (Exhibit 4), figure the taxable part of Charles' monthly benefit payments for 1990.

Death benefit exclusion. If a taxpayer is a beneficiary of a deceased employee or former employee, the taxpayer may qualify for a death benefit exclusion of up to $5,000.

* Generally, the death benefit exclusion does not apply to amounts that the employee had, immediately before death, a nonforfeitable right to receive while living. It does apply to lump-sum distributions from a qualified pension, annuity, stock bonus, or profit-sharing plan or from certain tax-sheltered annuities. If you are the survivor under a joint and survivor annuity, the exclusion only applies if:

1) The deceased had received no retirement pension or annuity payments, or

2) The deceased had received disability income payments that were not treated as pension or annuity income.

Even if the employee dies after the annuity starting date, the death benefit exclusion applies to amounts received by a beneficiary if the amounts are received other than as the survivor under a joint and survivor annuity.

A taxpayer who chooses to use the Simplified General Rule and who also qualifies for the death benefit exclusion may increase the total investment in the pension or annuity contract (on line 2 of the worksheet) by the amount of the allowable death benefit exclusion.

However, the payer of the annuity cannot add the death benefit exclusion to the cost for reporting the tax-free and taxable parts of a payment on Form W-2P. Thus, there will be a difference in the amounts you will figure for the taxpayer and the amounts the payer will figure. The taxpayer must attach a signed statement to his or her income tax return stating that the taxpayer is entitled to the death benefit exclusion in making the Simplified General Rule computation.

Example

Hannah Douglas, age 53, began receiving a monthly annuity in 1990 of $1,200 upon the death of her husband, Philip. She received 10 payments in 1990. She tells you that she qualifies for the death benefit exclusion of $5,000 and that Philip had contributed $29,000 to the plan. Hannah chooses to use the Simplified General Rule for figuring the taxable and nontaxable parts of her monthly annuity payment. Her investment for purposes of the Simplified General Rule is $34,000 ($29,000 + $5,000). (See Exhibit 5).

The expected number of monthly payments for someone who is 53 years old at the annuity starting date is 300. The tax-free part of each one of Hannah's monthly payments is $113.33, figured as follows:

$$\frac{\text{Total investment: $34,000}}{\text{Expected payments: 300}} = \text{$113.33 (Monthly return of investment)}$$

However, since Philip's former employer (the payer of the annuity) cannot adjust Hannah's investment ($29,000) by the death benefit exclusion for reporting purposes, the former employer figures the tax-free part of each monthly annuity payment to be $96.67 as follows:

$$\frac{\text{Total investment: $29,000}}{\text{Expected payments: 300}} = \text{$96.67 (Monthly return of investment)}$$

Thus, Hannah's Form W-2P from the payer will show a monthly taxable annuity payment of $1,103.33 ($1,200 - $96.67). In spite of this, she should only report on either line 17b of Form 1040, or line 11b of Form 1040A, the smaller taxable amount based on her own computation. She must attach a signed statement to her return saying that she is entitled to the death benefit exclusion in making the Simplified General Rule computation.

Three-year rule. The determination of whether the three-year rule applies had to have been made when the 1986 or earlier return was being prepared. If the taxpayer could recover the pension contributions he or she made within 36 months, the three-year rule would apply. All taxpayers who qualified for the three-year rule in 1986 or earlier would have recovered their contributions to the plan before the 1990 tax year. Therefore, their pensions are now fully taxable.

Lump-Sum Distributions

A lump-sum distribution is the payment within one tax year to a taxpayer of his or her balance (less certain amounts) in all qualified pension, stock bonus, and profit-sharing plans that his or her employer maintains. To qualify as a lump-sum distribution, the payment must have been made:

1. Because the employee died,
2. After the employee reached age 59½,
3. Because the employee (not including a self-employed individual) separated from service with the employer, or
4. After a self-employed individual was totally and permanently disabled.

The taxpayer should receive a Form 1099-R, Statement for Recipients of Total Distributions From Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, Insurance Contracts, Etc., that shows if a lump-sum distribution qualifies for special tax treatment.

If an individual was an active participant in his or her employer's retirement plan before 1974, the part of a distribution from the plan that is allocable to the pre-1974 participation could be taxed at a special rate, using Form 4972, Tax on Lump-Sum Distributions.

Other benefits may be available to taxpayers who receive lump-sum distributions from a qualified retirement plan. These include tax-free rollover treatment of the distribution into an individual retirement arrangement (IRA) and eligibility for the death benefit exclusion for distributions that a beneficiary received.

Civil Service retirees. For information on how federal income tax rules apply to the benefits that retired federal employees (or their survivors) receive under the U.S. Civil Service Retirement Act, refer to Publication 721, Tax Guide to U.S. Civil Service Retirement Benefits.

If a taxpayer has any questions about lump-sum distributions or about the benefits to which he or she may be entitled, refer that taxpayer to Publication 575.

Special Treatment

Special treatment applies to the kinds of retirement income described here.

Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled

* Taxpayers who are 65 or older, or under 65 and have retired on permanent and total disability, and received taxable disability benefits in 1990 may be able to take the credit for the elderly or the disabled, which is explained in Module IV, Lesson 5. The credit is computed on Schedule R (Form 1040), or Schedule 3 of Form 1040A.

Taxable Social Security and Railroad Retirement Benefits

Some social security and equivalent railroad retirement benefits are reported separately as taxable income. They are explained in Module IV, Lesson 4.

Railroad retirement benefits, other than the social security equivalent portion of tier 1 benefits, are treated as benefits from a qualified plan. This means that they qualify for certain advantages not previously available for them.

The taxpayer should have received Form RRB-W-2P, Statement for Recipients of Annuities or Pensions by the Railroad Retirement Board. This form should show the benefits the taxpayer received during 1990, his or her contributions to the pension fund, and any withheld income tax.

Under certain circumstances, the benefits received may be eligible for special tax treatment, using Form 4972, or tax-free rollover treatment. For more information, see Publication 575.

Statements and Income Tax Withholding

The taxpayer should have received a statement that shows the amounts to use to determine how the taxpayer's pension or lump-sum distribution is taxed. The statement also shows the amount of any income tax that was withheld.

Income tax is withheld from the taxable part of a pension unless the recipient chooses not to have tax withheld. The payer of the pension can tell the taxpayer how to change the amount withheld or stop the withholding. Generally, a Form W-4P, Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments, is used for this purpose. The exemption from withholding may not apply to a payment sent outside the United States.

A taxpayer who chooses not to have tax withheld may have to pay estimated tax. Generally, a taxpayer will be required to pay estimated tax if he or she owes $500 or more in estimated tax for the year, and expects that the total amount of income tax that will be withheld during the year will be less than the smaller of:

1. 90% of the tax shown on that person's income tax return for the year, or
2. 100% of the tax shown on that person's tax return for the previous year.

If enough tax is not paid either through withholding or through estimated tax payments, a penalty may be charged. For more information about estimated tax, see Module IV, Lesson 7.

Form W-2P. A pension recipient generally is given a Form W-2P, Statement for Recipients of Annuities, Pensions, Retired Pay, or IRA Payments. The payer of the pension, usually the former employer, gives this statement to the retiree. In box 9 the statement shows the total pension payments for the year. If the payer can figure the taxable part, it is shown in box 10, and the recipient should check to be sure that the amount is correct. If federal income tax is withheld, it is shown in box 11 and the taxpayer should attach a copy of Form W-2P to the front of Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

Form RRB-W-2P. For a tier 2 railroad retirement (RRTA) pension the recipient is given Form RRB-W-2P, Statement for Recipients of Annuities or Pensions by the Railroad Retirement Board. Box 9 shows the tier 2 taxable amount that is treated as a pension under the general rule. Any amounts in boxes 9, 10, and 11 are fully taxable. Include them on line 17b, Form 1040 or line 11b of Form 1040A. Box 7 of Form RRB-W-2P shows any withheld tax. The taxpayer should attach Copy B of Form RRB-W-2P to Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

Form 1099-R. A recipient of a lump-sum distribution is given Form 1099-R, Statement for Recipients of Total Distributions From Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, Insurance Contracts, Etc. The form shows if the distribution qualifies for special tax treatment, as explained earlier in this lesson.

Form RRB-1099. Taxpayers who receive tier 1 railroad retirement benefits should receive Form RRB-1099, Statement for Recipients of Payments by the Railroad Retirement Board. Amounts reported on Form RRB-1099 are treated as explained in Module IV, Lesson 4.

Form SSA-1099. Any amounts reported to the taxpayer on Form SSA-1099, Social Security Benefit Statement, are treated as explained in Module IV, Lesson 4.

Summary

Retirement income is reported to the taxpayer on any of several statements, and the taxable part is figured in any of several ways. In this lesson you became familiar with some kinds of retirement payments that taxpayers receive. You studied how to figure the tax on partly taxable pensions under the General Rule and under the Simplified General Rule. You also learned about fully taxable pensions, lump-sum distributions, and special treatment for certain kinds of retirement income. In addition, you saw what statements taxpayers receive for different kinds of retirement income.

Answers to Exercises

1. Janice Rutledge's tax-free and taxable parts of her annuity are figured as follows:

Total payments for 1990 ($725 × 12 months)	$8,700
Multiply by exclusion percentage (15.3%)	× .153
Tax-free part of annuity	$1,331
Taxable part ($8,700 − $1,331)	$7,369

2. Gilbert Owens' tax-free and taxable parts of his pension are figured as follows:

Total payments for 1990 ($670 × 9 months)	$6,030
Multiply by exclusion percentage (14.8%)	× .148
Tax-free part of pension	$892
Taxable part ($6,030 − $892)	$5,138

Lesson 4

Taxable Social Security Benefits

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Use the social security benefits worksheet in the Form 1040 or Form 1040A instructions to figure any social security benefits or equivalent railroad retirement benefits that the taxpayer must report as taxable income.
2. Report on Form 1040 or Form 1040A any taxable part of the benefits.

Reportable Social Security Benefits

Using the Worksheet

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

Social security and equivalent railroad retirement benefits received during the year may be taxable in part, for some taxpayers. As a volunteer you may have to figure the taxable part of the following benefits for some taxpayers you meet:

- Monthly benefits under title II of the Social Security Act. These benefits include old age, survivors', disability, and insurance benefits, and some worker's compensation benefits.
- Equivalent tier 1 railroad retirement benefits. For a full explanation of these benefits, refer to Publication 915, Social Security Benefits and Equivalent Railroad Retirement Benefits. (Tier 2 and non-equivalent tier 1 railroad retirement benefits are treated as a pension or annuity and are discussed in Module IV, Lesson 3.)

Note: A tier 1 railroad retirement benefit is divided into two parts for federal income tax purposes: an amount that is equivalent to a social security benefit and an amount that is treated like a private pension or annuity (similar to a tier 2 railroad retirement benefit). This lesson discusses only the social security equivalent part and, wherever a tier 1 benefit is mentioned, it refers only to that part.

Reportable Social Security Benefits

For both kinds of benefits you will make the same computations and use a worksheet to figure how much, if anything, to report as taxable income. The worksheet, which is in the Form 1040 and Form 1040A instructions, and this discussion generally refer to both kinds of benefits as social security benefits.

* A taxpayer may file either Form 1040A or Form 1040 if any social security benefits are taxable. The total net benefits received are reported on Form 1040 on line 21a and the taxable part is reported on line 21b, and on Form 1040A on lines 13a and 13b. Most taxpayers you meet will not have enough income for any of their social security benefits to be taxable.

The taxpayer will have received a statement from the payer, which shows the benefits received. For social security benefits the statement is Form SSA-1099, Social Security Benefit Statement. Along with Form SSA-1099, the taxpayer will receive IRS Notice 703. This notice contains a worksheet that will help you determine if part of the taxpayer's social security benefits may be taxable. Notice 703 should not be mailed to the IRS or to the Social Security Administration; it should be kept along with the taxpayer's personal records. For equivalent railroad retirement benefits the statement is Form RRB-1099, Statement for Recipients of Payments by the Railroad Retirement Board. If a taxpayer received the other portion of tier 1 benefits, these will appear on a pension statement, generally a Form RRB-W-2P. Be sure to examine the statements carefully to make certain you are using the correct figures on the social security benefit worksheet.

The benefits, to the extent they are taxable, are includible in the income of the person who has the legal right to receive them. This person's name is the one that appears on Form SSA-1099. A child's Form SSA-1099 income is not reported by the parents on their tax return.

Example

Amy Stone, the dependent adopted child of Jim and Alice Hood, received $1,200 in survivor social security benefits during 1990. Amy's other income for the year consisted of $3,000 she earned from her summer job and $400 in interest income. The Hoods will not include Amy's social security benefits on their return. When Amy completes her own return, however, she will complete the worksheet to see whether any of her social security benefits are taxable.

Note: When completing the worksheet in the Form 1040 or Form 1040A instructions or the one in Notice 703, always enter on line 1 of the worksheet the amount from Box 5 of Form SSA-1099 or Form RRB-1099—net benefits. Do not enter the amount from Box 3.

Lump-sum benefit payments. Some taxpayers may have received a lump-sum benefit payment in 1990 that is attributable to both 1990 and an earlier year (or years). These taxpayers have the choice of reporting the whole payment in 1990, the year in which it was received, or of spreading back the payment over the years to which it is attributable. If they make the latter choice, you must use the worksheets in Publication 915, Social Security Benefits and Equivalent Railroad Retirement Benefits, to figure the taxable part (if any) of the lump-sum payment that is attributable to each of the years involved. Publication 915 also includes a walk-through example that shows you how to figure the taxable part of a lump-sum benefit payment, as well as more information on this type of payment. If you find this situation too complicated, refer the taxpayer to a professional preparer.

Using the Worksheet

The taxable part of social security benefits for 1990 will not be more than 50% of the benefits the taxpayer received. The computation on the worksheet may reduce the taxable part even more. The worksheet has built into it all the steps that you will need to figure the taxable part of a person's social security benefits.

The following examples and exercises will give you practice in seeing how to use the worksheet and how to report social security income on Form 1040. The same steps are followed in using Form 1040A.

Example

Douglas A. and Kay Mercer file a joint return. The amounts in the Income section of their Form 1040 add up to $36,500 (lines 7 through 20, and 22). In lines 24 through 29 of the Adjustments to Income section on the Mercers' Form 1040, they have $560 as a deduction for contributions to Kay's IRA (line 24b). Mr. Mercer's Form SSA–1099, the Mercers' social security worksheet, and lines 21a and 21b from their Form 1040 are shown here (Exhibits 1, 2, and 3).

8. Subtract line 7 from line 6. Enter the result, but not less than zero . . . 8. 6,990.-

- If line 8 is zero, stop here. None of your benefits are taxable. Do not enter any amounts on lines 21a or 21b. But if you are married filing a separate return and you did not live with your spouse at any time in 1990, enter -0- on line 21b. Be sure you entered "D" on the dotted line next to line 21a.
- If line 8 is more than zero, go to line 9.

9. Divide the amount on line 8 above by 2 . . . . 9. 3,495.-

10. Taxable social security benefits.

- First, enter on Form 1040, line 21a, the amount from line 1 above.
- Then, compare the amounts on lines 2 and 9 above. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here and on Form 1040, line 21b 10. 3,050.-

Note: If part of your benefits are taxable for 1990 AND they include benefits paid in 1990 that were for an earlier year, you may be able to reduce the taxable amount shown on the worksheet. Get Pub. 915 for details.

Example

Melvin Hunt is married and lives with his wife, but the Hunts file separate returns. The income on Mr. Hunt's return is $4,800 before he considers his equivalent tier 1 benefits. He also had $500 in tax-exempt interest income. He had no adjustments to income, so he files Form 1040A. Mr. Hunt's Form RRB–1099, his worksheet, and lines 13a and 13b from his Form 1040A are shown here (Exhibits 4, 5, and 6).

Note: Although not included in total income, any tax-exempt interest received during the tax year must be shown on line 8b, Form 1040 or Form 1040A. See Module III, Lesson 3, for more information.

Note: If part of your benefits are taxable for 1990 and they include benefits paid in 1990 that were for a prior year, you may be able to reduce the taxable amount shown on the worksheet. Get Pub. 915 for details.

Example

Vicki Allen is a head of household. The income on her return is $12,725 before she considers her social security benefits, and she received no tax-exempt interest. Ms. Allen's only adjustment to income is a $200 penalty on early withdrawal of savings (line 28, Form 1040). Her Form SSA–1099, her worksheet, and lines 21a and 21b from her Form 1040 are shown here (Exhibits 7, 8, and 9). Notice that a head of household or a qualifying widow(er), like a single person, would check box A on the worksheet. Notice also that if Ms. Allen did not have the early withdrawal penalty, she might be able to use Form 1040EZ or Form 1040A instead of Form 1040.

Summary

Some people who receive social security income must report part of it as taxable income. For this purpose, social security benefits include a social security equivalent part of tier 1 railroad retirement benefits as well as amounts received under title II of the Social Security Act. The payer of the benefits will have sent the taxpayer a statement of the taxpayer's benefits. By using this statement and the worksheet in the Form 1040 or Form 1040A instructions (or the worksheets in Publication 915, if the taxpayer has received a lump-sum benefit payment), you will be able to figure how much, if any, of the taxpayer's social security benefits to include in taxable income.

Presidential Election Campaign Fund (see page 15)

Do you want $1 to go to this fund? ☐ Yes ☐ No

If joint return, does your spouse want $1 to go to this fund? ☐ Yes ☐ No

Note: Checking "Yes" will not change your tax or reduce your refund.

Step 2

Check your filing status

(Check only one.)

1 ☐ Single. (See page 16 to find out if you can file as head of household.)

2 ☐ Married filing joint return (even if only one had income)

3 ☐ Married filing separate return. Enter spouse's social security number above and spouse's full name here ▶ __________

4 ☐ Head of household (with qualifying person). (See page 16.) If the qualifying person is your child but not your dependent, enter this child's name here ▶ __________

5 ☐ Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child (year spouse died ▶ 19 ____). (See page 17.)

If more than 7 dependents, see page 20.

6a ☐ Yourself If someone else (such as your parent) can claim you as a dependent on his or her tax return, do not check box 6a. But be sure to check the box on line 18b on page 2.

6b ☐ Spouse

No. of boxes checked on 6a and 6b ____

c Dependents:

1. Name (first, initial, and last name)	2. Check if under age 2	3. If age 2 or older, dependent's social security number	4. Relationship	5. No. of months lived in your home in 1990

Module IV

Lesson 5

Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Determine who may claim the credit for the elderly or the disabled.
2. Complete Schedule R and Schedule 3 (Form 1040A).

Contents

Introduction

Who May Take the Credit

Completing Schedule R and Schedule 3 (Form 1040A)

Summary

Answers to Exercises

Introduction

This lesson explains a tax credit that can be claimed by some elderly and some disabled taxpayers. The credit is based on filing status, age, and income. To claim the credit, qualifying taxpayers may file Form 1040 and attach a completed Schedule R, Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled, or file Form 1040A and completed Schedule 3. In this lesson, use of the Form 1040 will be discussed. One illustration of the Form 1040A and Schedule 3 is included at the end of the lesson.

Who May Take the Credit

Taxpayers who are age 65 or over at the end of the year may qualify for the credit.

If a taxpayer is under age 65, all of the following tests must be met:

1. The taxpayer retired on permanent and total disability on the date he or she retired, or if the taxpayer retired before January 1, 1977, he or she was permanently and totally disabled on January 1, 1976, or January 1, 1977.
2. The taxpayer received taxable disability income for 1990.
3. On January 1, 1990, the taxpayer had not reached the mandatory retirement age required by his or her employer.

Permanent and Total Disability

A person is permanently and totally disabled when:

1. The person cannot engage in any substantial gainful activity because of a physical or mental condition, and
2. A physician determines that the disability has lasted or can be expected to last continuously for at least a year, or can be expected to lead to death.

The taxpayer must have previously filed a physician's statement, or if this is the first year of disability, file a physician's statement with the return. All taxpayers claiming this credit because of disability must complete Part II of Schedule R of Form 1040 or Part II of Schedule 3 (Form 1040A).

Example

Tom Snyder, age 34, a construction worker, receives disability pay. His condition prohibits him from doing any substantial gainful activity. His doctor has advised him that surgery will correct this condition and he will be able to resume working within 12 months. Mr. Snyder cannot take the credit on Schedule R.

Disability Income

Disability income is the total amount the taxpayer receives under his or her employer's accident and health plan or pension plan. These payments must be included in income as wages, or payments in lieu of wages (such as payments from a pension plan), for the time the taxpayer is absent from work because of permanent and total disability. Disability income does not include a lump-sum payment for accrued annual leave received by the taxpayer when he or she retired on disability.

Prior to minimum retirement age, the taxpayer's disability income will be reported as wages on Form W-2. This amount must be entered on line 7, Form 1040 (or Form 1040A). After the taxpayer reaches the minimum retirement age set by his or her employer, disability income is reported on Form W-2P and is entered on line 17a and line 17b, Form 1040 (lines 11a and 11b of Form 1040A). The taxable amount will be shown in box 10, Form W-2P, unless the payer was unable to determine the taxable amount.

If the taxpayer received a Form W-2P, check box 14, Distribution Code, to see if the amount reported actually is a disability income distribution. The code number for disability income is 5553. If box 14 is blank, the taxpayer has received a normal retirement distribution that does not qualify as disability income. If another code number is shown, refer the taxpayer to a professional tax preparer. If box 14 is blank and the taxpayer states that it is disability income, refer the taxpayer to the employer or payer.

Limits on the Credit

There are certain limitations on this credit as follows:

1. The amount of credit cannot exceed the tax liability.
2. Only U.S. citizens or residents may claim the credit.
3. Married taxpayers generally must file a joint return to claim the credit. However, if a taxpayer lived apart from his or her spouse all year, the credit may be claimed on a separate return. A married taxpayer who qualifies as head of household as explained in Module II, Lesson 3, may claim the credit using the head of household filing status.
4. Taxpayers cannot exceed the income limits for their filing status as shown in the following chart. On a joint return, the income limits apply to the combined income of both spouses.

This chart shows the maximum income allowed for the credit. A taxpayer may have less than both amounts shown on the chart and still not qualify for the credit because of further adjustments to income.

	Income limits
Filing status	Nontaxable social security and other nontaxable pensions must total less than:	and	Adjusted gross income is less than:
Single, head of household, or qualifying widow(er)	$5,000		$17,500
Married, filing joint return, one spouse eligible for credit	$5,000		$20,000
Married, filing joint return, both spouses eligible for credit	$7,500		$25,000
Married, filing separately, spouses lived apart all year	$3,750		$12,500

Figuring the Credit

The credit is computed by following the line-by-line instructions on Schedule R or Schedule 3. However, you may find it helpful to understand how the credit is figured.

Base Amount

To figure the credit, you must start with a base amount. The base amount generally is the same as the nontaxable social security and other nontaxable pensions shown on the income limits chart. However, there are further restrictions for the base amount if the taxpayer is a qualified individual under age 65, as follows:

1. Single (including head of household and qualifying widow(er)), receives less than $5,000 of disability income, the base amount is limited to the amount of disability income.

2. Married, filing joint return, both spouses under age 65 and disabled, and their combined disability income is less than $7,500, the base amount is limited to the amount of their combined disability income.

3. Married, filing joint return, one spouse is age 65 or older and the other spouse is disabled and under 65, the base amount is $5,000 plus the disability income of the spouse under 65, but limited to a total of $7,500.

Reduced Base Amount

The base amount must be reduced by the amount of nontaxable social security and nontaxable pensions received. For a complete discussion of these payments, see Publication 17, or Publication 524, Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled.

Adjusted Gross Income Limit

The base amount used to figure the credit is reduced by one-half of the excess adjusted gross income. The excess adjusted gross income is the amount that exceeds the following:

Single	$ 7,500
Married, filing joint return	$10,000
Married, filing separate return	$ 5,000

After these adjustments are made, the balance is the amount upon which the credit of 15% is figured.

Example

John Ash is 68 years old and single. He received nontaxable social security benefits of $3,120. His adjusted gross income is $8,060. John's credit is figured as follows:

Base amount		$5,000
Less: Nontaxable social security	$3,120
One-half excess adjusted gross income [($8,060–$7,500) ÷ 2]	280	3,400
Credit computation amount		$1,600
Credit (15% of $1,600)		$ 240

Example

Bob and Ellen Sterling file a joint return. Bob is 66 years old and Ellen is 64. Ellen does not qualify for the credit. They received $3,200 of nontaxable social security benefits. Their adjusted gross income is $9,630. The Sterlings' credit is figured as follows:

Base amount		$5,000
Less: Nontaxable social security	$3,200
Excess adjusted gross income ($9,630–$10,000)	0	3,200
Credit computation amount		$1,800
Credit (15% of $1,800)		$ 270

Example

Richard Graves is single, 58 years old, and retired on permanent and total disability. He received nontaxable social security benefits of $3,000 and a taxable disability pension of $8,400. His adjusted gross income is $8,500. Richard's credit is figured as follows:

Base amount		$5,000
Taxable disability pension		$8,400
Smaller of these amounts		$5,000
Less: Nontaxable social security	$3,000
One-half excess adjusted gross income [($8,500–$7,500) ÷ 2]	500	3,500
Credit computation amount		$1,500
Credit (15% of $1,500)		$ 225

Example

Bill and Helen White file a joint return. Both are under 65 years of age and both are retired on permanent and total disability. Bill received nontaxable social security benefits of $3,000 and a taxable disability pension of $6,000. Helen received a taxable disability pension of $1,000. Their adjusted gross income is $16,200. The Whites' credit is figured as follows:

Base amount		$7,500
Taxable disability income		$7,000
Smaller of these amounts		$7,000
Less: Nontaxable social security	$3,000
One-half excess adjusted gross income [($16,200–$10,000) ÷ 2]	3,100	6,100
Credit computation amount		$ 900
Credit (15% of $900)		$ 135

Exercise 1

The taxpayers below ask you to prepare a Schedule R for them. Using the chart shown earlier under Limits on the Credit, determine if you should even consider the Schedule R for each taxpayer.

a. Carmen Atoka is 38 years old, an unmarried head of household, and two years ago retired from the army on total disability. She received a nontaxable veterans' pension of $6,000. Her adjusted gross income is $6,330.

Answer

b. John and Mary Higgins are both at least 65 years old. They file a joint return on which they show an adjusted gross income of $10,000. Their total nontaxable social security benefits are $7,000.

Answer

c. Donna Emery is 71 years old and was widowed three years ago. Her adjusted gross income is $18,000. She did not receive any nontaxable benefits.

Answer

d. William Nye lived with his spouse for only two months last year. He is filing a separate return on which he reports an adjusted gross income of $5,000. He is 69 years old, retired, and received railroad retirement benefits of $2,000.

Answer

Completing Schedule R and Schedule 3 (Form 1040A)

Schedule R is the form used to claim the credit for the elderly or the disabled. (Schedule 3 of Form 1040A is virtually identical to Schedule R, and is illustrated in Exhibits 9 and 10 at the end of this lesson.) This form has three parts. Part I and Part III must be completed by all taxpayers. Part II must be completed only by disabled taxpayers who are under age 65. If the taxpayer filed a physician's statement for disability for 1983 or an earlier year, or filed one for a disability after 1983, and the physician checked box B, Part II does not have to be completed. However, the taxpayer must mark the box after item 2 in Part II. In Part I, enter information regarding the taxpayer's age and filing status. The single filing status on Schedule R is also used by taxpayers filing as head of household or qualifying widow(er).

Example

Phyilis E. Nolan is 42 and single. Her SSN is 222-00-2222. Her adjusted gross income on Form 1040, line 31, is $11,800. She retired in 1987 with a permanent and total disability. In 1990 she received taxable disability benefits of $9,800. Her credit on Schedule R is $428, which she figures as follows:

Part I. Filing status and age. Ms. Nolan checked box 2 because she is single, under 65, and retired on permanent and total disability.

Part II. Physician's statement of permanent and total disability. Ms. Nolan submitted a physician's statement in 1987. She does not need to submit another statement. She does, however, check the box after item 2.

Part III. Credit computation.

Line 10. Ms. Nolan entered $5,000 as her base amount.
Line 11. She entered $9,800, her taxable disability benefits from line 7, Form 1040.
Line 12. $5,000 is the smaller of the base amount and the disability income.
Line 13. Ms. Nolan entered -0- because she did not receive any items listed here.
Line 14. $11,800 is Ms. Nolan's adjusted gross income from line 32, Form 1040.
Line 15. Ms. Nolan entered $7,500 because she is single.
Line 16. Her excess adjusted gross income is $4,300.
Line 17. $2,150 is half of $4,300.
Line 18. $2,150 is the total that must be subtracted from the base amount.
Line 19. $2,850 is the credit computation amount.
Line 20. Decimal amount used to figure the credit.
Line 21. $428 is the allowable credit (rounded to the closest dollar).

Ms. Nolan will enter her $428 credit on line 42 of her Form 1040, and it will reduce her tax liability. She will attach Schedule R to Form 1040. Ms. Nolan's Schedule R is shown here as Exhibits 1 and 2.

Summary

Some taxpayers who are age 65 or over, or who retired on permanent and total disability, may qualify for the credit for the elderly or the disabled. The credit generally is not available to taxpayers whose income is sufficiently high that social security or equivalent railroad retirement benefits are includible in income. When you are helping taxpayers, check to see if they qualify for this credit. For additional information about the credit, see Publication 17, or Publication 524, Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled.

Lesson 6

Tax on Child's Investment Income

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to determine:

1. Children to whom the tax discussed in this lesson applies.
2. The kinds of income treated as investment income.
3. The information needed to figure the tax.

How To Figure the Tax

Summary

Introduction

This lesson will explain which children are required to use their parents' tax rates to figure the tax on their returns. Also, it will explain which parents may elect to include their children's income on the parents' tax returns. The material in this chapter is provided only to familiarize you with this tax. It is considered to be beyond the scope of the VITA program. If a taxpayer is required to figure tax under this method, refer the taxpayer to Publication 929, Tax Rules for Children and Dependents, or to a professional tax preparer.

Children to Whom This Method Applies

A part of a child's investment income may be subject to tax at the parents' highest tax rate if:

1. The child is under age 14 at the end of the tax year,
2. The child's investment income is more than $1,000 for the year, and
3. Either of the child's parents is alive at the end of the year.

Investment Income

Investment income is all income that is not earned income. Earned income is salaries, wages, professional fees, and other amounts received as pay for work actually done.

Investment income is unearned income and includes interest, dividends, capital gains, rents, certain distributions from trusts, and any part of social security or pension payments that must be included in gross income on the return.

Source of investment income. Investment income subject to the tax on a child's investment income includes amounts produced by property transferred to the child and amounts produced by property purchased by the child. It does not matter when the property was transferred or who transferred the property to the child. Investment income also includes income produced by assets which the child obtained with his or her earned income (such as interest on a savings account into which the child deposited wages). Investment income produced by gifts given to the child under the Uniform Gift to Minors Act is also subject to the tax.

Nontaxable investment income. Any nontaxable investment income a child receives, such as tax-exempt interest, is not included in figuring the amount of his or her investment income for purposes of this tax.

Example

During 1990 Phil Black, age 13, received $600 in dividends, $2,100 in wages, taxable interest of $1,600, capital gains of $300, and tax-exempt interest of $100. Phil's 1990 investment income subject to the tax on a child's investment income is $2,500. The wages are earned income and not included in investment income because wages are pay for work actually done. The tax-exempt income is not included because it is nontaxable.

Information Needed To Figure the Tax

Taxpayers will need the following information to figure a child's tax on investment income.

1. Which parent's taxable income to use.
2. The parent's or parents' taxable income.
3. The social security number of the parent (or other person) who is listed first on the return that shows the taxable income to be used to figure the child's tax.
4. The net investment income of each of the parent's other children who must use Form 8615.

How To Figure the Tax

The tax is figured on Form 8615, Tax for Children Under Age 14 Who Have Investment Income of More Than $1,000. See Exhibit 1.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form. For children under age 14, investment income (such as taxable interest and dividends) over $1,000 is taxed at the parent's rate if the parent's rate is higher than the child's rate.

Do not use this form if the child's investment income is $1,000 or less. Instead, figure the tax in the normal manner on the child's income tax return. For example, if the child had $900 of taxable interest income and $200 of wages, Form 8615 is not required to be completed and the child's tax should be figured on Form 1040A using the Tax Table.

If the child's investment income is more than $1,000, use this form to see if any of the child's investment income is taxed at the parent's rate and, if so, to figure the child's tax. For example, if the child had $1,100 of taxable interest income and $200 of wages, complete Form 8615 and attach it to the child's Form 1040A.

Investment Income. As used on this form, "investment income" includes all taxable income other than earned income as defined on page 2. It includes income such as taxable interest, dividends, capital gains, rents, royalties, etc. It also includes pension and annuity income and income (other than earned income) received as the beneficiary of a trust.

Who Must File. Generally, Form 8615 must be filed for any child who was under age 14 on January 1, 1991, and who had more than $1,000 of investment income. If neither parent was alive on December 31, 1990, do not use Form 8615. Instead, figure the child's tax based on his or her own rate.

Note: The parent may be able to elect to report the child's investment income on his or her return. If the parent makes this election, the child will not have to file a return or Form 8615. For more details, see the instructions for Form 1040 or Form 1040A, or get Form 8814, Parent's Election To Report Child's Interest and Dividends.

Additional Information. For more information about the tax on investment income of children, please get Pub. 929, Tax Rules for Children and Dependents.

Step 1 Figure child's net investment income

1	Enter the child's investment income, such as taxable interest and dividend income (see the instructions). (If this amount is $1,000 or less, stop here; do not file this form.)	1
2	If the child DID NOT itemize deductions on Schedule A (Form 1040 or Form 1040NR), enter $1,000. If the child ITEMIZED deductions, see the instructions	2
3	Subtract the amount on line 2 from the amount on line 1. Enter the result. (If zero or less, stop here; do not complete the rest of this form but ATTACH it to the child's return.)	3
4	Enter the child's taxable income (from Form 1040, line 37; Form 1040A, line 22; or Form 1040NR, line 35)	4
5	Compare the amounts on lines 3 and 4. Enter the smaller of the two amounts here ▶	5

Step 2 Figure tentative tax based on the tax rate of the parent listed above

6	Enter the parent's taxable income (from Form 1040, line 37; Form 1040A, line 22; Form 1040EZ, line 5; or Form 1040NR, line 35). But if the parent transferred property to a trust, see the instructions	6
7	Enter the total, if any, of the net investment income from Forms 8615, line 5, of ALL OTHER children of the parent. (Do not include the amount on line 5 above.)	7
8	Add the amounts on lines 5, 6, and 7. Enter the total	8
9	Tax on the amount on line 8 based on the parent's filing status	9
10	Enter the parent's tax (from Form 1040, line 38; Form 1040A, line 23; Form 1040EZ, line 7; or Form 1040NR, line 36)	10

Amount of tax. If a child's income is subject to tax at the parents' rate, the child's tax will be the greater of:

1. The income tax on the child's taxable income figured at the child's rate, or
2. The total of:
   a. The tentative tax based on the parents' tax rate plus
   b. The income tax figured at the child's rate on the amount of the child's taxable income that remains after subtracting his or her net investment income.

The tentative tax based on the parents' tax rate and net investment income are explained in Publication 929.

Example

Susan A. Smith, age 10, has investment income of $1,600 in 1990 and no earned income. She had no adjustments to income so her adjusted gross income is also $1,600. Her parents, Sam E. and Sheila B. Smith, claim an exemption for her on their joint tax return. They have a total of 3 exemptions and taxable income of $32,000. Her SSN is 111-00-1111. Her parent's SSN is 222-00-2222.

Susan's standard deduction is limited to $500 because she has no earned income. Susan cannot claim an exemption on her return because her parents are able to claim an exemption for her on their return. She has no itemized deductions.

Susan's taxable income is $1,100—her total income, $1,600, minus her standard deduction, $500. The tax on Susan's taxable income from the Tax Table is $167. The tax she will pay, from line 18 of Form 8615, is $190.

The tax (from the Tax Table) on Susan's parents' taxabie income of $32,000 is $4,804. The tax on Susan's parents' taxable income when added to Susan's net investment income (line 8 of Form 8615) is $4,917. Susan's completed Form 8615 is shown in Exhibit 4.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form. For children under age 14, investment income (such as taxable interest and dividends) over $1,000 is taxed at the parent's rate if the parent's rate is higher than the child's rate.

Do not use this form if the child's investment income is $1,000 or less. Instead, figure the tax in the normal manner on the child's income tax return. For example, if the child had $900 of taxable interest income and $200 of wages, Form 8615 is not required to be completed and the child's tax should be figured on Form 1040A using the Tax Table.

If the child's investment income is more than $1,000, use this form to see if any of the child's investment income is taxed at the parent's rate and, if so, to figure the child's tax. For example, if the child had $1,100 of taxable interest income and $200 of wages, complete Form 8615 and attach it to the child's Form 1040A.

Investment Income. As used on this form, "investment income" includes all taxable income other than earned income as defined on page 2. It includes income such as taxable interest, dividends, capital gains, rents, royalties, etc. It also includes pension and annuity income and income (other than earned income) received as the beneficiary of a trust.

Who Must File. Generally, Form 8615 must be filed for any child who was under age 14 on January 1, 1991, and who had more than $1,000 of investment income. If neither parent was alive on December 31, 1990, do not use Form 8615. Instead, figure the child's tax based on his or her own rate.

Note: The parent may be able to elect to report the child's investment income on his or her return. If the parent makes this election, the child will not have to file a return or Form 8615. For more details, see the instructions for Form 1040 or Form 1040A, or get Form 8814, Parent's Election To Report Child's Interest and Dividends.

Inclusion of child's unearned income on parent's return

Parents may elect to include on their tax returns their children's unearned income. If the parents make this election, the children are not required to file a tax return. However, all of the following conditions must be met:

1. The child is under age 14 and has no earned income,
2. The child has gross income only from interest and dividends (including Alaska Permanent Fund Dividends),
3. The interest and dividend income is more than $500 and less than $5,000,
4. No estimated tax payments are made during the year in the name and social security number of the child, and
5. The child is not subject to backup withholding.

Taxpayers making this election should include in their income the gross income of their children which is more than $1,000. They must also pay an additional tax equal to the smaller of $75 or 15% of their child's income over $500. Finally, certain interest from specified private activity bonds is treated as an item of tax preference of the parent.

Example

Peter, age 11, received $2,500 in interest income. This is his only source of income and he is not subject to backup withholding. No estimated tax payments were made with his name or social security number. His parents elect to include Peter's income on their tax return instead of filing a return for him. Peter's parents include $1,500 of Peter's gross income on their tax return ($2,500 gross income minus $1,000). They also must include $75 (the smaller of $75 or 15% of $2,000 ($2,500 − $500)) tax on their return.

Note. A taxpayer electing this method of reporting his or her child's income should adjust his or her withholding or estimated tax payments accordingly to avoid paying interest and penalties.

Summary

In this lesson you have learned about the tax on the investment income of children under 14. You have also learned the kinds of income treated as investment income and the kinds of information needed to figure the tax on a child's investment income.

Module IV

Lesson 7

Estimated Tax and Underpayment of Estimated Tax

Objectives

At the end of this lesson you will be able to:

1. Determine who must pay estimated tax.
2. Determine who must pay the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax.
3. Determine who meets the exceptions to the penalty or who qualifies for a waiver of the penalty.
4. Complete Parts I and II, and Section A of Part III of Form 2210, Underpayment of Estimated Tax by Individuals and Fiduciaries.

Introduction

All taxpayers are required to pay each year's tax on a pay-as-you-go basis, either by having tax withheld on their wages or by paying estimated tax. For employed people, employers generally must withhold income tax and social security tax from the salaries they pay their employees. Withholding is based on the information employees provide on the Forms W-4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate, that they are required to give to their employers. People who have income that is not subject to tax withholding are personally responsible for estimating what their tax will be for the year and for paying installments during the year to cover the tax owed. Usually the installments are paid quarterly. Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals, is used for this purpose.

Taxpayers who do not pay enough tax during the year may owe a penalty for underpayment of estimated tax. The penalty is added to the tax due on the return. Taxpayers will not be charged a penalty, however, if they meet one of the exceptions explained later in this lesson. Form 2210, Underpayment of Estimated Tax by Individuals and Fiduciaries, is used to see if enough tax was prepaid and, if not, to figure the penalty.

* Beginning with 1990 tax returns, credit for payments of estimated taxes may be claimed on Form 1040A.

Estimated Tax

Estimated tax is the amount the taxpayer expects to owe for the year after subtracting the withheld federal income tax and credits that the taxpayer expects to claim.

Examples of income generally not subject to income tax withholding are interest, dividends, prizes, alimony, rent, and annuities. Individuals who sell personal assets (such as a house) for a profit, or who are subject to self-employment tax, may also have to pay estimated tax.

As a volunteer, you will advise taxpayers of the need to pay estimated tax and how to figure the amount they should pay. You should let taxpayers know that if they make estimated tax payments, they must file Form 1040 (line 56), or Form 1040A (line 28b), in order to claim their payments. They cannot claim estimated tax payments on Form 1040EZ.

Who Must Pay Estimated Tax

Generally, a taxpayer must pay estimated tax if he or she expects to owe, after withholding and credits, at least $500 in tax for 1991; and the taxpayer expects his or her withholding to be less than:

1. 90% of the tax shown on the 1991 tax return, or
2. 100% of the tax shown on the 1990 tax return (assuming the return covered all 12 months).

Married taxpayers may pay estimated tax either separately or jointly. How they pay estimated tax will not limit their choice of filing status when they file their returns for the year.

Example

John Owen is single and retired. He works part-time as an usher at a movie theater. He estimates his income for 1991 to be $12,421, which includes $3,500 from which there will be no withholding. He expects his estimated tax (his total tax minus withholding and credits) to be $525. His withholding will be less than 90% of the tax shown on his 1991 tax return or 100% of the tax shown on his 1990 tax return. Since Mr. Owen's estimated tax is at least $500, he is required to pay estimated tax.

Exercise 1

Victoria Camden is single and receives a yearly pension of $12,000, from which the payer withholds federal income tax. Ms. Camden's withholding has always covered her taxes in the past. For 1991, however, she will also have $480 in taxable income from an annuity from which no tax will be withheld. Ms. Camden expects to owe about $35 with her return. Must she pay estimated tax? Why?

Answer

How To Figure Estimated Tax

To figure estimated tax, the taxpayer must estimate his or her income, deductions, and credits for 1991, taking into account all available facts that will affect these items during the year. The 1990 return will be helpful it can be used as a starting point for estimating 1991 income and deductions. While estimates will seldom be the same as actual income and deductions on the return, they should be based on all the facts. Form 1040-ES contains a worksheet that will guide you in figuring the taxpayer's estimated tax.

Be sure to use the 1991 Tax Rate Schedules in the Form 1040-ES instructions when you figure the estimated tax.

Example

Lee Baldwin is single and expects his adjusted gross income for 1991 to be $32,000. After taking all of his deductions and credits into account, using the 1991 Tax Rate Schedule, he finds that his tax for 1991 will be $4,560. Based on his year-to-date withholding from wages, his total income tax withheld for 1991 should be $2,700. His liability, over and above his withholding, would be $1,860 ($4,560 minus $2,700). If he wishes to pay his entire estimated tax liability, he would pay $465 ($1,860 divided by 4) per installment. However, since he is required to pay only 90%, or $4,104 ($4,560 times .90), he need only pay $351 per installment ($4,104 minus $2,700 = $1,404 divided by 4).

Adjusting installments. Many taxpayers will have a change in income, deductions, credits, or exemptions during the year. Some taxpayers will have to start paying estimated tax later in the year. You should advise taxpayers to adjust each installment as their circumstances change.

The estimated tax installments being made during the year need not be in equal amounts unless the taxpayer receives his or her income evenly throughout the year.

When To Pay

Taxpayers do not have to make estimated tax payments until they receive income subject to estimated tax. For estimated tax purposes, the year is divided into four payment periods as shown in the first column of the chart below. For this reason, estimated taxes are usually paid in four installments. These installments are due April 15, June 15, September 15, and January 15 (of the following year). The number of installments a taxpayer must make is determined as follows:

Taxpayer becomes liable between:	Number of payments required:	Due date of first installment:
January 1–March 31	4	April 15
April 1–May 31	3	June 15
June 1–August 31	2	September 15
September 1–December 31	1	January 15

If any due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the payment is due on the next business day.

The payment due January 15 is not required if any tax due is paid and the return is filed by January 31. Taxpayers may pay all of their estimated tax by the due date of the first installment instead of paying their estimated tax in installments.

Farmers and fishermen—special rule. A special rule for when to pay estimated tax applies to farmers and fishermen. The rule applies if the taxpayer either:

- received at least two-thirds of his or her gross income for the preceding year from farming or fishing; or
- expects to receive at least two-thirds of his or her gross income for the current year from farming or fishing.

If the special rule applies, farmers and fishermen may choose to pay tax using any of the following schedules:

1. Installment payments on the same estimated tax schedule as other taxpayers,
2. Payment of the entire estimated tax by January 15 of the next year, or
3. Payment of the entire tax due, with Form 1040, if the taxpayer files by March 1 of the next year.

This special rule does not apply to farm employees. Their income is wages, and they must follow the same rules for estimated tax as taxpayers not engaged in farming activities.

How Much Estimated Tax To Pay

As mentioned earlier, taxpayers may pay the full amount of their estimated tax by the due date of the first installment or make equal installment payments (usually four) of their entire estimated tax. However, taxpayers may choose to pay in four equal installments the lesser of 90% of the tax they expect to show on their 1991 return or 100% of the tax shown on their 1990 return (if the return covered 12 months of the year).

Taxpayers whose income varies during the year may want to figure their annualized income installments and make installment payments of that amount during the year. You can use the worksheet and the instructions in Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax, to figure out their payments.

Be sure to caution taxpayers that, if they are not sure about the accuracy of their estimate, they may want to pay more than their annualized income installments or 90% of their estimate.

How To Pay

The payment-vouchers that come with Form 1040-ES are to be sent in with each payment. Each payment-voucher has the date when the voucher is due. Be sure to use the correct voucher. The taxpayer's name, address, social security number, and the amount of the payment are entered on the appropriate lines of the payment-voucher. The taxpayer's check or money order should have the taxpayer's social security number and "1991 Form 1040-ES" written on it.

If the taxpayer has been filing estimated tax returns, he or she should have been sent a Form 1040-ES package with the name, address, and social security number preprinted on the payment-vouchers. If the taxpayer has these preprinted forms, they should be used. If the taxpayer has not filed Form 1040-ES before, or if he or she has lost the preprinted forms, blank forms are available from the Internal Revenue Service.

A taxpayer who paid too much tax on his or her 1990 income tax return may choose to apply the overpayment to his or her estimated tax for 1991. If so, the taxpayer may apply all or part of the overpayment to any payment-voucher. The taxpayer should send the payment-voucher to the Internal Revenue Service only when making a payment.

Alternatives to Paying Estimated Tax

Taxpayers may be able to avoid making estimated tax payments. Wage earners may be able to cover tax on income not subject to withholding if they adjust their Forms W–4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate.

You can advise these taxpayers to adjust withholding by doing one or all of the following: decreasing the number of allowances claimed on Form W–4, line 4; requesting that an additional amount be withheld on Form W–4, line 5; or, if they are married, checking the box Married, but withhold at higher Single rate. In any case, you will need to determine how much tax will be due on the projected income, so the taxpayer can consult with his or her payroll office to make the correct adjustments.

Taxpayers should make sure that after adjusting their withholding they will not owe $500 or more in tax. Use Publication 919, Is My Withholding Correct for 1991?, to check withholding.

Taxpayers receiving a pension (excluding military pension) may adjust their withholding on Form W-4P, Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments. Armed Forces members receiving a military pension may only adjust their withholding on Form W-4.

Taxpayers who receive sick pay from an insurance company or other third-party payer may file Form W-4S, Request for Federal Income Tax Withholding From Sick Pay, to have income tax withheld.

Exercise 2

Given the following facts, determine if the taxpayers are liable for 1991 estimated tax and, if so, what other alternatives may be available.

a. Roger Scott, single, expects to have a total tax liability of $1,950 for 1991. His withholding from wages will be $1,570.

Answer

b. Paula Osborne receives a fully taxable pension. The Tax Rate Schedule shows that her 1991 tax will be $694. She elected to have no tax withheld on the pension. She is single, has no credits, and will not itemize deductions.

Answer

Exercise 3

Mark Summers comes into your office in February. He tells you that he cashed Series EE bonds in January. He has not previously reported any of the interest on the bonds. He estimates his total tax for 1991 to be $2,080. He will have $1,300 of withholding for the year. Does he have to make estimated tax payments? How much would he need to pay in each installment to cover his total estimated tax liability for 1991?

Answer

Exercise 4

Joe Weber is single. In 1991 he earns $14,000, from which tax is withheld. He also has interest income of $480. He expects to owe $223 with his tax return. Is he required to pay estimated tax?

Answer

Required Annual Payment

The required annual payment and the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax are figured on Form 2210, Underpayment of Estimated Tax by Individuals and Fiduciaries. Refer taxpayers to Publication 505 or to a professional preparer if:

1. The taxpayer wishes to use the annualized income installment method to complete Section A of Part III of Form 2210. The annualized installment method is discussed later under Figuring the Underpayment.

2. The taxpayer wishes to have Section B of Part III of Form 2210 completed. That section is used to figure the penalty. However, in most cases the Internal Revenue Service will figure the penalty. See IRS will figure the penalty, under Figuring the Penalty, later.

If the taxpayer did not pay at least 90% of the total tax liability on his or her 1990 return, or 100% of the tax liability for 1989 (if the 1989 return covered a full 12 months), the taxpayer generally will be liable for a penalty. The taxpayer will not have to pay a penalty if he or she meets certain tests, explained later under Exceptions to the Penalty.

A Change To Note

In response to many requests to simplify Form 2210, IRS has developed a new Short Method to figure the penalty. To see if you can use the short method, read the instructions on this page. Then, if you can use it, complete only Parts I and II below.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 2210 to see if you owe a penalty for underpaying your estimated tax and, if you do, to figure the amount of the penalty.

If you prefer, IRS will figure the penalty for you and send you a bill. But see Lowering Your Penalty below. If you want IRS to figure the penalty for you, leave the penalty line on your return blank; do not file Form 2210.

Lowering Your Penalty

If any of the conditions below applies to you, you may be able to lower the amount of your penalty. But you must complete and attach Form 2210 to your tax return to do so. In the space next to the penalty amount on your tax return, you must write the letter (A, B, or C) that corresponds to any of the following conditions that applies to you.

A. You claim a waiver. See page 1 of the separate Instructions.

B. Your income varied during the year and you use the annualized income installment method to figure your required installment payments. See the instructions for line 20.

C. You had Federal income tax withheld from your wages and you treat it as being paid when it was actually withheld (instead of in four equal amounts). See the instructions for line 21.

Short Method

If you made estimated tax payments, you may use the short method only if:

- You paid your estimated tax in four equal amounts; and
- You paid your estimated tax on the due dates.

You may also use the short method if you made no payments at all, or your only credit for payment was due to Federal income tax withholding.

Note: If you made estimated tax payments, the short method will give the precise penalty amount only if your payments were made exactly on the due dates. If any payment was made early, using the short method may cause you to pay a larger penalty than the regular method. If the payment is only a few days early, the difference will generally be small.

Do not use the short method if you made any of your estimated tax payments late.

You must use the regular method if (B) or (C) under Lowering Your Penalty applies. But if (A) applies, and you meet the conditions above, you may use the short method.

Regular Method

Use the regular method to figure the penalty if you did not pay your estimated tax payments on the due dates or in four equal amounts. To use the regular method, complete Part I below and Part III on the back.

Part I Required Annual Payment—All filers must complete this part.

Complete Part I of Form 2210 to see if the taxpayer paid enough tax during the year. Do not complete Form 2210 if the taxpayer wishes to use the annualized income installment method to complete Part III of the form.

For you to complete Part I of Form 2210 correctly, the taxpayer must give you information about last year's tax as well as this year's tax. Do not try to complete it unless you have all the information you need.

There is a separate form for farmers and fishermen who meet the special rule discussed earlier. They must use Form 2210F, Underpayment of Estimated Tax by Farmers and Fishermen, to figure the underpayment, exceptions, and/or penalty.

Example

Paul Benton made estimated tax payments of $170 each on April 16, June 15, and September 15, 1990, and January 15, 1991. He filed his 1990 tax return on April 15, 1991, showing a total tax of $730. Since each of his payments is more than 90% of one-fourth of his total tax for the year, Paul is not subject to an estimated tax penalty.

Example

John E. Carlton's withheld tax for 1990 was less than 90% of his tax liability. His tax liability is $1,896 for 1990 and $1,224 for 1989. He has $1,230 withholding for 1990. Since his 1990 withholding exceeds his 1989 tax liability, John is not subject to a penalty. His SSN is 444-00-4444. His Form 2210, Parts I and II, is shown in Exhibit 4.

Form 2210 (1990)

Short Method for Figuring the Penalty

* Beginning in 1990, a taxpayer may be able to use the short method in Part II of Form 2210 to figure the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax. For taypayers who qualify to use this method, it will result in the same penalty amount as the regular method, but with fewer computations.

Taxpayers can use the short method only if they meet one of the following requirements.

1. They made no estimated tax payments for 1990.
2. They paid estimated tax on all four due dates in equal installments. They must have paid the same amount on each of the following dates:
   April 15 or 16, 1990,
   June 15, 1990,
   September 15, 16, or 17, 1990, and
   January 15, 1991.

If any payment was made early, using the short method may result in a larger than necessary penalty. If the payment is only a few days early, the difference will generally be small.

If the taxpayer does not meet either requirement, figure the underpayment using the regular method in Part III of Form 2210.

If using the short method, the annualized income installment method cannot be used. Also, the taxpayers cannot use the actual income tax withheld from their pay during each payment period to figure payments for each period. These methods, which may give a smaller penalty amount, are explained later under Regular Method for Figuring the Underpayment.

Completing Part II. First figure the underpayment of estimated tax (line 16) by subtracting the total of withholding and estimated tax payments (line 15) from the required annual payment (line 12). Then figure the penalty owed if the underpayment had remained unpaid up to the due date for the income tax return, April 15, 1991. This amount (line 17) is the maximum estimated tax penalty on the underpayment.

Next figure any part of the maximum penalty not owed because the underpayment was paid before the due date of the return (line 18). For example, if the 1990 return was filed and the tax balance was paid on April 1, 1991, the taxpayer does not owe the penalty for the 14-day period from April 2 through April 15. Therefore, figure the amount to enter on line 18 using 14 days.

Finally, subtract from the maximum penalty amount any part not owed. The result (line 19) is the penalty owed. Enter that amount on line 67 of Form 1040, or line 33 of Form 1040A.

Regular Method for Figuring the Underpayment

Use Section A of Part III of Form 2210 (Exhibit 3) to see whether the taxpayer underpaid tax for any of the four payment periods during the year. Pay particular attention to the following lines:

Line 20. If the taxpayer's income varied over the year, especially if he or she received large or unexpected amounts that were not subject to withholding, you should suggest to the taxpayer that the annualized income installment method may lower the amount of, or eliminate, the taxpayer's underpayment. Refer the taxpayer to Publication 505 or to a professional preparer.

Line 21. Unless it can be shown otherwise, treat withheld federal income tax and excess social security or railroad retirement tax as if one-fourth was paid on each payment date. Be sure to include any overpayment of tax from the taxpayer's 1989 return that he or she elected to apply to 1990 estimated tax. If the taxpayer files the 1990 return by January 31, 1991, and pays the tax due with the return, include the amount of the tax paid with the return on this line. There will be no penalty for the installment due January 15, 1991.

Line 27. If there is an underpayment on this line, see if the taxpayer meets one of the exceptions or waivers discussed under Exceptions to the Penalty.

Exceptions to the Penalty

There are two exceptions. Taxpayers will not have to pay the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax or file Form 2210 if:

- The total tax shown on their return minus the amount paid through withholding is less than $500. To determine whether the total tax is less than $500, use lines 1 through 16 in Parts I and II of Form 2210.
- They had no tax liability last year, were United States citizens or residents for the entire year, and their return covered a period of 12 months (or would have covered a period of 12 months if a return had been required to be filed).

A taxpayer need meet only one of these exceptions.

The penalty may be waived if:

- An underpayment results from a casualty, disaster, or other unusual circumstance and the penalty would be inequitable.
- The taxpayer retired in 1989 or 1990 after reaching age 62 or became disabled and the underpayment was due to a reasonable cause.

To claim the waiver, complete Part I and Section A of Part III up to line 27. Write "AMOUNT WAIVED" and the amount on the dotted line to the left of line 27 of Form 2210. Then on the dotted line to the left of line 67 of Form 1040 or line 33 of Form 1040A, write "WAIVER". An explanation must be attached to the Form 2210. See Publication 505 for more information.

Figuring the Penalty

The penalty for underpayment of estimated tax for any installment is figured using Section B of Part III of Form 2210. Do not complete this section. Refer the taxpayer to Publication 505 or to a professional preparer.

IRS will figure the penalty. Taxpayers may have the Internal Revenue Service figure the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax. If the taxpayer chooses to have the Internal Revenue Service figure the penalty, do not attach Form 2210. The Internal Revenue Service will figure the penalty and send a bill. If the taxpayer requests a waiver, as explained under Exceptions to the Penalty, Form 2210 must be completed and attached to the return.

The Internal Revenue Service will not figure the penalty if the taxpayer wishes to use the annualized installment method to complete Section A of Part III of Form 2210. Refer the taxpayer to Publication 505 or to a professional preparer.

Summary

You have now learned who must pay estimated tax, when a taxpayer must pay, how to prepare the worksheet and payment-vouchers for Form 1040-ES, the special rules that apply to farmers and fishermen, and what the alternatives are to paying estimated tax.

You have also learned when a penalty can be assessed for underpayment of estimated tax, what the exceptions and waivers to the penalty are, and how to complete Parts I and II, and Section A of Part III of Form 2210.

Answers to Exercises

1. No; the tax due is expected to be only $35.
2. a. No; estimated tax due is $380, which is less than $500.
   b. Yes; estimated tax due is at least $500. As an alternative, Paula may elect to file Form W-4P with the payer of the pension and have tax withheld.
3. Yes; each installment would be $195. His expected total liability of $2,080, less $1,300 withheld, yields his estimated tax due of $780.
4. No; the tax due is expected to be less than $500.

Introduction

The federal income tax is a pay-as-you-go tax. Taxpayers must pay the tax as they earn or receive income during the year. There are two ways to pay: either by withholding, which we will cover in this lesson, or by estimated tax (discussed in Module IV, Lesson 7).

For the employer to determine the correct amount of federal income tax to withhold, each employee must give a signed and dated Form W–4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate, to the employer on or before starting employment. This certificate is effective upon the first payment of wages and lasts until the employee files a new Form W–4. Taxpayers with income from annuities, pensions, and certain other deferred compensation plans should use Form W–4P to notify payers whether income tax is to be withheld and on what basis.

In this lesson, your main references are Form W–4, Form W–4P, Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax, and Publication 919, Is My Withholding Correct for 1991?

Form W-4

Form W-4 is used to provide the employer with enough information to withhold the proper amount of tax that will correspond to the employee's total tax liability. This form includes three types of information that an employer uses to figure the proper withholding:

- Whether to withhold at the single or married rate.
- The number of withholding allowances the employee claims.
- Whether to withhold an additional amount.

The employee figures this information from worksheets that incorporate the number of allowances, adjustments, deductions, and credits that the employee will be allowed on his/her 1991 tax return.

Events may take place that will change these allowances, adjustments, deductions, and credits. When this happens, the employee may have to change his/her withholding allowances by submitting a new Form W-4. The original Form W-4 remains in effect until the employee changes it.

Note: The number of allowances the employee claims on Form W-4 does not affect the number of exemptions the employee takes later on his/her tax return.

The parts of Form W-4 that the employee and you will use are the:

1. Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate.
2. Instructions.
3. Worksheets to figure withholding allowances.
4. Tables for the worksheet.

PROOF COPY

This form requires various items of information, including the number of allowances the employee is claiming. The employee must sign and date the certificate.

The instructions provide basic information to help the employee complete the worksheets and the certificate. To determine the correct number of allowances, the employee must complete the Personal Allowances Worksheet and the other applicable worksheets.

If an employee has a working spouse or has more than one job, figure the total number of allowances that may be claimed on all jobs using worksheets from only one Form W-4. This total can be divided among all jobs. Withholding will usually be most accurate when all allowances are claimed on the Form W-4 certificate filed for the highest paying job and zero allowances are claimed for the others.

Personal Allowances Worksheet

All employees should complete the Personal Allowances Worksheet first.

A Enter "1" for yourself if no one else can claim you as a dependent . . . . A ______

B Enter "1" if:
  1. You are single and have only one job; or
  2. You are married, have only one job, and your spouse does not work; or
  3. Your wages from a second job or your spouse's wages (or the total of both) are $2,500 or less.
  . . . . B ______

C Enter "1" for your spouse. But, you may choose to enter "0" if you are married and have either a working spouse or more than one job (this may help you avoid having too little tax withheld) . . . . C ______

E Enter "1" if you will file as head of household on your tax return (see conditions under "Head of Household," above) . . E ______

F Enter "1" if you have at least $1,500 of child or dependent care expenses for which you plan to claim a credit . . F ______

G Add lines A through F and enter total here . . . . ▶ G ______

For accuracy, do all worksheets that apply.

- If you plan to itemize or claim adjustments to income and want to reduce your withholding, see the Deductions and Adjustments Worksheet on page 2.
- If you are single and have more than one job and your combined earnings from all jobs exceed $25,000 OR if you are married and have a working spouse or more than one job, and the combined earnings from all jobs exceed $44,000, see the Two-Earner/Two-Job Worksheet on page 2 if you want to avoid having too little tax withheld.
- If neither of the above situations applies to you, stop here and enter the number from line G on line 4 of Form W-4 below.

The personal allowances worksheet takes four factors into account:

1. One allowance corresponds to each exemption (personal and dependency) that the employee may claim on a tax return. Lines A, C, and D are for this purpose.
2. If the employee is eligible to file as a head of household, he/she can claim an additional allowance on line E.
3. If a taxpayer is eligible for the credit for child and dependent care expenses and the total expenses are expected to be at least $1,500, he/she can claim an additional allowance on line F.
4. A special allowance applies to certain employees. An employee can take one additional allowance on line B if the employee is:
    - Single with only one job, or
    - Married with one job and spouse does not work, or
    - Working a second job, or spouse works, and employee's wages from a second job or spouse's wages are $2,500 or less.

Example

George Bently is single and has two jobs. On his second job, he expects to make $1,750. He can claim the special allowance.

If certain conditions apply, the employee should also use one or both of the other Form W-4 worksheets. Read the information immediately following line G of the Personal Allowances Worksheet.

Deductions and Adjustments Worksheet

Employees who plan to itemize deductions or claim adjustments to income should complete this worksheet. The worksheet allows additional allowances for these items.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice.—We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. The Internal Revenue Code requires this information under sections 3402(f)(2)(A) and 6109 and their regulations. Failure to provide a completed form will result in your being treated as a single person who claims no withholding allowances. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, and the District of Columbia for use in administering their tax laws.

The time needed to complete this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping 46 min., Learning about the law or the form 10 min., Preparing the form 70 min. If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form more simple, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to both the Internal Revenue Service, Washington, DC 20224, Attention: IRS Reports Clearance Officer, T:FP; and the Office of Management and Budget, Paperwork Reduction Project (1545-0010), Washington, DC 20503. DO NOT send the tax form to either of these offices. Instead, see the instructions above for information on where to file.

Line 1 brings forward allowances from line G of the Personal Allowances Worksheet or line 10 of the Deductions and Adjustments Worksheet.

Lines 2–3 reduce the number of allowances.

Lines 4–9 figure an additional dollar amount to be deducted when necessary.

Completing Form W–4

After doing the worksheet(s), the employee can complete Form W–4. The employee should check to make sure the form is correct. Employers must send the IRS copies of Forms W–4 on which employees claimed more than 10 allowances. The IRS may ask these employees to verify their allowances. Employers must also send copies of Forms W–4 to the IRS for employees who have claimed exemption from withholding, and whose wages are expected to usually exceed $200 a week. These employees may be asked by the IRS to verify their exempt status.

Employees who are unable to verify what they have claimed may be subject to penalties.

How To Correct Allowances

After new employees have given employers their 1991 Form W–4, they should check to see if they are having enough tax withheld. After they have received their first paycheck, they can use Publication 919 as a guide to determine if they should make further changes to the Form W–4.

There are many instances where tax withheld based on allowances claimed on Form W–4 may not completely cover the tax liability. Advise employees that Publication 919 is available and that they should refer to it as early as possible to ensure that the correct amount is being withheld. The earlier in 1991 employees give their employers the new Form W–4, the more accurate their withholding should be. Remember, new W–4 forms should be submitted to correct allowances or whenever there is a need for extra withholding amounts.

Exercise 1

1. Kathy A. and Ray B. Tall are married and file jointly. They have two dependent children. Kathy recently started a new job which pays $35,000 a year. Ray does not work. They have no nonwage income and expect to have a total of $8,000 in itemized deductions. They do not expect to have any other income. They do not expect to claim any adjustments to income or credits. Kathy's SSN is 333-00-3333. Their address is 123 Elm St., Wayville, VA 60000. Complete the worksheets for Form W-4 (Exhibits 5 and 6).

Form W-4P

Form W-4P is used by recipients of income from annuities, pensions and certain other deferred compensation to notify payers whether income tax is to be withheld and on what basis. The amount withheld depends on whether the taxpayer receives payments spread out over more than one year (periodic payments) or whether the taxpayer receives all of the payments within one year (nonperiodic payments). Periodic payments and nonperiodic payments are discussed later in this lesson.

Unless a taxpayer chooses not to have any tax withheld, income tax will generally be withheld from distributions the taxpayer receives on his or her pension or annuity. This includes distributions from:

> A pension, annuity, or profit sharing plan.
>
> An individual retirement arrangement (IRA).
>
> A life insurance company under an endowment, annuity, or life insurance contract.
> A stock-bonus plan.

Exception: Retirement pay for service in the Armed Forces of the U.S. is generally treated in the same manner as wages and not as a pension or annuity for income tax purposes. Use Form W-4, not Form W-4P, if the taxpayer is receiving income from a military pension.

Periodic Payments

Payments that a taxpayer receives in installments at regular intervals over a period of more than a full year from the date of the pension or annuity are periodic payments. For the purpose of withholding, periodic payments of a pension or annuity are treated in the same way as salaries and wages. However, the withholding rules for pensions and annuities differ from those for salaries and wages in the following ways:

> If the taxpayer does not fill out a withholding certificate, tax will be withheld as if the taxpayer is married and is claiming three withholding allowances.
>
> A taxpayer can choose not to have tax withheld, regardless of how much tax he or she owed last year or expects to owe this year. See Election Not To Have Income Tax Withheld, later.
>
> If the taxpayer does not provide the payer his or her social security number (in the required manner) or the Internal Revenue Service notifies the payer, before any payment or distribution is made, that the taxpayer gave it an incorrect social security number, tax will be withheld as if the taxpayer is single and claiming no withholding allowances.

Nonperiodic Payments

Payments a taxpayer receives from distributions of pensions or annuities within one year, instead of over a period of more than one year, are nonperiodic payments. Income tax will be withheld at the rate of 10% on any nonperiodic payments a taxpayer receives, unless the payments are part of a "qualified total distribution."

A qualified total distribution is payment within one year of the taxpayer's entire interest in a pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or qualified annuity plan. Because the withholding rates for nonperiodic payments do not depend on withholding allowances or whether the taxpayer is married or single, Form W-4P is not used. However, a taxpayer can use Form W-4P to specify that an additional amount of tax be withheld. A taxpayer can also use Form W-4P to choose to have no tax withheld from nonperiodic payments or to revoke a choice to have no tax withheld.

Election Not To Have Income Tax Withheld

A taxpayer may choose to have no income tax withheld from his or her pension or annuity, whether the payments are periodic or nonperiodic (except for payments to U.S. citizens delivered outside the U.S. or its possessions). Check the box on line 1 of the Form W-4P to make this choice. This choice will remain in effect until the taxpayer decides he or she wants withholding.

Revoking the Election Not To Have Income Tax Withheld

A taxpayer who wants to revoke his or her previously filed exemption from withholding for periodic payments should file another Form W-4P with the payer. Write "Revoked" by the checkbox on line 1 of the form. In the case of periodic payments, tax will be withheld as if the taxpayer were married and claiming three allowances. However, if the taxpayer wants tax withheld at a different rate, complete line 2 of Form W-4P.

The parts of Form W-4P that the taxpayer and you will use are the:

1. Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments.
2. Instructions.
3. Worksheets to figure withholding allowances.
4. Tables for the worksheet.

This form requires various items of information, including the number of allowances the taxpayer is claiming. The taxpayer must sign and date the certificate.

The instructions provide basic information to help you and the taxpayer complete the worksheets and the certificate. To determine the number of allowances, the taxpayer must complete the "W-4P Worksheet To Figure Your Withholding Allowances."

If a taxpayer has more than one source of income or a working spouse, figure the total number of allowances that may be claimed from all sources using worksheets from only one Form W-4P. This total can be divided among all sources of income. Withholding will usually be most accurate when all allowances are claimed on the W-4P certificate filed for the highest source of income and zero allowances are claimed for the others.

Note: The number of allowances a taxpayer claims on Form W-4P does not affect the number of exemptions he or she takes later on his or her tax return.

Withholding Allowances Worksheet

All taxpayers should complete the "W-4P Worksheet To Figure Your Withholding Allowances" first.

- If neither of the above situations applies to you, stop here and enter the number from line F on line 2 of Form W-4P below.

The "W-4P Worksheet To Figure Your Withholding Allowances" takes these factors into account:

1. One allowance corresponds to each exemption (personal and dependency) that the taxpayer may claim on a tax return. Lines A, C, and D are for this purpose.

2. If the taxpayer is eligible to file as a head of household, he or she may claim an additional allowance on line E.

3. A special allowance applies to certain taxpayers. A taxpayer may take one additional allowance on line B if:

   He or she is single and has only one pension; or

   He or she is married, has only one pension, and his or her spouse has no income subject to withholding; or

   His or her income from a second pension or a job or his or her spouse's pension or wages (or the total of all) is $2,500 or less.

Example

Denise Mason is single. She receives income from a pension and also from a job. On her job, she expects to make $2,100. Denise can claim the special allowance.

If certain conditions apply, the taxpayer should use one or both of the other Form W-4P worksheets. Read the information immediately following line F of the "W-4P Worksheet To Figure Your Withholding Allowances."

Deductions and Adjustments Worksheet

Taxpayers who plan to itemize deductions or claim adjustments to income should complete this worksheet. The worksheet allows additional allowances for these items.

Exhibit 11

5. Add lines 3 and 4 and enter the total . . . 5 $________

6. Enter an estimate of your 1991 income not subject to withholding (such as dividends or interest income) . . . 6 $________

7. Subtract line 6 from line 5. Enter the result, but not less than zero . . . 7 $________

8. Divide the amount on line 7 by $2,000 and enter the result here. Drop any fraction . . . 8 ________

9. Enter the number from Form W-4P Worksheet, line F, on page 1 . . . 9 ________

10. Add lines 8 and 9 and enter the total here. If you plan to use the Multiple Pensions/More Than One Income Worksheet, also enter the total on line 1, below. Otherwise stop here and enter this total on Form W-4P, line 2 on page 1 . . . 10 ________

Lines 1–8 compute additional allowances based on deductions and adjustments, less income not subject to withholding.

Line 9 brings forward the allowances from the "W–4P Worksheet To Figure Your Withholding Allowances."

Line 10 shows the total allowances, unless the taxpayer uses the "Multiple Pensions/More Than One Income Worksheet."

Multiple Pensions/More Than One Income Worksheet

The taxpayer may use this worksheet if he or she (and his or her spouse if married filing a joint return) has more than one source of income subject to withholding (such as more than one pension, or a pension and a job, or has a pension and his or her spouse works). The taxpayer should use this worksheet only if the instructions after line F of the "W–4P Worksheet To Figure Your Withholding Allowances" apply. See Exhibit 10.

Line 1 brings forward allowances from line F of the "W–4P Worksheet To Figure Your Withholding Allowances," or line 10 of the "Deductions and Adjustments Worksheet."

Lines 2–3 reduce the number of allowances.

Lines 4–9 figure an additional dollar amount to be deducted when necessary.

If the taxpayer has a large amount of income from other sources not subject to withholding (such as interest, dividends, taxable social security, etc.), you should recommend that the taxpayer make estimated tax payments using Form 1040–ES. Estimated tax is discussed in Lesson 7 of this module.

Completing Form W-4P

After doing the worksheet(s), you can complete the taxpayer's Form W-4P. Fill out all the spaces corresponding to the name, address, social security number, and claim or identification number (if any) of the taxpayer's pension or annuity contract.

Line 1. Complete this line if the taxpayer elects not to have income tax withheld from his or her pension or annuity. See Election Not To Have Income Tax Withheld, earlier. If line 1 is checked, do not use lines 2 or 3. If a taxpayer wants to revoke his or her previously filed exemption from withholding for periodic payments, see Revoking the Election Not To Have Tax Withheld, earlier.

Line 2. Enter the number of allowances the taxpayer wants to use to figure the amount of tax to be withheld from each periodic pension or annuity payment. Check the appropriate marital status box.

Line 3. If the taxpayer wants to have an additional amount of tax withheld from his or her pension or annuity, enter the amount here.

Do not forget to ask the taxpayer to sign and date Form W-4P before filing it with the payer of his or her pension or annuity.

Exercise 3

Ron P. and Sandy Wilson are married and filing jointly. Their address is 215 Elm Ave., Anytown, FL 33130. They do not have dependents. Ron's SSN is 444–00–4443. Ron receives $24,000 a year from a fully taxable pension. They have no wage income and do not expect to have itemized deductions, have any other income, or claim any adjustments to income or credits. Complete Form W–4P for the Wilsons (Exhibit 13).

Summary

Employees must file a Form W-4 at the start of any new job and should submit a revised Form W-4 whenever their anticipated credits or deductions change. Those who want to ensure that the correct amount is being withheld should use Publication 919 after they receive their first paycheck for the year. Recipients of income from annuity, pension, and certain other deferred compensation plans should use Form W-4P to notify payers whether income tax is to be withheld and on what basis.

Mr. Rich started receiving $500 a month under his company's pension plan on January 3, 1989. He had not contributed to his pension plan. He told the company to withhold $150 income tax from each monthly payment. Mr. Rich also sold some stock in 1990. He sold 60 shares of NET stock on May 21, 1990, for $7,000 and paid a $225 selling commission. He had purchased the stock on June 14, 1989. His original purchase price for the NET stock was $150 per share. He sold 225 shares of TRO stock on June 14, 1990, for $20,000. On April 24, 1985, he had paid $90 a share for the TRO stock. His selling commission for the TRO stock was $100. His basis in the NET and TRO stocks has not changed.

Mr. Rich received social security benefits and tax-exempt interest. His tax-exempt interest income for the year is $8,000. He does not receive income from foreign sources, U.S. possessions, or Puerto Rico. His Form SSA-1099 is shown in Exhibit CP-2.

Problem 2

James B. and Leslie M. Tyler are filing a joint return. Mr. Tyler retired on disability in 1984 at age 54. He submitted at that time the physician's statement certifying that he is permanently and totally disabled. Mr. Tyler received $185 a week for the entire year in disability income. Mrs. Tyler was 61 at the end of 1990 and she received a fully taxable pension of $8,000, and lottery winnings of $3,000. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler both received interest income from certificates of deposit from FNB of Anytown totaling $4,000. They would like $2 to go the Presidential Election Campaign Fund.

The Tylers sold their home on December 1, 1990. The Tylers had owned and lived in the home for 20 years as their main home. Their adjusted basis was $50,000 and the house was sold for $215,000. Selling costs were $15,000. A condominium costing $80,000 was purchased on December 19, 1990, as a replacement home. Neither has excluded gain from the sale of a home in the past, but they would like to do so this year. Their address is 1050 Americana Dr., Anycity, FL 33000.

They did not use any rooms in their home for business or rent them out in either home. Jim's social security number is 987-00-4321 and Leslie's is 543-00-2111.

Complete Form 1040, lines 1 through 40, Schedules B and R, and Form 2119 (Exhibits CP-9 through CP-14) for the Tylers. (Note: Form 1040, line 32 shows the same amount as line 31.)

Schedule B—Interest and Dividend Income

Attachment Sequence No. 08

Part I Interest Income

(See Instructions on pages 13 and 30.)

If you received more than $400 in taxable interest income, or you are claiming the exclusion of interest from series EE U.S. savings bonds issued after 1989 (see page 30), you must complete Part I. List ALL interest received in Part I. If you received more than $400 in taxable interest income, you must also complete Part III. If you received, as a nominee, interest that actually belongs to another person, or you received or paid accrued interest on securities transferred between interest payment dates, see page 31.

Interest Income

			Amount
1	Interest income. (List name of payer—if any interest income is from seller-financed mortgages, see Instructions and list this interest first.) ▶	1
2	Add the amounts on line 1. Enter the total	2
3	Enter the excludable savings bond interest, if any, from Form 8815, line 14. Attach Form 8815 to Form 1040	3
4	Subtract line 3 from line 2. Enter the result here and on Form 1040, line 8a ▶	4

Note: If you received a Form 1099-INT, Form 1099-OID, or substitute statement, from a brokerage firm, list the firm's name as the payer and enter the total interest shown on that form.

Part III Figure the Amount of Your Credit

10 Enter: $5,000 if you checked the box on line 1, 2, 4, or 7 in Part I, OR
$7,500 if you checked the box on line 3, 5, or 6 in Part I, OR
$3,750 if you checked the box on line 8 or 9 in Part I. 10

Caution: If you checked the box on line 2, 4, 5, 6, or 9 in Part I, you MUST complete line 11 below. Otherwise, skip line 11 and enter the amount from line 10 on line 12.

11 If you checked the box on line 6 in Part I, enter on line 11 the taxable disability income of the spouse who was under age 65 PLUS $5,000. Otherwise, enter on line 11 your taxable disability income (and also your spouse's if you checked the box on line 5 in Part I) that you reported on Form 1040. (For more details on what to include, see the Instructions.) 11

12 If you completed line 11 above, compare the amounts on lines 10 and 11, and enter the smaller of the two amounts here. Otherwise, enter the amount from line 10 12

13 Enter the following pensions, annuities, or disability income that you (and your spouse if you file a joint return) received in 1990 (see Instructions):

a Nontaxable part of social security benefits; and Nontaxable part of railroad retirement benefits treated as social security 13a

b Nontaxable veterans' pensions; and Any other pension, annuity, or disability benefit that is excluded from income under any other provision of law 13b

c Add lines 13a and 13b. (Even though these income items are not taxable, they must be included to figure your credit.) If you did not receive any of the types of nontaxable income listed on line 13a or 13b, enter -0- on line 13c 13c

14 Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 32 14

15 Enter: $7,500 if you checked the box on line 1 or 2 in Part I, OR
$10,000 if you checked the box on line 3, 4, 5, 6, or 7 in Part I, OR
$5,000 if you checked the box on line 8 or 9 in Part I 15

16 Subtract line 15 from line 14. Enter the result. If line 15 is more than line 14, enter -0- 16

17 Divide the amount on line 16 by 2. Enter the result 17

18 Add lines 13c and 17. Enter the total 18

19 Subtract line 18 from line 12. Enter the result. If the result is zero or less, stop here; you cannot take the credit. Otherwise, go to line 21 19

20 Decimal amount used to figure the credit 20 × .15

21 Multiply the amount on line 19 by the decimal amount (.15) on line 20. Enter the result here and on Form 1040, line 42. Caution: If you file Schedule C, D, E, or F (Form 1040), your credit may be limited. See the instructions for line 21 for the amount of credit you can claim 21

Problem 4

George E. and Emma G. Brown had planned to work all year, but when they both reached age 65 in June 1990, they retired from their jobs. They live at 1325 Ash St., Centerville, IA 67125. George's SSN is 690–00–6543 and Emma's is 690–00–4567.

Mr. Brown's salary for the year was $6,000, and Mrs. Brown's salary was $5,000. After they retired, their fully taxable pensions totaled $6,000. They also received $3,000 in Social Security payments. They received $560 in interest from Hometown Bank, and $400 of tax-exempt interest on a Centerville H.O.C. bond. They had $440 of dividends on their Hometown Telephone Company stock. They made estimated tax payments of $250 and had $400 of withholding for the year. They did not have a state income tax refund from the previous year. They each want $1 to go to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund.

The Brown's have a granddaughter, Betsy R. Green, who is their dependent. Betsy is a United States citizen, 6 years old, and her SSN is 543–00–6420. She lived with the Browns all year and cannot be claimed as a dependent by anyone else. The Browns had her in a non-profit day-care facility before and after school each day through June. They did not receive any employer-provided child-care benefits. They paid $1,200 for this care to Community Day Care Center, 4200 Main St., Centerville, IA 67125. Complete all appropriate forms and worksheets related to Form 1040A for the Browns (Exhibits CP–22 through CP–29).

17 Enter the amount from line 16. 17

18a Check if: ☐ You were 65 or older ☐ Blind ☐ Spouse was 65 or older ☐ Blind Enter number of boxes checked ▶ 18a ☐

b If someone else (such as your parent) can claim you as a dependent, check here ▶ 18b ☐

c If you are married filing separately and your spouse files Form 1040 and itemizes deductions, see page 33 and check here ▶ 18c ☐

19 Enter your standard deduction. See page 34 for the chart (or worksheet) that applies to you. Be sure to enter your standard deduction here. 19

20 Subtract line 19 from line 17. (If line 19 is more than line 17, enter -0-.) 20

21 Multiply $2,050 by the total number of exemptions claimed on line 6e. 21

22 Subtract line 21 from line 20. (If line 21 is more than line 20, enter -0-.) This is your taxable income. ▶ 22

Step 7

Figure your tax, credits, and payments

(If you want IRS to figure your tax, see page 35.)

23 Find the tax on the amount on line 22. Check if from: ☐ Tax Table (pages 48–53) or ☐ Form 8615 (see page 36) 23

Schedule B—Interest and Dividend Income

Attachment Sequence No. 08

Part I Interest Income

(See Instructions on pages 13 and 30.)

If you received more than $400 in taxable interest income, or you are claiming the exclusion of interest from series EE U.S. savings bonds issued after 1989 (see page 30), you must complete Part I. List ALL interest received in Part I. If you received more than $400 in taxable interest income, you must also complete Part III. If you received, as a nominee, interest that actually belongs to another person, or you received or paid accrued interest on securities transferred between interest payment dates, see page 31.

Interest Income

			Amount
1	Interest income. (List name of payer—if any interest income is from seller-financed mortgages, see Instructions and list this interest first.) ▶

10	Subtract line 9 from line 6. Enter the result here and on Form 1040, line 9 ▶			10	400	-

If you received capital gain distributions but do not need Schedule D to report any other gains or losses, see the Instructions for Form 1040, lines 13 and 14.*

Note: If you received a Form 1099-DIV, or substitute statement, from a brokerage firm, list the firm's name as the payer and enter the total dividends shown on that form.

Part III Foreign Accounts and Foreign Trusts

If you received more than $400 of interest or dividends, OR if you had a foreign account or were a grantor of, or a transferor to, a foreign trust, you must answer both questions in Part III.

		Yes	No
11a	At any time during 1990, did you have an interest in or a signature or other authority over a financial account in a foreign country (such as a bank account, securities account, or other financial account)? (See page 31 of the Instructions for exceptions and filing requirements for Form TD F 90-22.1.)		X
b	If "Yes," enter the name of the foreign country ▶
12	Were you the grantor of, or transferor to, a foreign trust that existed during 1990, whether or not you have any beneficial interest in it? If "Yes," you may have to file Form 3520, 3520-A, or 926		X

Schedule B—Interest and Dividend Income

Attachment Sequence No. 08

Part I Interest Income

(See Instructions on pages 13 and 30.)

If you received more than $400 in taxable interest income, or you are claiming the exclusion of interest from series EE U.S. savings bonds issued after 1989 (see page 30), you must complete Part I. List ALL interest received in Part I. If you received more than $400 in taxable interest income, you must also complete Part III. If you received, as a nominee, interest that actually belongs to another person, or you received or paid accrued interest on securities transferred between interest payment dates, see page 31.

Interest Income

Note: If you received a Form 1099-INT, Form 1099-OID, or substitute statement, from a brokerage firm, list the firm's name as the payer and enter the total interest shown on that form.

			Amount
1	Interest income. (List name of payer—if any interest income is from seller-financed mortgages, see Instructions and list this interest first.) ▶	1

Part III Foreign Accounts and Foreign Trusts

(See Instructions on page 31.)

		Yes	No
	If you received more than $400 of interest or dividends, OR if you had a foreign account or were a grantor of, or a transferor to, a foreign trust, you must answer both questions in Part III.
11a	At any time during 1990, did you have an interest in or a signature or other authority over a financial account in a foreign country (such as a bank account, securities account, or other financial account)? (See page 31 of the Instructions for exceptions and filing requirements for Form TD F 90-22.1.)		X
b	If "Yes," enter the name of the foreign country ▶
12	Were you the grantor of, or transferor to, a foreign trust that existed during 1990, whether or not you have any beneficial interest in it? If "Yes," you may have to file Form 3520, 3520-A, or 926		X
